British Submarine Torpedoes 5 German Ships

RAIDS CONVOYS OFF NORWAY IN DARING ATTACKS

Nazi Bombers Range Far Over England.

LONDON, July 7 (AP).—Britons, dodging almost continuous air raids, tonight hailed the report that a British submarine had slipped thru the mine infested waters of the North sea, dodged planes and armed trawlers and torpedoed five German ships in convoys off the coast of Norway.

"The submarine Snapper [670 tons] sighted a convoy of supply ships escorted by an armed trawler and aircraft," the admiralty reported. "The Snapper attacked and hit two ships with torpedoes. The rest of the convoy scattered and made for the shelter of a fjord.

"Later the Snapper sighted a large convoy escorted by armed trawlers and aircraft. A successful attack was carried out and three ships were hit with torpedoes."

Many Raids on Britain.

At many points of Great Britain the earth shook with the blasts of high explosive and delayed fuse bombs which the Germans showered down on widespread areas. British fighter planes and antiaircraft guns shot down seven of the enemy in flames off the southeast coast. One other enemy fighter was destroyed, the air ministry announced. Three British planes failed to return from patrol.

At least five persons, including a policeman, were killed by the German bombs, and a number suffered injuries. Houses were splintered.

The German planes penetrated the English coastal defenses in small groups, then split up into still smaller units of three or four and engaged in spectacular dog fights with British pilots. Thousands watched the fights.

Dives on German Bomber.

One British fighter was seen to dive on a German plane from above and shoot it down in flames. Another British fighter climbed almost vertically right on the tail of an enemy fighter into which it was pouring a stream of tracer bullets. Much of the fighting was seen along the southeast coast.

Three times German planes roared over western England, too, leaving at least four houses destroyed. The same district was raided once on Friday and four times on Saturday.

"Some houses were destroyed and some casualties, including a number of persons killed, were caused by bombs which fell in coastal districts in the west country, an air ministry communique stated.

Crew Takes to Parachutes.

One man was killed by shrapnel in a daylight foray in the southwest. The crew of one raider shot down into the sea took to their parachutes. Another man was killed and several were injured when 10 bombs were dropped on a south coast road, demolishing eight houses and damaging others.

Besides southern England, the German raiders also attacked southeastern Scotland.

Several houses were damaged in a raid over the northeast and a number of persons were injured in the incendiary and explosive bombings. Women joined police and wardens in a bucket brigade to extinguish bomb-set fires.

Indicating that the British were not letting the German raids go unanswered in kind, the German radio stations at Hamburg and Bremen suddenly went silent tonight, as they do when British bombers draw near.

Set Oil Fires at Bergen.

The British also reported successes in their raids of Saturday night.

Striking at dawn thru heavy antiaircraft fire, British naval planes started large oil tank fires and hit other objectives at Bergen, Norway. An oil tanker was hit.

British bombers also attacked shipbuilding yards at Bremen and Kiel and an armament depot at Emden. Bombing attacks were made on the airfield at Ksocke [Belgium], the airdromes at Evreux [France] and Ypenburg, and on barges at Zwolle and in the canal at Katwijk [Holland].

Incendiary and high explosive bombs were dropped at Brunsbuttel at the entrance of the Kiel canal. The seaplane bases at Norderney and Hornum also were attacked.

3 DIE AS FLAMES SWEEP FLATS ON NEAR NORTH SIDE

Two Firemen Hurt; Probe Opened.

Three persons lost their lives yesterday afternoon when fire swept the third floor of the State-Ohio apartments at 2 West Ohio street. Two other residents were injured seriously, one in a leap from his room into a firemen's net, and two firemen were hurt.

Gus Wagner.

Authorities began an immediate investigation into the fire, the origin of which was not known. City officials charged that fire hazards existed in the building, which lacked fire escapes.

Those killed were Gus Wagner, 36 years old; Fred W. Virden, about 50, both lodgers, and Thomas J. Fleming, about 60, who was visiting in the building.

Woman Burned Severely.

The two injured lodgers are Mrs. Florence Friedler, 64, and Robert Parks, 40, a waiter. They are in Henrotin hospital. Mrs. Friedler, who was burned severely, was being carried down a ladder by Lieut. Edward Moffett and Fireman Jeremiah Lynch of hook and ladder company 3 when they were forced to drop her about 10 feet into a safety net. She weighs about 225 pounds. Parks suffered a back injury when he leaped into a net.

Mrs. Friedler said Fleming was visiting her and that when they heard a cry of fire he opened the door.

"Flames swept into the room," she said, "and both his and my clothing caught fire. We went to the window and I told him to jump, but he wanted me to get to safety first. The last I saw of him his clothes were all aflame."

3d Floor Stairs Cut Off.

The fire is believed to have started at the rear of the second floor and to have shot up the rear stairway and along the third floor corridor, cutting off both the front and rear stairs. John Lindroth, 71, and his wife, Rebecca, 70, and at least two others were trapped in their rooms and carried down ladders. One man crawled thru a window and escaped into an adjoining building.

Lieut. Moffett suffered arm burns while rescuing Mrs. Friedler. Fireman Andrew Cafferata, who carried one person down, incurred lacerations of the left arm. Acting Chief William Quail of the 2d battalion aided in the rescue work.

George Wagner, a lodger who lost his job as janitor of the building a few days ago, was being held for questioning by Policemen Bernard Mayer and Cornelius J. Moynihan of the Chicago avenue station. He will be taken to the inquest this morning at 716 North State street. George and Gus Wagner are not related.

Quiz on Ordinances Planned.

Coroner A. L. Brodie and Lieut. Charles Berounsky of the Chicago avenue station announced they would investigate to determine whether city ordinances had been violated in the equipment of the building.

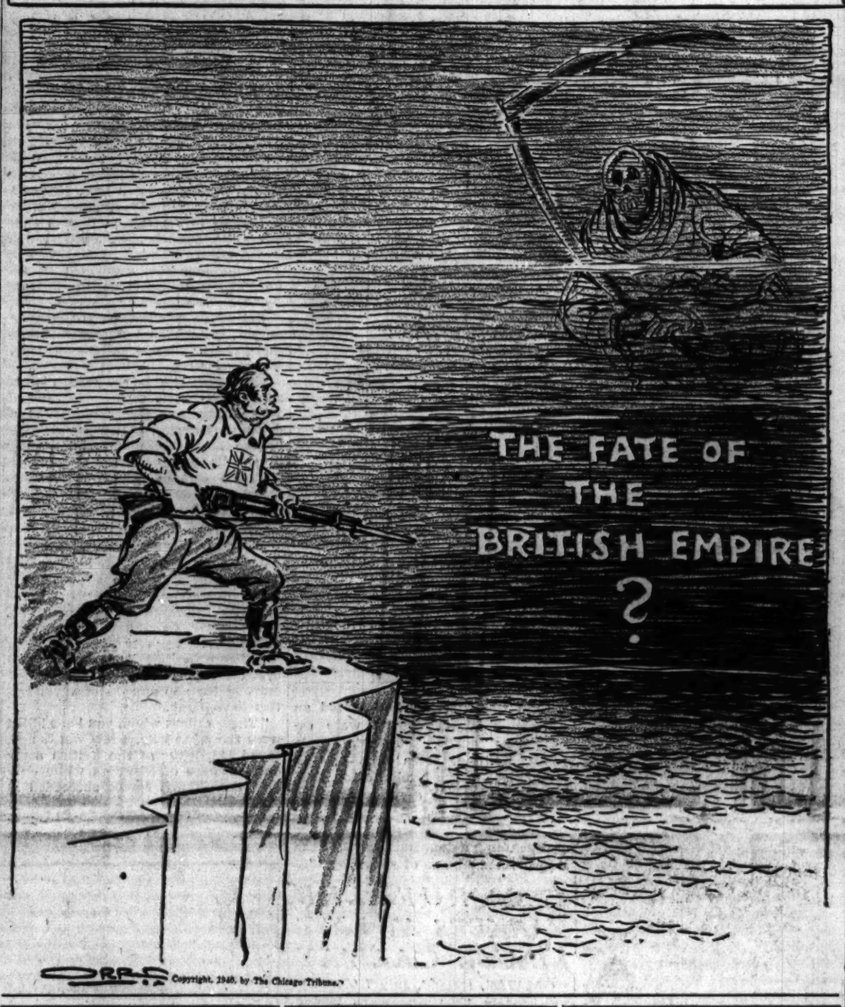
Acting Chief Quail said that after an inspection of the building last March the fire prevention bureau served warning that the building's two stairways were not sufficient means of egress for the number of persons living in the building.

The inspectors also found an accumulation of rubbish in the building and asked the department of gas and electricity to examine the wiring.

U. S. Sportsmen Give Guns to England for Defense

LONDON, July 7 (AP).—American sporting guns may help defenders against any German attempt to invade Britain. The ministry of supply announced acceptance tonight of an offer by United States sportsmen of gifts of their firearms to the government. The offer was made thru the British purchasing commission.

ACROSS THE CHANNEL FROM ENGLAND



Report Martin Likely Choice to Lead G.O.P.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 7.—Wendell Willkie, dashing leader of the 1940 Republican campaign hopes, will sail into Washington tomorrow afternoon on the wings of an air liner for a series of conferences which will determine the top directorate of the campaign organization.

In the evening Willkie will be the guest at a Republican dinner at the Willard hotel, which will be attended by house and senate members and members of the subcommittee of the national committee which has been trying for two days to iron out organization matters with the nominee.

This is not to be a formal speech making dinner, but an informal affair for getting acquainted with the nominee. The real business of campaign organization will be decided Tuesday morning when the subcommittee meets with Willkie. The announcement of results will be made that afternoon, just before Willkie boards a plane for his Colorado vacation.

Pledged to Secrecy.

Members of the national committee have been pledged to secrecy as to the results of the organization conference to date, but it is known that the three man board which Willkie proposed to set up met with opposition, as it was felt that it would subordinate the national chairman to the personal campaign manager chosen by Willkie.

There was no doubt about this, as it was Willkie's first plan to do just this. Apparently, however, he has been talked out of it, or put in a hesitant mood, by the practical politicians from the 12 states who constitute the committee membership.

Talk Centers on Martin.

Despite the refusal of any one in Willkie's confidence to discuss the choice for national chairman, the name of Joseph W. Martin, minority leader in congress, forges to the front. Martin is universally praised for his conduct as permanent chairman of the Philadelphia convention. He won the respect of all G. O. P. factions and altho his responsibilities in congress are great, it is urged upon him that the conduct of the Willkie campaign is an even more important task.

It is said Willkie is still extremely hopeful of persuading Martin to take the chairmanship. In event Martin should decline Samuel Pryor Jr. of Connecticut is believed to be next in line for the G. O. P. job.

Hamilton May Be Assistant.

Under this plan, Chairman John Hamilton would be retained as executive assistant and full use would be made of his knowledge of party organization and the groundwork he has laid since 1936. The thousands of independent Willkie for President clubs which made such a whirl of a campaign for the nomination will be coördinated under another assistant, probably Russell Davenport, former editor of Fortune magazine.

The presidential nominee will arrive from New York about 3 p. m. He will be met by a congressional committee at the new national airport, and will spend the rest of the afternoon talking over campaign plans with Senator Charles McNary, vice presidential candidate and one of the most astute politicians in the country.

NEW BRITISH CURFEW ORDER IS ANNOUNCED FOR SOUTHERN COAST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 7.—More people in England were ordered to get to bed earlier as additional curfews and restrictions were announced for Britain's south coast. Eastbourne tonight declared a curfew from 10 p. m. to 4 a. m. during which time no one will be allowed on the sea front. Residents must use the back entrances of their houses if out beyond the time limit.

Area of new curfew order [in black].

In extending the 20 mile defense zone around the east and south coasts, including an area between Rye and Portland, regional commissioners took over control of all movements in the districts of Petersfield, Romsey, Wimborne, Poole, Eastbourne, New Haven, Hailsham, and Peacehaven.

All persons entering these places may be called on by the police or the military to show that they have good reasons for doing so. Holiday or pleasure visits are not allowed. From sunset the people are barred from access to all beaches in the Isle of Wight and from the Hampshire border to Poole, Dorset.

Farley Learns 3d Term Plan, but Can't Tell

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., July 7 [Special].—President Roosevelt chose to talk today on the third term question. He gave Postmaster General James A. Farley the answer to the political question which has agitated the nation for three years and then invoked a pledge of secrecy from the chairman of the Democratic national committee, who would like to succeed the man he twice elected to the presidency.

"It was a historic conference," Farley said. "I have full knowledge of what the President has in mind, but cannot divulge that information. It is the President's decision and he is the one to announce it."

Farley Goes to New York.

Mr. Roosevelt revealed his decision to the party chief in the study of his home on the Hudson river during a lengthy conference which followed luncheon.

After the conference Farley went to New York to pack to go to Chicago to prepare for the opening of the convention July 15. Farley appeared to be in excellent spirits after he had become the only man—so far as is known—to learn what Mr. Roosevelt hopes to get out of Chicago.

"The President was extremely frank, and I was just as frank," Farley said. "I am satisfied and I am sure he was satisfied with the conference."

Question for Roosevelt.

A reporter asked if he, as party chief, was going to continue to leave the delegates in doubt as to whether or not Mr. Roosevelt intends to seek a third nomination. He said that was a question Mr. Roosevelt will have to answer.

Farley refused to discuss the reports that he intends to resign the chairmanship in the event Mr. Roosevelt is renominated and take the job of running the New York Yankees baseball team.

Asked if he still intends to let his name be submitted to the convention for the Democratic nomination, Farley said he has nothing to say on that at this time.

Before he greeted Farley, Mr. Roosevelt attended church services with his mother and Mrs. Roosevelt. Tonight he left for Washington, D. C., by special train.

30 TO 100 DEAD, HUNDREDS WOUNDED IN DAY'S RIOTING

Both Sides Claim Victory; 3,000,000 Cast Ballots.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, July 7.—Rioting and bloodshed marked the presidential election in Mexico today. Three million Mexican voters went to the polls to decide whether the next president would be Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, or Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, who was supported by President Lazaro Cardenas.

The Mexicans do not know the outcome of the balloting tonight. But they do know that hundreds are dead or wounded, victims of bullets, grenades, gas bombs, and stones, as a result of the bitter clashes thruout the nation between the two principal factions.

The vote will not be tabulated until next Thursday. It will then be up to the government to decide whether the results will be announced before the new congress meets Sept. 1. Both sides claimed victory.

The rioting and gun battles continued far into the night. The voting was marked by disorders here in the capital and in many other parts of the country. Estimates of deaths ran from 30 to 100.

Twenty-Three Die in Capital.

Police and military figures gave the number of dead in Mexico City as 23, with 7 others counted in various cities. The Red and Green Cross estimated nine dead, including two children, with 152 wounded including 50 "certain to die."

A larger figure was given by Gen. Almazan, who said the dead would reach 100. Gen. Almazan had predicted that his administration-backed opponent would attempt to steal the election by gangster tactics.

The dead include two noted former officials of Mexico. They are Col. Vicente Obregon, former director of the mails and telegraph, and former Gen. Melchor Gonzales.

Two Americans wounded were Edward J. Mallen Jr. of Tulsa, Okla., shot thru the stomach and believed near death, and Leonard Durso, 18 years old, of Union City, N. J., a Georgetown university student, less seriously hurt.

I was a witness of many of the tragic events in Mexico's capital today. It appeared to me that they were caused by the effort of the people to divorce themselves from the radicals or communistic régime that has ruled them for six years.

With a unanimity that has caught the government and the Mexican revolutionary party completely off guard, the supporters of Gen. Almazan have taken over the city. On the Reforma, the city's principal boulevard, I saw police armed with rifles, bayonets, and grenades battling an unarmed crowd of Almazanistas. With a crowd of youths I ran down Iturbide street. Half a block from the ministry of foreign relations two policemen emptied their revolvers into our midst.

Rush Barricaded Office.

With the crowd I stood in Alameda Park, beside the palace of fine arts, and watched the Almazanistas besieging a building in which two army captains were barricaded with a machine-gun. A few minutes before, riding in a motor truck, the officers let loose a fusillade of shots that killed a woman and two youths who wore Almazanista green badges.

As I write, the crowd, which has become a mob armed with cobble stones and clubs, was pressing in on the PRM [administration political party] headquarters, 100 feet from the iron horse statue at Paseo de la Reforma and Bucarli avenues. In the heart of the town not an hour ago I saw a vast, friendly, laughing crowd stop the automobile of President Cardenas on the Calzada de la Piedad, near the famous Chinese clock.

Stop the President.

The crowd, predominately Almazan like every crowd in town today, asked Cardenas to give a salute to Gen. Almazan. It was all in fun. The president, of course, has been an avowed opponent of Almazan. But he smiled and shouted, "Viva Almazan!"

On another occasion the crowd called out:

"Give us a fair election, Señor Presidente. You see we are solidly for Almazan."

He replied, "I am traveling about now to see if the sentiment really is for Almazan."

[The president himself did not vote. The polling place near his home was not open.]

Election day started off calmly. Due to the great secrecy of their moves, Mexico City was virtually in the hands of Gen. Almazan's supporters before the authorities awakened to the situation.

Action Starts at Dawn.

Last night passed quietly, with 16,000 troops, police, and cadets prepared to keep order. All over the city, where government employés and members of the communistic CTM [Mexican workers confederation] were being mobilized for the opening of the casillas, or polling places.

The PRM and the CTM, so far as was known, had done the only organizing for the elections. But as dawn broke the city came to life. All over town the green bunting and banners of Gen. Almazan appeared.

Most of the 200-odd polling places in the federal district were seized just before daylight by PRM squads who posted the pictures of their candidate, Gen. Camacho, in the windows.

But they didn't keep them long. In every district the people revealed their real feelings by demonstrations for Almazan.

"Only one casilla in this district is controled by Camachistas," one breathless district captain told me as we drove up to a crowd on Avenida Juarez. "We are prepared to attack and take it in the next few minutes. They disarmed all of us but armed all the Camachistas. It doesn't intimidate us, because we know we are right."

A Grenade Explodes.

From a doorway I observed 500 Almazanistas approach to the "attack." There was an orderly march toward the little office. The men inside threw out a black powder grenade which exploded loudly. Then came a spattering volley of pistol shots. They didn't stop the crowd altho several persons dropped. The silent, continuous advance of that group overawed the men inside.

The firing ceased. They had fled thru a rear door. The casilla was taken. Five minutes later, driving down Avenida Hidalgo, I saw a crowd gathered around a small coupe on Calle Humboldt. We found the car plastered with Almazan stickers and blood, the metal sides torn by bullets, the glass shattered. Two men were killed.

"The Camachistas did it," said a woman. "They pulled up behind the men and shot them as they drove past."

Around us, meanwhile, were the growing signs of open revolt. Police in blue uniforms, rifles, and bayonets were guarding the offices of the radical newspaper El Popular, opposite the park. A crowd, with many women and children, watched a green motor truck driving down Juarez. Two khaki clad figures rose in the rear of the truck. There was a ragged, ripping sound as the men turned a Thompson submachinegun on the sidewalk. People ducked into doorways. A woman crumpled into a bundle. The truck kept going. A roar arose. Casual

ELECTION CALM IN OLD HOT SPOTS ALONG BORDER

JUAREZ, Mexico, July 7 (AP).—Mexican border cities, hot spots in many previous political imbroglios, found today's presidential election a rather tame and quiet affair. Ten persons were injured here in minor disorders.

Dr. Juan Asomoza, a backer of Gen. Almazan, said all the persons injured during the balloting were "Almazanistas."

Camacho Sweeps Sonora State.

HERMOSILLO, Sonora, Mexico, July 7 (AP).—Gov. Anselmo Macias said tonight an unofficial check showed Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, administration-backed presidential candidate, had swept today's election in Sonora state by a margin of 57,000. His figures give Gen. Camacho 60,000 and Gen. Juan Almazan 3,000. The governor said that so far as he knew there was no violence "of any significance" in Sonora.

Claim Camacho Victory.

NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico, July 7 (AP).—Tomas Moriet, Mexican consul of Nogales, Ariz., tonight announced Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho was victorious here by a landslide of 4,289 to 143 for Gen. Juan Almazan. Almazan headquarters here charged that the balloting was carried on in a "controled and unfair" manner.

spectators became an angry river following the truck which stopped close to the palace of fine arts.

The two figures, identified later as army captains, ran into the building which houses the Spartan radio agency here. The crowd closed in.

Again a rattle of shots, from the crowd as well as from the building. Two boys fell on the palace plaza.

The police cleared the street in front of the buildings. The crowd grew until 20,000 persons were grouped around the palace on three sides. Helmeted infantrymen arrived in trucks. Exhorters in the crowd jumped on the marble balustrade around the palace and called "Viva Almazan!" The crowd responded with a mighty roar and saluted.

Tear Gas, More Shots.

Police immediately began firing tear gas shells against the palace walls. The crowd scattered, then pressed back again. More shots, another brief flash of running legs. Then they came back. Finally, they got started back along Avenida Juarez, singing the national anthem.

Back past the Regis hotel they went. They halted in front of the ministry of foreign relations. I was observing from across the street. Four men in civilian clothing were in the doorway of the building. In the street proper police were gathering again in red motorcycle sidecars.

In the plaza where Iturbide and Bucarli avenues meet were mounted police and two truckloads of regular army infantry. Suddenly the crowd began throwing and the air was filled with missiles. The police went into action. There were half a dozen shattering explosions as tear gas was fired into the mob. I ducked around the corner into Avenida Iturbide. There were more shots and the crowd followed, running wild eyed.

Shots Aimed at Us.

Behind us came more sharp poppings. Running alongside me were several American boys in sweaters with college letters on them. Still more shots. Looking back, we saw two black clad policemen aiming their automatic pistols at our backs. Altho they were 175 yards away, the shots whistled close. It was here that Durso, the American, was grazed on the hip.

With another newspaper man, I drove to another section of town, on Calzada de la Piedad. Running into another group wearing Almazan's green, we stopped and jumped out in time to see a black sedan pulling away on the other side of the throng.

"What happened?" my companion demanded in Spanish. "It was the presidente," came the reply from all sides. "El Presidente Cardenas." We stopped his car, and we told him we were for Almazan. We thanked him for telling us to vote as we pleased. We asked him to salute our favorite. He replied:

"Viva Almazan!"

As I write this dispatch, I can hear the rattle of shots and of tear gas guns all over the town. They say Gen. Almazon himself is coming down to speak to the crowd from the national palace, but this is hardly possible for if this isn't open revolt, there can hardly be a revolt. An excited Mexican, publisher of the programs for the bull fights and a little afternoon newspaper Redonel [the ring], just entered our office.

"They wanted me to take the ad," he sputtered. "They handed me the 800 pesos, but I turned it down."

"Who?"

"Why, the Camachistas.

"Do you know what they wanted me to do? The ad said Camacho had won, that reports from all over the country said the elections went off quietly without disorders and that there had been complete liberty in the vote. I told them I did not trust it."

Battle with 6,000.

At 6 p. m., 6,000 laughing, singing people collected at the Almazan headquarters.

"Viva Almazan! We want Almazan to greet us!" they shouted. While the rest of the city was rapidly returning to a peaceful condition, police and a small group of soldiers attempted to disperse the crowd. They smashed their rifle butts into the faces of the throng. Then they fixed bayonets and rushed the crowd. A number were stabbed. Even this, however, failed to rout them. The soldiers fired over the heads of the crowd.

"Viva Almazan!" replied the crowd, retreating not an inch, still awaiting Almazan and still blocking the whole section of the city.

At last rain sent the crowd home.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR AXIS ATTACK AGAINST ENGLAND

Hitler Confers with Ciano for Hour.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

BERLIN, July 7.—While Europe is expecting the start of a general offensive by the combined Italian and German forces against Great Britain in the nearest future, Premier Mussolini's foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, today arrived in Berlin and had a conference with Adolf Hitler in the Berlin chancellery. It lasted more than an hour.

The conference took place this noon shortly after Ciano's arrival at Anhalter station, where he was welcomed by Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and State Secretary Ernst von Weizsacker.

The conference was attended by Von Ribbentrop, the Italian ambassador, Dino Alfieri, and the German ambassador to Rome, Hans von Mackensen. While the discussion proceeded, the crowds outside the chancellery sang the German war song, "We are sailing against England," and chanted in a chorus, "Fuehrer and Duce hand in hand—already trembles England."

Inspect Battle Zones.

Tonight Ciano left in a special train for a two day inspection tour of the battle zones in France. It is expected that he will resume his talks in Berlin on his way back to Italy.

Today's conference was described by the German press as "an event of prime importance." While it was taken for granted that all military details for the attack on England were worked out at the recent meeting of Hitler and Premier Mussolini in Munich and also in the following Italo-German staff talks, it was believed that today's parley included a discussion of the conditions under which the axis partners would be willing to conclude peace with France.

[In a telephone message from Berlin to Rome yesterday the diplomatic correspondent of Stefani, official Italian news agency, said "high representatives of the two axis powers have reached complete agreement" regarding continuation of the war and in relation to construction of a "new Europe." In a dispatch to London, from Basel, Reuters, British news agency, quoted a Swiss newspaper correspondent in Rome as saying that Ireland would be the first objective in any attack on the British Isles.]

Discuss Hungary.

Hitler and Ciano also were believed to have discussed Hungary's future today, especially since Hungary's foreign minister, Count Paul Teleki, is expected to come to Berlin in the near future.

Russia also figured in today's conference, it was believed. Foreign rumors that Russia "had served an ultimatum on Germany" were described as "absurd." Today's Frankfurter Zeitung, often used as the mouthpiece of the foreign office, said, "should one really assume that Russia will abandon the tried cooperation with the German partner for the sake of concluding a doubtful deal with the shipwrecked empire of yesterday?"

1,600 RUFFLED YANKEES AT LAST LEAVE GALWAY

GALWAY, Ireland, July 7 (AP).—Approximately 1,600 Americans fleeing the possibility of German invasion of the British Isles sailed for home today aboard the American liner Washington.

The liner weighed anchor at 6:45 a. m. [12:45 a. m. Chicago time] but was delayed by fog in making her way down Galway bay and did not leave Irish waters until 3 p. m.

Much confusion marked the sailing. A number of trunks were lost. Many passengers were without a change of apparel.

A woman passenger insisted that Commander Norman Hitchcock, naval attaché in the United States embassy in London, "take my bags to my hotel." She had mistaken the commander for a hotel porter.

Two United States army majors returning aboard the Washington were appealed to by a group of passengers who thought they were railway employés.

FRENCH PLANES DEAL GIBRALTAR A HEAVY BLOW

Alarms Sound Constantly on British Fortress.

LA LINEA, Spain, July 7 (AP).—Planes believed to have been French heavily bombed Gibraltar again this morning and apparently struck one destroyer in the bay.

Destroyers constantly patroled the waters around the fortified rock to protect naval units against submarine attack. Persons arriving here reported the fortress occupants are living in a state of constant alarm, with residents spending many hours in air raid shelters.

The aircraft carrier Ark Royal, whose planes joined in the attack on the French battleship Dunkerque last week, arrived with several other vessels. It was reported here the Ark Royal lost two planes in the north African action.

[The British admiralty announced last night that the two British planes reported missing in action against the Dunkerque had been located.]

Admit French Drop Bombs.

GRENOBLE, France, July 7 (AP).—Two French air squadrons, disarmed by the armistice, have been rearmed and have joined German-Italian squadrons in attacks on British Gibraltar, the French navy ministry disclosed today.

Its communique, published in Le Petit Dauphinois, said the French squadrons and axis planes had bombed British warships in Gibraltar harbor, including some that attacked the French fleet at Mers El-Kebir, Algeria, July 3.

"At least one large British warship" was hit, it said.

The same newspaper published a dispatch declaring that French losses in the Mers El-Kebir action, taken by the British to prevent delivery of France's surrendered fleet to Germany and Italy, were believed to total 1,000 dead, missing and wounded.

Helped Save British Army.

Jean Provoust, French information minister, in a declaration issued at Vichy in response to British Prime Minister Churchill on the naval action which precipitated the final break between the former allies, said:

"Within a few hours you have brought more sorrow to the sailors' families than 10 months of naval battles have done.

"These sailors whom you have killed were the same who, a few weeks ago, saved four-fifths of the British army on the shore of Flanders while only half the French forces succeeded in embarking.

"It cost us too dear for us to have been soldiers of Britain yesterday, for us to consent today to be sailors of the union jack."

A French war council in Toulouse, meanwhile, sentenced Former Gen. Charles de Gaulle in absentia to four years in prison and fined him 100 francs for disobeying army orders and inciting soldiers' disobedience.

[Gen. de Gaulle, who refused to accept France's capitulation to Germany, has led continued resistance from London, where he has appealed by radio to French forces to continue the fight and, in violation of the Petain government's orders, has organized French remnants in Britain to join British land and sea forces.]

Open Recruiting Office.

LONDON, July 7 (AP).—Recruiting offices to enlist Frenchmen for service in the fleet or air force legion being organized by French Gen. Charles de Gaulle were opened today.

RED PRESS ATTACKS STIR FEARS OF SOVIET DEMANDS ON TURKEY

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 7 (AP).—German, Russian, and Italian press and radio attacks on Turkey caused grave concern today in Turkish government circles where the criticism was viewed as a possible build-up for a move by soviet Russia toward the Dardanelles. Many diplomats expressed the belief that Russian demands for concessions in the heavily fortified straits might come to a head this week.

The criticism of Turkey came from commentators who said there was evidence that Turkey plotted with the allies for air attacks on Caucasus oil fields in Russia. The government flatly denied any part in such a plot and insisted that Turkey, thruout its alliance with Britain and France, maintained a friendly policy toward Russia.

Intensive military preparations were continued with additional manpower called to the colors. Some foreign military observers estimated that the new call raised the number under arms to 800,000.

1,700 EVACUEES FROM HONGKONG REACH MANILA

MANILA, P. I., July 7 (AP).—About 1,700 British women and children, evacuees from Hongkong, arrived tonight aboard the Canadian Pacific liners Empress of Japan and Empress of Asia.

The Empress of Asia's passengers were taken to United States army barracks at Fort McKinley but the 1,100 on the Empress of Japan, were held aboard pending arrangements for housing.

High Commissioner Francis B. Sayre visited the Empress of Asia and watched the passengers come ashore.

COL. M'CORMICK URGES ORDERLY GROWTH OF ARMY

Compulsory Training in Schools Advocated.

Compulsory military training in the schools and the orderly development of a great American defense army were advocated last night by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Col. McCormick's address, delivered during the Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour over station W-G-N, the Mutual Broadcasting system, and the Canadian Broadcasting corporation, contained a warning drawn from the tragic confusion that grew out of the drafts of 1917-'18. He recalled that the lack of trained officers and the lack of coördination among the branches of the military led to deplorable results.

He suggested drawing upon the thousands of men in CCC camps and on rolls of the Work Projects administration to form an adequate defense army quickly.

World War Service Cited.

In presenting him to the radio audience, the announcer recalled that Col. McCormick had been a field and general staff officer in the world war.

"You will remember," he continued, "that last week Col. McCormick outlined the probable line of a German attack on England. We now learn that his views are shared by the British military authorities, who have taken steps to defend the threatened area.

"As Col. McCormick has been asked to give his views on American military policy to the senate committee on military affairs, he takes advantage of his appearance on the Symphonic hour to present them to this radio audience."

Text of Address.

The text of Col. McCormick's address follows:

"Looking thru my diary to prepare for tonight's address, I found that 23 years ago tonight I was on the boat, steaming to join Gen. Pershing in France.

"War had been declared in April. A conscription law had been passed in May. Now in July the elements which were to become the 1st division of regulars were reaching France.

"The artillery regiments received their cannon and began training. The infantry organization, however, was not satisfactory. New companies, battalions, regiments, and brigades were formed. Weapons were received from France and England and training began.

Commanders Changed.

"The first commander of the division was Maj. Gen. Sibert, a distinguished civil engineer of the army, without experience of troops for many years. Before he was sent back to the Panama canal, much time had been lost. Gen. Bullard received the command in December, eight months after we had gone to war.

"Competent infantry regimental commanders were not found in the division. Colonels Hines and Ely and Parker were sent to it from headquarters. The fourth colonel failed under tragic circumstances.

"The artillery brigade commander also was an engineer, unable to supervise the regiments. This misfortune was not remedied until late in December, when Gen. Summerall was taken from the 42d artillery brigade. All these officers became distinguished generals.

"By now the country had been at war nine months.

Officers Put on Drill Duty.

"The 1st division had been in France six months and it was considered necessary to put it on the front, altho still insufficiently trained or organized. Two artillery regimental commanders and one lieutenant colonel were relieved in this period. Most of its regular officers had been taken to drill the drafted troops. In my regiment were only four regular army officers.

"At the time of the British defeat in March, the 1st division of regulars was the only one considered ready for open warfare. The country had been at war 11 months.

"Two months later the 1st division won its engagement of Cantigny. A few days later the 3d and 2d divisions fought at Château-Thierry and Belleau wood. The 3d division held at the Marne on July 15. Then the 1st and 2d divisions won the five-day battle of Soissons.

Corps Begins to Function.

"The country had now been at war 15 months when at last an American army corps and an American army began to function . . . but the National Guard divisions were not ready to operate as divisions until the battle of St. Mihiel in September —17 months after the declaration of war.

"The Germans were now cracking and everything was piled in to accomplish their destruction. In many instances the infantry of divisions, even of regular divisions, were without their artillery; and this 18 months after war was declared. In consequence, the losses were staggering. The 1st division lost three men killed, wounded, and broken by hardship for each man it numbered on its mustering day.

"With this record before it, I hope congress will not heed the hysterical appeal for immediate conscription.

"The regular army has planned a mobile force of regulars composed of 13 divisions and an air corps. Organizing regiments, divisions, corps, and army staffs, and finding the thousands of suitable officers to perform their complicated tasks is far more difficult than raising troops.

"This army must learn mechanized warfare. It must receive and operate modern weapons. The flying corps must be taught to coöperate with the ground forces.

Weeding Out to be Slow.

"Judging by our experience in the last war, not more than half of the original regimental commanders will be successful; only a small proportion of the general officers will be found qualified. The weeding out process will be both slow and painful.

"The National Guard obviously is less prepared than the regular army and its officers less well trained.

"Supplies for maneuvers of our existing forces will not be ready before next August.

"Would it not then be a tragic blunder to call away from their occupations millions of civilians whom we cannot clothe for months or arm for years?

"We should proceed in an orderly, energetic way to create a regular army while training the National Guard as fast as may be.

"When this has been done, we will have a million armed men. More than that, we will have working organizations. We will have experienced instructors. We will be prepared to take whatever steps appear desirable at that time.

CCC Provides Manpower.

"It is said—and I do not know with what truth—that volunteers are not offering themselves fast enough to fill the regular army and the National Guard. What of it?

"Let the CCC boys go into the army. Why should they be supported in semi-idleness when soldiers are needed? Let such of those on WPA and relief as are of a military age and strength find their support in the army. We have plenty of men for our mobile army if we stop keeping them in idleness.

"Conscription is a desperate remedy—a last resort—and a worthless one unless the people are ready for its sacrifices, as the woeful events in France have shown.

"Military education is another thing.

"Twenty-three years ago military training was begun in the Chicago public schools. From there it has spread to almost every state in the union. More than 70,000 pupils took voluntary training this year. Unfortunately, in our largest state, New York, it is forbidden by law.

"A higher form of military teaching is furnished in the land grant colleges, in the private military schools, and in the college training corps, which graduated 7,000 students, commissioned in the army and navy, this year.

"I have inspected many of these classes and am glad to testify that the military education of the reserve officers of today is far greater than had been made available to the youths who led our soldiers 22 years ago.

"Military training, already organized in the public schools, can readily be expanded and made compulsory. The summer following graduation, spent in maneuvers in the regular army, will complete the school of the soldier and give experience to generals and general staff officers.

"Make every school boy learn to be a soldier. Make it possible for every young man to learn to be a reserve officer.

"In that way we will not disrupt our economic life. We will not interrupt our schooling. We will teach our young men to protect themselves, their sisters, their mothers, and their future wives. And we will do it in an American way."

New Listeners Saluted.

Earlier the Symphonic Hour sent a musical salute to its thousands of new Canadian listeners as Henry Weber directed the W-G-N Symphony orchestra in "Covent Garden" and "Knightsbridge March," two movements from the London suite of Eric Coates.

Marion Claire, soprano, was received with applause by the 600 guests who filled W-G-N's main studio. She sang "Night" and "Tomorrow," by Richard Strauss, and, accompanied by the W-G-N chorus, a musical fantasy based upon "Long, Long Ago."

Other orchestral selections included the first movement from Mendelssohn's Italian Symphony, two movements from "Snapshots of India," by Adolf Hoffman of the W-G-N orchestra, and the dances from "Prince Igor," by Borodin.

The Symphonic Hour, which will be heard each Sunday night at 9 o'clock, was produced by William A. Bacher of W-G-N. Commentation was by Cecil Smith of THE TRIBUNE.

CMTC BUSINESS MEN WILL START TRAINING TODAY

Two hundred business and professional men attending the special 30 day Citizens' Military Training camp for older men, which opened Saturday at Fort Sheridan, today will settle down to the serious side of soldiering under the command of Maj. James O. Tarbox of the 2d infantry, a regular army officer in charge of the special camp.

Reveille will sound for the newcomers at 5:45 a. m. By 7:30 a. m. they will be on the drill ground, where they will spend six hours a day until Aug. 3. In the afternoon the recruits will be issued the rifles which they will use for maneuvers and target practice during their stay at the camp.

The members of the special camp were the guests of C. M. T. C. officers Saturday afternoon at a military review in which 1,680 younger C. M. T. C. students were sworn in as summer soldiers.

SWEDEN TO DEAL WITH GERMANY ON BARTER BASIS

LUDVIKA, Sweden, July 7 (AP).—Prime Minister Per Alben Hansson declared today that "fundamental changes" in Europe since the start of war have made necessary a trade and exchange system between Sweden and Germany and German held Norway and Denmark.

The prime minister said in a speech that negotiations expected to bring "provisional agreement" for such a system already are under way at Stockholm.

"It has been impossible," Hansson said, "to overlook the fact that seven European countries have been occupied and France has accepted armistice."

POLICE PERFECT BALANCING ACT FOR THRILL SHOW

30 Will Be Poised on Five Moving Motorcycles.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

Daredevils of city motorcycle police announced yesterday they have perfected the feat which skeptics said never could be accomplished—a 30 man balancing act on five moving motorcycles. It will be the most spectacular event of their trick riding exhibition at the third annual Chicago Police and Fire Thrill show in Soldiers' field next Sunday afternoon.

The daring performance will be under the direction of Lieut. William A. Gainer, chief of the motorcycle unit, which is a part of the police traffic division, commanded by Capt. David Flynn. The 30 men, weighing almost 6,000 pounds, will be perched on every available part of the motorcycles, with five of them bending backward over the front wheels toward the ground.

The greatest balancing act the police ever have before attempted was with 24 men on four motorcycles.

Clown Act Also Planned.

The motorcycle men will have a clown act, too, featuring a race of a motor scooter, a midget motorcycle, and a midget automobile. The celebrated star act, in which six riders on a speeding motorcycle represent a great police star, will be repeated this year.

The show, which will open at 2 p. m., is sponsored by the Chicago police and fire departments and the Chicago Park district, in coöperation with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Anthony J. Mullaney, first deputy fire marshal, told of the firemen's plans for the show in a radio address yesterday over W-G-N.

Thrills Only Incidental.

"The show will be packed with thrills and daring," he said. "But thrills and daring are only incidental. The purpose, first of all, is to show you citizens of Chicago what your fire department is, and what it is doing. If you see what is a revelation of daring and skill, remember this:

"That daring and skill are essential to our work. The feats our men will perform are the work-a-day things which they are drilled in doing for their own protection and for efficiency at fires."

Chief Roger Shanahan will talk on the park police department's part in the show on W-G-N at 3:15 p. m. today.

Police who will take part in the dramatization of a battle with bandits will be rehearsing all week.

MORE IN CHICAGO OFFER REFUGE TO WAR'S INNOCENTS

Seek Application Blanks; Committee to Be Formed.

APPLICATION BLANKS.

Application forms now in use in Chicago for persons wishing to accept European refugee children for the duration of the war are available at The Chicago Tribune public service bureaus in The Tribune Tower, 435 North Michigan avenue, and at 1 South Dearborn street.

BY GEORGE MORGENSTERN.

Numerous requests for information were received yesterday by the public service bureaus of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE from Chicagoans eager to take European refugee children into their homes for the duration of the war. Application blanks were available for the first time at the two bureaus at 1 South Dearborn street and in Tribune Tower, 435 North Michigan avenue.

In the interest of clarification, THE TRIBUNE will explain the requirements asked of persons wishing to extend hospitality to refugee English children and children of seven other nationalities affected by the war.

All Are Between 5 and 16.

All children coming to this country are between the ages of 5 and 16. It is not considered suitable to deprive younger children of the care of their parents, even tho they may be in danger from bombs and threat of invasion.

The United States Committee for the Care of European Children, organized in New York to coördinate all resources thruout the country to care for child victims of the European war, is working with the British government and federal department in effecting the transfer of the children to this country.

A Chicago branch of the national committee is to be established by the end of this week. The Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of the Catholic archdiocese and director of the Catholic Youth organization, at present is the only Chicago member of the national committee. Bishop Sheil will attend a meeting of the national comittee in New York on Thursday, at which organization of the Chicago branch will be discussed. The local committee to be formed will make available a standard application form, which THE TRIBUNE will help distribute thru its service bureaus.

Other Blanks Ready Now.

The application blanks now available are those of the English Speaking union, which is coöperating with the United States committee. The union is interested primarily in aiding English children, and its form pertains only to children of that nationality.

The United States committee, however, has definitely stated that its efforts will be directed toward the assistance of children of all nationalities. German, French, Belgian, Dutch, Spanish, Polish, and Czecho-Slovakian children are at present refugees in England.

"The committee is unable to get children out of countries other than England," it was explained, "but measures will be taken whenever possible to extend the operation of the committee to France and other countries."

No Rigid Standard Set.

No rigid standard has been set, nor is one likely to be set, as to the financial resources a family must have to take in a child. If investigation shows that an American family's affection is ample, but its income is short, the committee said that it will attempt to find supplementary funds for the support of the child with that family.

All applicants are warned by the committee that they are assuming a great responsibility in asking for a refugee child.

"The length of time over which the children must be cared for obviously cannot be determined," the committee says. "You must be prepared to keep them until they reach the age of 16 or until they are able to return to their homes."

Applicants May Specify Choice.

The committee, ar well as the English Speaking union, permits applicants to specify a choice as to the sort of child they would like to have. They may state their preference as to nationality, religious affiliation, age, sex, and background. They may state whether they would like a city child or a country child, or a child, for example, whose father is a doctor or lawyer.

They must, however, give financial references showing ability to support and educate the child. The minimum estimated by Bishop Sheil is $400 a year.

The applicants must also supply two references, and their homes must meet standards fixed by child welfare agencies which will investigate each applicant. They must agree to permit periodic investigations by these agencies to see that the child is receiving proper care.

It has been specified by the children's bureau of the department of labor that a child should receive schooling at least until the age of 16 if it is necessary to keep him that long.

Bar Employment for Gain.

It is also specified that no refugee child may be gainfully employed prior to the age of 16.

There is no limit on the number of children any family or organization may undertake to care for, except that in private homes no more than two unrelated children may be placed in any one home.

The child placement agency which transfers a child to the care of a family will retain responsibility for the child until he reaches the age of 18 or has been returned to his parent or guardian, or transferred to other care with the approval of the United States committee. It is expected that Catholic, Protestant, and Jewish social agencies will assume most of the placement work.

Adoption Is Forbidden.

No child is being sent to this country for adoption. The national committee has assumed the responsibility of returning all children to their own families at the end of the war. It is understood that a British law forbids the adoption of any child by any person who is not a citizen of the empire.

Children may bring only £10 in money with them from England. Their parents, under present arrangements, are to pay their passage, altho the government will send children from state-aided schools passage free. Others are offered passage at $60. Americans can, of course, assist needy families in England by cabling passage money to them.

No family offering care in this country is required to post a cash bond, but it is required to make an affidavit that the child entrusted to it will not become a public charge while in the United States.

The United States committee lists two categories of assistance: "Known" children, those for whom a family may specifically ask because the child is a relative or friend, and "unknown" children, for whom those who want to care for any child the committee may send them may apply.

The children who are relatives or friends may be brought directly to the United States. Others are to be brought here thru Canada under quota restrictions on immigration from their homelands. The quota for Britain will permit 6,500 children to enter this country each month.

The United States committee contemplates bringing 60,000 children to this country. So far 15,000 individuals, 400 of them from Chicagoland, and more than 500 private schools and other organizations have volunteered to care for children.

BRITAIN ORDERS ACTORS 18 TO 31 BACK FROM U. S.

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—The British embassy tonight directed British stage and screen actors in this country between the ages of 18 and 31 to return to England as soon as they can make the necessary arrangements.

Richard Greene.

Older actors, the embassy said, should continue in their professions until they receive further instructions.

The embassy said British actors had offered their services repeatedly since the start of the war and that until recently they have been advised to stay here.

Greene Within Age Limit.

Hollywood, Cal., July 7 (AP).—A British call for film actors between the ages of 18 and 31 to return soon to England affects apparently only one important Hollywood figure, Richard Greene.

All other major British actors, such as Cary Grant, Ray Milland, Brian Ahearne, and David Niven, are more than 31 years old. Niven has been in England for seven months.

Basil Rathbone, well past the maximum age, said his son, Rodion, 23, had been waiting at Chicago for several weeks, since offering his services to Canada, and may have gone to Toronto in the light of recent developments.

Greene, one of the busiest actors on the Twentieth Century-Fox lot, recently appeared in "Little Old New York" and "I Married an Adventuress," and after a month's vacation was to have started work with Sonja Henie and Henry Fonda in a skiing picture.

"I volunteered my services several months ago and was advised to stay here," said Greene.

BRITISH REFUGEE SHIP DOCKS IN N.Y. WITH 71 CHILDREN

3,000 More Expected to Arrive in Ten Days.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

New York, July 7.—Carrying miniature parachutes and dolls clad in royal air force uniforms, 71 British boys and girls were landed here today to stay in America for the duration of the war abroad. They were the vanguard of thousands of European refugee children who will be taken into American homes.

Today's arrivals aboard the Cunard-White Star liner Scythia will be cared for by relatives or friends. But within the next 10 days the real mass migration of "unknowns"—children unknown to the Americans who have offered to shelter them—is expected.

During these 10 days, more than 3,000 children—British, French, Dutch and Belgian—will arrive in Canada and will be sent to private homes, schools and summer camps in this country. This was announced today by the United States committee for the care of European children. The committee is headed by Marshall Field III. The committee is the agency for the undertaking here.

Youngsters Line Rails.

English and Scotch boys and girls lined the rails of the Scythia for their first glimpse of the United States as the vessel steamed past the Statue of Liberty toward its berth in the North river, late this afternoon.

Girdling the Scythia was the big cable which neutralizes the ship's magnetism and is an antidote for magnetic mines. The ship was armed with a 6 inch gun, for use against submarines, and an antiaircraft gun.

The children had to hand over their gas masks as they approached the American shore. They will be used by others still to be evacuated. Eighty children left the ship at Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Despite two rough days on the crossing, when many of them were seasick, the refugee children appeared to be in good health. All were grimly hopeful that England will pull thru and win over Germany.

"We want them to start the invasion, so we can shoot them down," said Peter Schor, 14 years old, who is en route to Montevideo, Uruguay, where his father is headmaster of a British school.

Will Assist Committee.

"Yes, we'll have a showdown and they'll find how tough the British are," chimed in Alan Dibben, 14 years old, who is on his way to Venezuela to join his father, Harold, an official of the Shell Oil company.

Viscountess Knollys, who brought her two children—Ardyne, 11 years old, and David, 9—for a haven with cousins at Bristol, R. I., was not eager for a sudden invasion.

Lady Knollys will work with the Marshall Field committee for a short time and then return to England to resume work with the women's volunteer service for civil defense.

Also aboard the Scythia were Lady Bailey, wife of Admiral Sir Sidney Bailey of the British navy, and her two children, Patricia, 15 years old, and David, 10. The three daughters of Capt. Percy Lawson Johnston of the Scotch guards and a brother of Lord Luke of Pavenham were passengers.

Dominic Elwes, 8, son of Simon Elwes, portrait painter, who has done the royal family, and his brother, Timothy, 4, will stay at the home of F. Trubee Davison, head of the American Museum of Natural History.

Sea and Air Warfare Over North Sea

BRITISH VESSELS TORN BY BOMBS, GERMANS CLAIM

Report Speedboat Sinks 6,000 Ton Steamer.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 7.—The Germans today claimed striking successes in air and sea attacks on British shipping and warships and told of repeated air raids on England and Scotland.

A German speedboat sank a 6,000 ton steamer near the Isle of Wight, the German high command communique stated. Then, telling of bomb hits by planes, the communique said:

"In the harbor of Falmouth, a merchant ship of 8,000 tons was set afire by a full hit of medium caliber.

Two Destroyers Disabled.

"In the middle North sea our fighting planes attacked a unit of British fighting craft. Two destroyers received such serious hits that they must be regarded as a total loss. Heavy damage was inflicted on a 10,000 ton cruiser.

"In the English channel an auxiliary warship and a patrol boat were sunk. An enemy submarine was badly damaged earlier by planes and has in the meantime sunk, its crew being picked up by German patrol boats and planes."

German air raids are being concentrated on southern England, where "attacks on important military objectives" were continued successfully, it was stated.

Charge Raids Hit Danes.

The communique charged that British bombers, besides raiding north Germany, attacked "a Danish fishing smack and an unarmed Norwegian steamer." Several members of the crew of the Norwegian ship were reported killed.

Enemy losses on July 6 were stated to have totaled 10 planes in all. "Of these, three were destroyed in air combat, three by antiaircraft and two on the ground," it was stated. "Two enemy planes were shot down by units of the navy. Two of our own planes are missing."

1,200 Children Saved from Moscow Park Theater Fire

MOSCOW, July 7 (AP).—About 1,200 children were led to safety today when fire broke out during a matinée in Moscow's central park for culture and rest. The flames destroyed two theater buildings.

ITALIAN PLANES RENEW BOMBING RAIDS ON MALTA

Fires Started in Arsenal Zone, Says Rome.

ROME, July 7 (AP).—Italy today speeded up her air attacks against the British in her own amphitheater of the war.

A high command communique said Italian planes made a hard hitting attack yesterday on Malta, British Mediterranean naval base and returned safely.

[A dispatch from Valletta, Malta, stated two formations of five planes dropped bombs on Malta yesterday, killing or wounding several civilians and destroying houses. One bomber was shot down. Two of four bombers were downed in raids Saturday night, it was added.]

Fires Started in Arsenal Zone.

Bombs started fires in the important arsenal zone, the communique said, adding; "Our chasers fought with English chasers, putting them to flight."

In British North and East Africa, the high command said, Italian planes bombed fuel supplies and hangers and wrecked six British planes on airports in British North Africa, mostly in Egypt; attacked British motorized columns near the Egypt-Libyan border southeast of Salum, and hit eight British planes and damaged hangars at airports in southeastern Egypt near Italian Eritrea.

Italian land forces strengthened their grip on a strip of southeastern Egypt near Kassalla, across the frontier from Eritrea, the communique said.

Three British planes were said to have been shot down over the harbor of Tobruk, Libya, where bombs struck two unloaded mechant ships.

Damage to military objectives in a British raid over the port of Bardia, Italian East Africa, was described as light.

Demobilize French Fleet.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 7 (AP).—Successful demobilization of the French east Mediterranean fleet and unceasing aerial pounding of Italian land, sea and air bases in the Mediterranean and North Africa were reported today by the British.

Col. Salisbury Jones, until recently chief British liaison officer with the French in Syria, said the French fleet was demobilized peacefully.

Bomb Hangars in Sicily.

Since last Friday, the British middle east command reported, the royal air force has engaged in these activities:

Land—Scored direct bomb hits on two hangars and other buildings at Catania, Sicily, starting fires; smashed two grounded planes and ignited two oil tanks at Zula, on the Red sea coast of Eritrea; bombed and machine gunned troops at Bardia.

Sea—Forced two large transports aground, seriously damaged another; damaged and probably sank either a destroyer or a submarine, and left two smaller ships "in difficulty" off Tobruk, Libya; sank two supply ships off Bardia, possibly damaging others.

Air—Damaged a bomber and fighter plane at Bardia; shot down at least one raiding Italian plane over Malta.

The British claimed all their raiding planes returned safely from Sicily.

A gunner who had no knowledge of flying piloted one of the British planes back from the raid over Bardia. The observer had been killed and the pilot wounded so that he could not handle the controls. The gunner flew the plane while the pilot told him how.

BRITISH DOUBLE PLANE OUTPUT OVER JUNE, 1939

LONDON, July 7 (AP).—Lord Beaverbrook, minister for aircraft production, announced today that British aircraft production in June more than doubled the total in the same month last year.

His statement said increased quantities of aircraft and engines were purchased in the United States in recent weeks. The total value of aircraft orders amounts to more than 1 billion dollars, he said.

Lord Beaverbrook said American aircraft arriving in England represents a "considerable contribution to our air fleet and, if the seas remain as free to us as they are today, shipments of aircraft reaching us from America will soon give us an additional output in every month of real value to us." He added that 50 million dollars of aircraft had been bought in Canada.

6 BANDITS ROB GOOD HUMOR CO. OFFICE OF $1,158

Six robbers, armed with pistols and shotguns, held up 15 salesmen and the manager of a Good Humor Ice Cream company's station at 1451 Irving Park road early today and escaped with $1,158. The men forced their way past a guard at a rear door and entered the room where the salesmen were checking in their day's receipts.

Parke Applegate, 6040 Kenmore avenue, the manager, was forced to open the safe and hand over Saturday's receipts. When one of the salesmen tried to slip from the room, a robber felled him by a blow with a shotgun barrel. He is Tom Collins, 3920 Lincoln avenue. Sergt. Charles Steffen of the Town Hall police said Collins was treated for lacerations of the scalp.

BRITAIN DEFENDS ROLE OF ARMY IN FLANDERS FIGHT

Replies to French 'Slurs' on Its Honor.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 7.—What the Weygand plan to save France was and why it failed was told to newspaper men today by a high senior officer of the British expeditionary force [B. E. F.]. The statement was inspired by recent remarks in French high quarters which the war office regarded as reflecting on the "honor of the B. E. F."

The plan of Gen. Maxime Weygand never was executed because it came too late, he said. It came after the Germans had broken thru at Sedan and poured at least eight armored divisions and possibly as many motorized infantry divisions thru the gap toward Abbeville on the Somme river estuary, only 12 miles from the English channel.

This German salient separated the Belgian-British and the French 1st army of about nine divisions from the French army in the south.

Lack of Ammunition.

The British, the spokesman said, were so hard pressed and cut off from their supply bases that those troops in the front line had only 160 shells for each field gun. They also suffered serious lack of small arms ammunition and had a food supply for only two and a half days, compelling the men who had been fighting day and night to go on half rations.

Disorganization of the front was such that for days high command officers were out of communication with one another. And the death in an automobile accident of French Gen. Gaston Billotte, who was to have played a big part in the contemplated attack, was a serious blow to execution of the plan.

When Gen. Weygand took supreme command of the allied forces on May 19 he decided the best method to stop the Germans was to have the British and French divisions cut off in Flanders, attack the German salient on its northern front, while French divisions would attack it from the south. If the plan had succeeded it might have cut off half of the German army in the west. It was doomed to failure, however.

Plan Given Leaders.

The plan was communicated by Gen. Billotte to Lord Gort, the British commander; King Leopold of the Belgians, and other staff officers of the three armies at Ypres on May 22.

Weygand's plan of operations also included an attack by the French navy in the north. The following day the proposals were approved in London, but Gen. Billotte, the coördinating officer, was killed in a motor accident. Despite this, the war office spokesman declared, the plan still was feasible at that stage of the proceedings, despite the German salient's 30 mile width at some points.

Originally, in going into Belgium, the allies hoped with Belgian support and behind the Belgian defenses that they could shorten the line originally held by 40 miles—that is: the line of Dinant, Namur, Louvain, Malines, and Antwerp.

This failed and at dawn on May 19 the B. E. F. had fallen back west of Brussels to the Escaut line. The British had seven divisions in the line and two in reserve in that sector. Other British forces were holding villages, bridgeheads, and towns. At the time both the British and French right and rear already had been threatened.

Belgian Army Driven North.

The Belgian army was on the left but already was being driven northeast onto the Dutch frontier, thus opening a gap on the British left. On the right the first French army, now consisting probably of only eight divisions, was fully occupied in reorganizing and trying to regain cohesion.

The war office spokesman carefully said this was not criticism, as the French had suffered heavier attacks than the B. E. F., had been pushed off their feet, and lost much equipment in the losing battle of Namur.

On May 20, Gen. Ironside flew to British headquarters. Then it was clear the B. E. F. first army would have to make an attack, the objective of which was similar to that of the Weygand plan—the bridging of the gap between the allied armies of the north and south. The reorganized but weakened first French army was to strike toward a town on the Somme, probably Peronne, altho the officer did not specify it as such. Maj. Gen. Blanchard of the French army, who was to succeed Gen. Billotte as allied coördinator, agreed with the plan whereby a flank attack would be started by a British mechanized corps with part of the French army operating on the British left.

Decide on Early Drive.

Next day the B. E. F. was informed the French were not ready for the attack, but it decided that the sooner the attack started the greater its chance for success would be. The British, throwing everything into the offensive, reached the first objective south of Arras, inflicting heavy casualties on the Germans and taking about 500 prisoners. But then heavy opposition was encountered from German infantry.

Two divisions fought on during the next two days in front of Arras and on May 23, when the Germans had worked around the western flank, they were withdrawn to prevent being encircled.

On that day all the British divisions were in the line, but arrangements had been made that the French would take over part of one sector and the Belgian divisions on the left the other, giving the British, now without reserves, an opportunity to build them up.

On May 23, Gen. Blanchard proposed an attack in a southerly direction, according to the Weygand plan, which was to be made by two British and three French divisions.

Then, however, the British were not prepared, as the only divisions available for such an attack were the two that had been in the Arras fighting. The British estimated it would take three days—or until May 26—before they would be ready. The French pressed for two days, but submitted to the British argument.

Attacks Achieve Little.

On May 23 and 24, units of the French first army made isolated local attacks southward toward Cambrai along the edges of the German salient but they achieved little. Low flying German airplanes hounded them constantly, the British spokesman said, reducing the effectiveness of their attacks.

On May 24 a shortage of munitions and food arose and efforts to land fresh supplies by parachute were frustrated by the Germans. At the same time the Belgians were being driven farther north, presenting a new danger to the British forces.

As this situation was likely to get worse, the 50th and 5th divisions were ordered northward to bolster the British left wing. Lord Gort, in ordering these divisions which were supposed to take part in the attack planned for the 26th, realized at the time, the spokesman said, that the "French would take that as a reason for not attacking themselves."

Withdrawal Plans.

Gen. Blanchard, gravely disturbed by the Belgian situation, immediately began working out plans for withdrawal, which the British spokesman said "was the only thing to do."

Whatever chance that the blow against the German salient might have been delivered was crushed by the news, delivered to the commanding officers at 11 o'clock on May 26, that King Leopold of the Belgians intended to surrender to the Germans at midnight.

The British spokesman said that as events developed, the shortage of munitions had nothing to do with the final outcome of the battle of Flanders.

An Allied War Plan That Failed

Map locates the battle line on May 19, when Gen. Maxime Weygand became commander of the allied armies, and on May 22, when the Germans had pushed a wedge between opposing forces. The Weygand plan to pinch off the advancing German army by attacks from both sides (arrows) failed. Diagonal lines indicate area held by Germans on May 19.

PROBE FAKE S O S SAYING SUB HITS U. S. DESTROYER

Washington, D. C., July 7 [Special].—Both the federal bureau of investigation and the federal communications commission this afternoon began inquiries into a fake radio SOS which earlier today had reported the American destroyer Barry hit by a German submarine and sinking. Altho the government had an anxious two hours, the navy department was able to announce, after making its own radio contact with the Barry:

"The navy has received a communication directly from the Barry, and she is not in distress. She is peacefully at anchor."

Difficult to Trace.

Neither the FBI nor the FCC minimized the difficulties involved in any attempt to find who broadcast the fake SOS, which was picked up by Mackay Radio, the Pan-American Airways station on Long Island, and by the coast guard.

The message said: "Sinking slowly, hit by German submarine; water in hold; can last three hours." The position given was 400 miles off the coast of Spain.

Unable to Fix Direction.

The message was so short that it was impossible to determine the direction of the sending apparatus.

Doubt was cast upon the authenticity of the SOS from the start by the fact that it came in not on the Barry's own wave length, but upon 55 meters—that reserved for trans-Atlantic Clipper planes.

The Barry is known to be in Spanish waters, but the navy declined to say where the vessel is anchored, explaining that such information was not given out under present day conditions.

OUR NEW NEIGHBOR IS HITLER.

Nazi Germany has informed Secretary of State Hull that altho it has no interest in American colonies the position of the United States is untenable because the Monroe Doctrine tolerated British, French, and other possessions in the western hemisphere and denied the right of possession to nations which had not acquired any. It is easy for Mr. Hull to answer that one. The Monroe Doctrine declares against the further spread of Europe in the Americas and that applies to transfers.

Mr. Hull would not be required to write notes if his department long ago had moved to clean up the situation. The French possessions are now spoils of war. The Nazis can demand French American colonies just as they can demand French African colonies. They may not want the former. They may know they would not be allowed to take them. But the play is in their hands. If they want to get title they can get it from France.

These European possessions should have been liquidated. They should have been purchased by the American government. Most of them already have been paid for. On the fairest terms to the debtors they could have been taken out of European jurisdiction and fitted into the American scheme in one way or another. Then they would not have drawn fighting into this hemisphere. They would not raise the question of possession. Mr. Hull would have no occasion to write notes to Germany and Germany would have no excuse to retort that the Monroe Doctrine was not tenable.

When our government was urged to begin negotiations for the possessions, even after the war started and after the question had become acute, the comment from the White House was that the proposal was silly. Who is silly now? The war is on our doorstep. Our new neighbor is Hitler. If he could force a bad peace on Great Britain the United States would have to take by force the possessions it might have gained by negotiation.

Mr. Hull tells the Germans that we are not involved in Europe. We are merely coöperating. We have invited them to coöperate a little bit over here.

MRS. ROOSEVELT'S FIFTH COLUMN.

Readers of this and other newspapers may wonder why any considerable amount of space has been devoted to the recent doings of the American Youth congress, in session at Lake Geneva. Ordinarily little attention is paid to the proceedings of young people's debating societies because, for the most part, the speeches and resolutions contribute nothing new to the understanding of the questions discussed. The debaters repeat the old stuff to be found in the files of the newspapers, the magazines, and the Congressional Record.

That is true, of course, at Lake Geneva also, but with this difference: The origin of the dominant opinions is easily traced and has a real and considerable significance. The young people are adhering pretty closely to the communist party line as laid down in Moscow and developed in the communist press in this country. The Youth congress is the protége of the New Deal and in particular of Mrs. Roosevelt, who is its great patron. Until Stalin made his alliance with Hitler the young communists and the young New Dealers were in accord. Now they are quarreling over such questions as aid to Britain, opposed by the communists and favored by the New Deal.

A good deal of the political history of recent years is thus epitomized at Lake Geneva. The New Deal deliberately encouraged and stimulated a class conscious, revolutionary movement in this country. The fifth column in America is largely the creation of the White House. The fifth column at Lake Geneva owes its existence to the protection of Mrs. Roosevelt. She may now regret the part she played—tho that is not certain—but whether she regrets it or not, the fact is that she is responsible for the spread of communism among the youth of the land.

In the microcosm of the youth congress is reflected the experience and influence of the New Deal in other quarters. Just as Mrs. Roosevelt encouraged communist youth, so Mr. Roosevelt gave the communists in the trade unions and especially the C. I. O. their start. He invited the communists to spread their gospel of civil war among the unemployed, the sharecroppers, and other victims of discontent and misfortune. It was a reckless game to play, particularly when his policies toward industry and agriculture were calculated to augment the sufferings of these people, and thereby add to their sense of injury and hopelessness.

The fifth columns in this country are the creation of the Roosevelt régime. They remain as a threat to the nation, in peace as well as in war. Thanks to the New Deal there is in this country today a substantial and closely knit group of adults and young people who despise our form of government and are eager to replace it with another patterned after the Moscow tyranny.

TAXES VERSUS JOBS.

On Wednesday of last week the midyear bank statements were published in the financial section of THE TRIBUNE. They showed that individuals and corporations have more money on deposit than ever before and that the banks have greater assets than ever. One Chicago bank alone has resources of a billion and a half and another of a billion and a quarter.

There are vast facilities for financing a tremendous expansion. But the reports revealed that the money isn't being used. Only an insignificant portion of the lendable funds is being employed in business. Our banking reserves in this country could support a 50 or 60 billion dollar increase in industrial financing. Unemployment of capital is the worst it has ever been.

What unemployed capital means to people generally was shown in a tabulation published in the financial section of Saturday's TRIBUNE of the 1939 financial results of 183 leading corporations. The American Federation of Investors, which compiled the figures, found that on the average an investment in industry of $6,000 was required to provide one workman with a job. If the unemployed capital now available in this country, the 50 or 60 billion dollars, was put to work in industry the problem of unemployment in this country would be solved.

What is blocking the investment of capital sufficient to absorb our unemployed? The answer to that question is in the American Investors' federation table. The answer is taxes. The 183 corporations paid taxes totaling more than 2 billion dollars in 1939. Spread over 3½ million workers that amounted to $611 per workman in that single year. Corporations cannot create more jobs when each new employé added means incurring a tax liability of $611.

The 183 companies paid as taxes 54 per cent of their net profits in 1939. That was equal to $3.05 a share, while stockholders received as dividends only $1.62 a share on the average. Capital will stand idle in the banks so long as tax collectors take nearly $2 for every dollar that goes to the capital providers and risk takers.

Nor has the worst been seen. Congress passed a bill last month drastically raising all kinds of taxes and the President has asked congress to go to work on a new measure boosting rates still further. A learned man once said that the "power to tax is the power to destroy." That would cover the present situation when what is being destroyed is the opportunity for millions to earn a livelihood.

MAKE A DEAL WITH FORD.

The government and Mr. Ford fell out on the airplane deal and so he isn't going to make any. Mr. Ford said that he could produce 1,000 planes a day if he wasn't interfered with, but he insisted that he would do it only for the American government. The government made a deal with the British government by which we got the plans and rights for the Rolls Royce engine. But our government agreed to have the American factory make Rolls Royce airplane engines for the British as well as ourselves.

It looked for a while as tho Mr. Ford's great mass production factory was going to get busy turning out about all the airplane engines the British or we would have any use for. But Henry Ford is a man with a mind and a will of his own. He took the position that he wouldn't make any fighting airplane engines for any government but his own. This killed the deal so far as he was concerned, as our government wanted Rolls Royce engines and it couldn't get the right to make them unless the American manufacturer who made them was willing to turn out some for the British. The Packard Motor Car company, which has had experience making airplane engines, was then consulted and found to be willing to make airplanes for the British or anybody. And so the government gave the Packard company the order.

No one doubts that the Packard Rolls Royce engines will be good. But it isn't able to turn out as many plane motors as fast as Mr. Ford said his company could. According to a report from Detroit, airplane engines will start coming off the Packard assembly line in 10 months at the rate of 120 a month and the output will be increased steadily until it reaches 800 per month.

That is quite a few engines, but the 800 per month is a great deal less than the mark Mr. Ford said he could hit. Mr. Ford said he could make more in a day than Packard hopes to turn out in a month.

Many people will criticize Mr. Ford for being so squeamish about some of his engines going to a foreign government. What is most to be regretted is that a way was not found to satisfy him and that his factories, among the finest examples of mass production in the world, are not now being speedily adapted to serve the defense needs of the nation. A working arrangement with Mr. Ford ought to be made so that our government will have at its disposal his 1,000 plane a day capacity. Since he feels the way he does about foreign orders, why not have him build planes just for the United States and let Packard and other automobile manufacturers fill the British orders?

Editorial of the Day

DEFENSE AND "OVERTIME" WORK.

[Milwaukee Journal.]

The Milwaukee Federated Trades council announces that it is supporting the national defense program "wholeheartedly." At the same time it expresses its opposition to any effort to abolish "limitation on the hours of labor."

With 10,000,000 workers still unemployed, it declares, there is no justification for lengthening the hours of labor. "On the contrary, the hours of labor should even now be shortened until every worker has a job."

The council, it seems to us, is oversimplifying the problem of high geared defense production. If we are to get into action for defense what we need is skilled workers. Just anybody won't do. The men must be already trained or easily trainable.

In many lines there is even now a scarcity of competent workers. Training is a slow thing and takes the time of skilled operators. In these lines, if production is to be rapidly expanded, hundreds of thousands of hours of overtime work will have to be put in by men already able to do the necessary tasks.

Labor surely knows this. If it is "wholeheartedly" for defense it must recognize the problem. Exploitation of labor must, of course, be guarded against, but putting skills to work overtime while new skills are being developed is not exploitation. It is just plain sense.

MR. PEPYS PLANS A HOLIDAY.

8th July—I do begin to cross the days off on my calendar like a man in prison, looking forward to my vacation time, and now there are but five weeks left between me and the great open spaces. I shall go far toward the setting sun and see wonders of Nature I have never seen before, and I shall not buy a newspaper or listen to a radio until I return, when my first questions will be, "How did the invasion of England turn out? And how's Wilkie running?"

So I am studying maps, and getting my duffel together, and arranging to omit civilization for about three weeks, after which I hope it will have come to its senses. Where I do plan to go does not matter, for I will go here and there wherever the mountains are biggest and most peaceful. One thing only I will tell: I am not going fishing, but will leave that to the presidential candidates. When I was younger I often went fishing because it seemed to be the great American custom, but my catches were small because I could never bring myself to think and feel like a fish, which is necessary in this art.

How often have I whipped a lake into a lather, vainly casting out my bait! How often have I heard fish talked about 15 hours a day in the log cabin camps of the north woods, where the sun burns your hide off by day and chill winds congeal your feet by night! No more of that now for Mr. Pepys, who will take his fish piping hot off a plate, well garnished with the chef's best sauces.

Henceforth my motto for vacations will be the words of the poet, "For to admire and for to see, for to behold this world so wide." And also, for to get away from all the hammering to build an annex to my office that has been going on beside me for months.

CATALPA BLOSSOMS.

(In response to the Linemaster's plaint that poets neglect the catalpa tree.)

Catalpa blossoms always look to me
Like giant popcorn bursting in a tree;
And one placed on your finger, just like that,
Looks frivolously like a fireman's hat;
But when they're old and come a-tumbling down,
They quickly turn from white to dingy brown,
And then, because I'm just a lazy bard,
I'm glad they drop in some one else's yard.
Come fall, the pods are dry and full of seeds,
And meet small boys' clandestine smoking needs.
Which ends the case—except that, if you know 'em,
You know you can't raise any grass below 'em.

Party Girl on the Farm.

She was seated in the waiting room at the doctor's, her hands a mass of bandages. "Been fighting?" I asked. "Or did you go thru the windshield?"

"Neither," she answered. "I went hunting wild strawberries."

"Any luck?"

"No, but I found the poison ivy." Then settling herself deeper in the chair she went on: "Ever been on a farm?" I nodded. "Well, I never had, so I thought it would be fun to visit Uncle Bill and Aunt Edna. But I couldn't stand it . . . the nights, so quiet we could hear each other's thoughts. They went to bed at 9 and got up at 5 instead of going out at 9 and coming in at 5. . . . And the breakfasts . . . oatmeal with cream, pancakes and sirup, fried potatoes, side pork, and apple pie."

"But they don't have to think of their figures," I protested.

She ignored me. "I tried to make myself useful. I hunted the eggs . . . but it was a mistake to sit down in the henhouse to play with the baby chicks. I began to itch all over . . . lice . . . I simply crawled with them."

I made clucking noises of sympathy. "Must have been pretty awful. Wasn't there anything at all that you enjoyed?"

"O, the baby lambs and calves were adorable," she said. "And Here Boss, the cow. I tried to milk her but nothing happened." Then her eyes began to sparkle. "And I loved Uncle Bill's hard cider. You never tasted anything like it. He kept it in the toolshed, on account of Aunt Edna, just for snake bites, you know. But Andy, the hired man, said the only time you saw snakes on the farm was after taking the cure for 'em. He was really nice to me, Andy was. Said some capon had been stealing its nest and if I'd find the eggs he'd take me to a barn dance. But I never found them."

"I'll bet you didn't," I said. "And I'll wager your Andy offered to take you snipe hunting."

"How did you guess?" she asked surprised. "I would have gone, too, but Aunt Edna wouldn't hear of it. Andy is coming here in the fall for the live stock show and is going to look me up."

"Isn't that a mistake," I asked, "seeing him out of his proper environment?"

There was a wicked gleam in her eye. "I'm going to show him the town," she promised. "And then I'm going to sell him the Michigan avenue bridge. So long, darling," and she sailed into the doctor's office.

"MISSING IN FRANCE."

It is not for him I weep, not for the gay lad with the half smile of arrogant charm whose smile is stilled, not for him with the laughing voice now silent, and the blue eyes no longer bright, and the proud lean body nourishing the soil
for the future of France, if she has a future.

Not for him who I held dearer than life nor for others who loved and miss him too can I weep now but for the country who bore him and for whom he can no longer fight.

When Chicago Danced Waltzes and Polkas

On Oct. 19, 1892, the inaugural ball for the world's fair of 1893 was given at the Auditorium. It was a big society event, with Gen. Nelson A. Miles, Mayor Washburne, N. K. Fairbank, George M. Pullman, and Marshall Field on the committee.

On the arrival of Vice President Morton the grand march was started, led by Mrs. Potter Palmer and Gen. Miles. The music was by Johnny Hand's orchestra and the United States Marine band led by Sousa. Invitations were not hard to get. Tickets were $25 a couple and included supper by Kinsley, with all the champagne one wanted.

DIRTY DISHES MENACE HEALTH.

EATING utensils of all sorts—including drinking glasses—require scrupulous attention if they are not to become health hazards. We insist that in the preparation of meals every procedure shall be carried out with due regard for the rules of sanitation. Why then put up with foggy glassware or smeary dishes? How careful are we that wholesome edibles shall not be piled onto half clean china?

Hundreds of thousands daily snatch a quick lunch at a drug store counter or a soda fountain. All the more reason why everything should be spick and span—free from bacteria that may cause digestive upsets.

As a cleansing agent there is nothing quite so valuable as hot water with plenty of soap. It—In addition—a chlorine solution can be utilized for rinsing, so much the better. The public eating place that does not have a supply of water at about 170 degrees Fahrenheit is lacking in facilities and there is no assurance that cups, saucers, and plates will be safe when rinsed at a lower temperature.

A recent report on conditions in one of our large southern cities revealed that of 347 establishments only 30 per cent were conducting dishwashing properly. Cultures taken from glassware and other containers showed the prevalence in most instances of numerous germs. Thru the coöperation of the city authorities special tanks containing chlorinated water [kept at standard strength] were provided, whereupon health standards improved greatly. It was pointed out to owners that those restaurants with the largest number of customers were the most hygienic. In other words, the public seemed to patronize instinctively places that prided themselves on immaculate service.

A few employés who were in charge of the washing operations were found to be suffering from sore throats and here the bacteria count was high. In one case coughing led to the planting of spray from an infected throat directly to supposedly clean tumblers which were then used to dispense milk.

Rather startling information was obtained as a result of examining the dishwater at the end of the rush period. Those without chlorine showed a profusion of organisms of many varieties. Those that had been chlorinated adequately at the start contained little or none as the water became filled with food débris, grease, etc. Many proprietors objected to the odor of chlorine, stating that their customers would find fault with the taste of food. While this is an important objection, it means that the disinfectant should be added from time to time—keeping up the proper dilution—which need not be strong enough to affect either odor or taste.

The housewife—if she employs a heavy soapsuds and very hot water—will have nothing to worry about. In the first place she knows that dishes from a sickroom should be scalded for several minutes and handled separately from those of the family. There is thus no occasion to employ a chemical disinfectant in the home. However, in cafés patronized by those who are ill as well as those who are well—nasal infections, sore throats, and mouth maladies [such as Vincent's angina] must be guarded against. No one of us would choose to use the same spoon that had left the mouth of one of these persons but a few minutes before. Nevertheless, that is exactly what happens if the cleansing process is sloppy.

The common drinking cup has long been labeled as dangerous. Nevertheless, in a busy lunchroom the same article may be used over and over again within a short period of time, particularly if the stock is low. With neglect of sanitation it is easy to understand why a single article may spread a mouth ailment to many persons. On picnics, paper substitutes are advisable.

HOT WEATHER DISTRESS.

B. D. writes: As soon as hot weather comes I get dizzy spells and upset stomach. I cannot eat much at such times. I am 29 years old. What causes these symptoms and can they be remedied?

REPLY.

You may be unduly sensitive to heat. On the other hand, the chances are that some slight circulatory disturbance is responsible. Try a light diet, omit salt, and obtain more rest. The alimentary tract is frequently to blame and this may need some attention. Constipation, of course, must be avoided.

HOT FEET.

L. G. Y. writes: What causes one's feet to become hot, especially at night? I am so uncomfortable I must put them out from beneath the covers, even on cold nights.

REPLY.

Congestion. This is due partly to lack of return circulation—perhaps to narrowing of the arteries supplying the parts. Hot foot baths and elevating the extremities when seated or lying down will help. If you are a user of tobacco, cut down or eliminate this solace.

BACKWARD SPEECH.

J. B. R. writes: Is there anything that can be done for a lad of 9 who is backward in his speech? He seems to be getting worse.

REPLY.

A skilled physician may be able to find the cause. The apparatus involved is complicated, including the larynx, the vocal cords, the tongue, and the muscles of the cheeks, etc. If the responsible factor is some nerve injury or failure, the outlook is less hopeful.

CITY NEEDS PUBLIC AMBULANCES.

Chicago, July 3.—The "cruelty and inhumanity" of having in Chicago no system for assuring medical aid at the scene of an accident was well set forth in Mr. W. F. Mattes' letter published July 1. The fireman injured in the Halsted street accident had, at that, better treatment than the average victim, for at least he was carried away in a fire department ambulance, whereas the ordinary citizen is usually jackknifed into anybody's automobile for transportation to a hospital.

The negligence is not only cruel and inhumane—it is costly in the end. For by saving a few dollars thru not spending money for ambulances, medically manned, the city is often forced to expend thousands on longer hospitalization at the taxpayers' expense, and the victim suffers more disability and loses more time from his work than would be necessary if he received prompt, competent first aid, and proper transportation to the hospital. New York has more than a hundred public ambulances, half of them owned by the city. Chicago has only one, not generally available.

A plan for coördinated public emergency service has been submitted to the city council by the joint committee on public emergency ambulance service. It is proposed to inaugurate the service with 20 ambulances, and the estimated cost of operation for the first year, including ambulances and equipment, maintenance, and administrative salaries, would be $280,260. Mr. Mattes' letter, and general knowledge of the deplorable situation that exists, should arouse citizens of Chicago to demand the protection that public ambulances, medically approved, with medical attendants, will give them.

FRESH WATER SAILORS.

Evanston, Ill., July 3.—Fresh water and the middle west may yet come into their own as a naval training center away from the dangerous threat directed at seaboard defense and eastern naval depots.

Lake Michigan has much to offer, and some day Washington may do something about it. It ought to do something now about harbors for pleasure craft. Sailing is still recognized as fundamental training for the sea by most important nations, with the United States as one of the exceptions.

The swarms of sailing dinghies in Belmont and Burnham harbors are producing boys with resourceful minds and observing eyes. There ought to be room for them to increase their numbers and to broaden their experience. They will shortly get beyond harbor sailing. Those boys will never rake leaves in a CCC camp. They will more than likely be flying planes with a talent for understanding wind and water developed at an early age.

But the lake needs harbors. Are we going to get them? A few years ago a veteran western senator who had been successful in getting many government appropriations for his state made this interesting statement: "Why doesn't Illinois get good representation in Washington? Most of your congressmen that I have observed from Illinois over a period of years were about as qualified to do something for your state as a couple of empty beer barrels." That was before Lucas and Slattery. I wonder if these two gentlemen have anything on the ball?

A NATIVE CHICAGOAN.

OUR AFFLICTED MAYOR.

Chicago, July 6.—In your Fourth of July paper a sad, heart-rending item appeared headed "Trickster Posed Him Beside Nazi's Flag, Says Kelly." All good citizens will accordingly deplore such trickery foisted on our guileless mayor.

Can we not have a "Wailing day" set aside in the city curriculum of days off without loss of pay in which we can weep copiously and long for our afflicted mayor?

F. G. W.

A MOTHER'S APPEAL.

Chicago, July 3.—The other day I read in your paper of children who were refugees from England being given homes in this country, or being adopted by some kind hearted person whose home would be brightened by the addition of a child.

After spending long weeks in a hospital and having my life miraculously restored, I am unable to find a position which I can fill even tho I've had excellent experience in several lines, and it will be many months before I can hold a position again, due to my health.

But one must eat, and a healthy, strong boy, always hungry, cannot understand why mother is ill or not able to provide as heretofore.

Is there some one somewhere who would open his or her heart to this boy and thereby relieve the burden of worry and heartache for a mother too sick to carry on?

A DISTRACTED MOTHER.

FROM A VETERAN AT HINES.

Chicago, July 5.—All day yesterday out here at Hines hospital we could hear the bang of firecrackers and cannon crackers.

I, for one, sat all day without a cigaret or a cent to buy one. If people are still going to buy fireworks why not let the veterans make them and so earn a few dollars?

Why not help the people who have seen and heard real fireworks and who helped make Fourth of July a real time for patriotic rejoicing?

VETERAN.

A PLANE THAT ALSO TOOTS.

Chicago, July 6.—Isn't it bad enough to have an advertising plane flying back and forth over the audience at the Grant park concerts without the gol-darned thing tooting a horn, too? That area ought to be out of bounds for such nuisances.

WANTS WAR SALES SECRET.

Highland Park, Ill., July 4.—With the eastern hemisphere at war and the rest of the world jittery because of it, why do the newspapers of this country print articles such as "Army Officials Admit Big TNT Sale to Britain"?

The article is just what un-Americans such as communists and fifth columnists would be delighted to read, as it exposes where our TNT and other instruments of war are located or buried. The word "secrecy" seems rather a joke when so much is explained in print.

I believe the American people trust our army and navy and every one connected directly therewith; it does not seem necessary to expose our hiding places—of what we have and where we keep it.

TRUE AND TRIED YANKEE.

A CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTION.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 5.—I am impressed with the importance of the coming election, believing that this country has never been more seriously threatened. So believing, I wish to make a necessarily modest contribution to the Republican national committee. Will you be so kind as to give me the address to which such a contribution can be sent?

G. T.

REPUBLICANS, GET BUSY!

Chicago, July 3.—Republicans, drop your housework, your golf clubs; yes, even your fishing trip, so that you may devote more time and energy to continuous practical thinking and doing. You have not a wink of an eye to spare if you wish to save and hold picturesque America for your ideals. It is now or never.

RAISING OF CHICKENS.

Chicago, July 3 [Friend of the People].—Can anything be done about people raising chickens in the city? My neighbor moved his family in from the farm and they have 400 young chickens in basement of house, and turkeys, guinea hens, and ducks, and large chickens in garage; also two or three dogs. I can't open my bedroom windows because of the odor, and I have three small tots, one 12 years, one 3 years, and a 4 month old baby—and that smell is terrible. When I put them to sleep for afternoon naps I have to have them in the parlor. Where can I open the windows?

J. M.

In response to your request an investigation was made of the nuisance referred to which you sent us. The inspector's report of the conditions observed by him resulted in a notice to the occupant of the premises as follows:

"Remove poultry from basement of building. Maintain cleanliness of coops in yard. Abate nuisance from poultry or remove from premises."

Suitable action was taken in connection with this notice until compliance was reported by our inspector on June 4.

3. There is no record in any court of my case having been filed.

4. Neither can I get any contact or report from the lawyer.

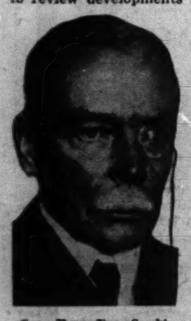
TELLS HOW NAZI MACHINE UNITED NATION FOR WAR

Sigrid Schultz Reveals Blitzkrieg's Beginning.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 7.—It is not sufficient to review developments from a military viewpoint to understand why Germany won the different blitzkriegs in the last 10 months. When Adolf Hitler seized power seven years ago the German people were ready for the hard work and the rôle he envisioned for them, and under his guidance they accepted the sacrifices and the drills and the work necessary to turn Germany into the most powerful war machine in Europe.



Gen. Hans Von Seeckt, creator of Reichswehr.

This was possible because of the German military tradition and because of the fact that when the Germans laid down their arms in November, 1918, more than half of the people believed that despite the outcome of the war Germany had not really been defeated.

Prussia's spirit was as military as ever despite the Versailles treaty and the limitations it imposed on the German army.

The general staff was disbanded by order of the allies, but its members carried on their work secretly. Gen. Eric von Ludendorff, the outstanding military genius of the world war in the eyes of Germany, devised a plan for a "totalitarian mobilization" in case of war, and the Nazis have put it into force on an unprecedented scale.

Red Threat Suppressed.

While Red revolutionists were tearing thru the streets of German cities at the end of 1919, Friedrich Ebert, the president of the newly proclaimed German republic, called upon soldiers and officers of the old German army to help him defeat the Reds, and they banded together as volunteers. The communist leaders, Rosa Luxemburg and Dr. Karl Liebknecht, were killed. The new powerholders of the republic helped their military friends safeguard the vestiges of the old imperial army, and together they saved Germany from communism.

By order of the Versailles treaty the army was disbanded, but behind the scenes the German military men remained a powerful group. In the conference rooms of the political parties in the reichstag they pulled their wires cleverly.

New War Science Evolved.

The Versailles treaty permitted the German army and navy to number only 115,000 men. The generals of the old imperial army, who had commanded millions in the world war were compelled to shed all the old ideas of mass movement; they had to think thru all their military knowledge and start at the bottom to build up new military theories.

When the time came for Germany to rebuild her army by order of Adolf Hitler on a scale adapted to the size of the German population, the plans worked out by the old reichswehr under Gen. von Seeckt to render the army of 115,000 efficient were developed to fit an army of millions. When the war of 1939 started, the Germans had not only millions of men trained to serve, but a whole new military service built up on the new "economy of military means."

Nation Grows Health Conscious.

To have a strong army a nation must have a healthy, strong, and brave people. Germany started to build up national health right after the armistice of 1918.

Germany systematically developed sports to replace military training and developed national health centers. Laws were introduced to wipe out venereal diseases, which had developed tremendously during the war. Campaigns were waged against tuberculosis, and compulsory health insurance made it easy for workers and employés to improve their health.

There have been times in the last 23 years when the Germans felt the pinch of this or that shortage, but they never went thru a prohibition period in which the youth of the country learned to drink hard liquor and in which many grown-ups developed the idea that liquor was the safest foundation for a good time.

Only a few have weakened their bodies thru liquor because the people have been taught from childhood the importance of health.

The education of Germans now is directed toward only one goal—the strength of the country. The Nazis have eliminated from schools everything that they think might reduce the striking power of the country.

In the days of the world war I obtained a special permit to attend a course of international law at the Berlin university. I remember a whitehaired professor who paced thru the classroom positively tearing his hair as he told the students, "Germany is doomed because she invaded Belgium, and according to international law she had no right to do so. History has shown that such steps are always punished."

Must Swear In Leaders.

Today such a thing is impossible. Teachers, professors, and leaders in all phases of life must be sworn to obey the Nazi creed and act accordingly. Concentration camps hide the fate of those who openly refuse.

"Right is what is of value to the nation," Nazi lawmakers have decreed.

The older generation in Germany is organized in political units, in professional guilds, and in military or semi-military organizations.

The Germans love discipline. They have been taught that if they preserve discipline and accept all sacrifices for the sake of the fatherland, they will be rich and powerful—and they believe it.

At the camps of Hitler Youths foreigners often have been struck by the number of skulls and crossbones decorating the tents and objects used by the smallest of the uniformed boys. Only a few days ago I saw a Schutzstaffel man holding to the strap in a street car; on one of his fingers was a broad silver ring displaying a skull and crossbones. Death figures in countless songs of Germany's youth, which is taught not to fear it.

Science Given One Aim.

The old-fashioned German university prided itself on its freedom of thought and its ability to view problems from a scientific viewpoint. German science is told today that only the science that can serve the purposes of a nation that is imbued with the Nazi creed has a right to survive.

The student must spend months on the farm and work in the labor service to learn to respect the work of the man who toils with his hands. He must be physically fit and be an expert at sports. Otherwise he cannot complete his studies.

A political machine was built up by Hitler's strength to utilize the striking power of the nation. It mobilizes all the forces of the people and compels them to obey orders.

The Nazi machine is so closely knit that when Hitler's deputy leader issues an order to be passed down to the party members unofficially, not thru the press or proclamations, the ward man in my block knows within 12 hours what he must tell the members of the cell [unit] he controls, and within another 12 hours the Nazi headquarters staff knows what the reaction of the cell has been.

Strict regimentation of finances and economics, all ruled by leaders appointed by Hitler and responsible to him alone, has been achieved by the Nazi party, and nobody in Germany will question any measure taken by a government agent.

One can hear occasional grumblings, but they are nothing compared to the striking power which the government has achieved thru its strict regimentation. A new social class has moved to the fore. It received its power from Hitler and it serves Hitler. It cannot, if it wants to remain in power, flirt with this or that theory of life, this or that philosophy, or this or that political party.

On the other side of the war fence are generals who were victorious and continue to think in terms of the world war, which gave them their laurels. Other countries had secret services working with old fashioned ideas and methods, while in Germany every member of a German cell at home or abroad had to "live for his high duty of serving the state."

French and English diplomats were never happier than when they felt they could believe that matters would remain as they were and that peace could be preserved. The military attachés of France and England and other democratic countries saw the German military parades. They saw the huge political organization, the recruits, the tanks, the motorized forces, and the parachute troops.

REDS POUR FRESH DIVISIONS INTO NEWLY WON LAND

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 7, [passed by censor] (AP).—Soviet Russia poured additional armed divisions into Rumania's lost northern territories tonight to strengthen motorized troops which completed the occupation of Bessarabia and northern Bukovina on July 3.

It was indicated that the government of the new Premier Ion Gigurtu planned to proceed cautiously in fulfilling its extremist program.

Germany was represented in pro-Nazi Iron Guard circles as being opposed to any extremist measures which might provoke internal disorder and injure Rumania's productivity for Germany in this war year.

Hans Otto Roth, the Transylvanian Saxon has not yet taken his oath of office before King Carol as minister of minorities, it was learned tonight.

A FATHER WANTS to provide $100 a month
FOR HIS FAMILY

Many fathers prefer the New York Life Family Income Policy because of the extra protection that it provides while their children are young. For example:

Suppose a young father takes a $10,000 (face amount) Family Income Policy with a "20-year period". If he died during the "20-year period," $100 a month would be paid throughout the remainder of the "period" and then, in addition, the full face amount of the policy, $10,000, would be payable.

For example, if death occurred immediately after the policy was issued, the total guaranteed payments would be $34,000. If he died, say, at the end of the tenth year, the total guaranteed payments would be $22,000.

If he died after the "20-year period", the sum payable would be $10,000.

If he lived to retirement age, as so many men do, he could obtain, through his policy, an income for life.

For fathers of young children, this policy is unusually attractive, both as to plan and premium rate. For further information, mail the coupon for booklet.

SEEKS TO DRIVE DANNY STANTON FROM UNION RULE

Courtney Turns His Guns on Public Enemy.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

State's Attorney Courtney yesterday said that the campaign to drive Frank [the Enforcer] Nitti out of his controling position in various Chicago labor unions would be followed by a similar campaign directed against Danny Stanton, south side gangster and public enemy.

Courtney predicted that success in removing Nitti domination from the Bartenders and Beverage Dispensers' union would encourage appeals to the courts in behalf of other unions. Last week Judge Robert J. Dunne, in Circuit court, announced he would appoint a receiver for the bartenders' union, who would supplant President Louis Romano, a reputed Nitti agent.

Opportunity to Clean House.

"Judge Dunne is paving the way for what ought to be a grand opportunity for all unions to clean house," the prosecutor asserted. "If the court gives the union an opportunity to pick its own officials in a court-supervised election it will be doing labor and the public in general a fine service.

"Stanton has been a political power on the south side for many years. He is reputed to control the waiters' union. The waiters, bartenders, dishwashers, hotel maids, and others in the business of catering to the public are grouped in a number of unions which are dominated by Romano thru an organization known as the joint council."

Can't Find Nitti or Humphreys.

Courtney said his detectives have been unable to find Nitti or Murray Humphreys, named as Roman's co-sponsors. It was learned that Nitti, who is bossing remnants of the old Capone syndicate, testified recently in the gambling investigation conducted by United States Attorney Campbell with a federal grand jury, and then left the city.

What Nitti told the federal grand jury was kept secret. Courtney said there is much more for Nitti to tell about his relationships with union officials.

ANOTHER ESCAPE IS RECORDED AT INDIANA PRISON

Another escape was recorded yesterday at the Indiana state prison at Michigan City when Ernest Stahls, a trusty, walked off the prison farm. There are no armed guards on the farm in the daytime. Stahls, 32 years old, was sentenced from Evansville in 1937 to one to five years for larceny. He would have finished his term next Jan. 12.

If Stahls is recaptured he will face a possible sentence of one to five years for his escape. He originally was committed from Newcastle and has been in and out of the prison and the Pendleton reformatory since 1933. He was paroled twice and returned twice for parole violations.

Warden Alfred F. Dowd's office announced yesterday that James Irrey, colored, who escaped from the prison in August, 1920, had been found in Clarksdale, Miss. Irrey, 63 years old, was sentenced to 2 to 14 years from Evansville in 1919 for assault to kill. He escaped in August, 1920. A few days ago, as Frank Duncan, he was fined for disorderly conduct in Clarksdale. Fingerprints disclosed his identity. He will be returned to Michigan City after working out a fine in Clarksdale.

SURFACE LINES CONDUCTOR DIES.

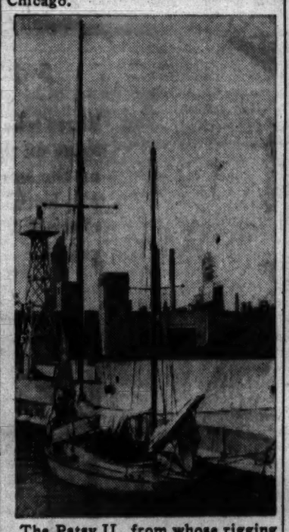
Vincent Waters, 60 years old, a conductor for the Chicago Surface lines, died yesterday in his home at 5345 Grace street.

Drowning Reported

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Mrs. Marjorie Sickels of Milwaukee, who was aboard the yawl Patsy II. when its owner, Melvin Allen, was drowned.

William S. Sickels, another of the party who reported the death of Allen after yawl was towed to Chicago.



The Patsy II., from whose rigging Allen was reported to have fallen to his death.

The story of a drowning in Lake Michigan, about 30 miles off Milwaukee, was brought to Chicago yesterday by members of a cruise party aboard auxiliary yawl Patsy II. The victim was Melvin Allen of 1026 North Jackson street, Milwaukee, owner of the boat. He fell into the lake off the boat's rigging, authorities were told.

With Allen in the boat were William S. Sickels and his wife, Marjorie, of 1577 South 58th street, and Marvin Knoller, 2756 North Cramer street, all of Milwaukee. They said a two hour search failed to recover Allen's body.

Early yesterday Sickels and the others signaled the steamer William McLaughlin, which picked them up and towed the yawl to Chicago, where they were met by a coast guard crew.

DIES IN SUMMER HOME.

Axel Lind, 44 years old, 1106 West 103d street, a foreman for the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company, died of a heart attack yesterday in his summer home near McCullom Lake in McHenry county.

EIGHT LOSE LIVES IN SWIMMING AND BOAT ACCIDENTS

Youth Drowns Trying to Rescue Girl.

Eight persons from Chicago and vicinity lost their lives yesterday in swimming and boating accidents.

Theodore A. Malecki, 18 years old, 2549 Milwaukee avenue, an expert swimmer, drowned in Silver lake, 25 miles west of Kenosha, Wis., while unsuccessfully trying to save the life of Miss Loretta Jachim, 22, of 1214 North Wolcott avenue.

Witnesses said they heard screams, then saw Malecki leap from a rowboat and two persons in the water. By the time aid arrived both Malecki and Miss Jachim had disappeared. The two were attending a church picnic. Authorities said Miss Jachim apparently lost her balance and fell overboard and that Malecki went after her.

Two Drown in Fox Lake.

Herman Bloch, 33, of 5406 South Seeley avenue, an advertising man, and E. J. Harms, 30, of 609 East Chicago street, Elgin, drowned in separate boating accidents on Fox lake, McHenry county.

Bloch and his fiancée, Miss Margaret Gillum, 11939 Normal avenue, were riding in a speedboat when it collided with another boat and both were thrown out. Bloch went down. Miss Gillum was rescued and, suffering from shock, was taken to St. Theresa's hospital, Waukegan. Bloch's body was recovered later.

Harms was thrown from a speedboat and four companions were unable to rescue him.

Body Is Recovered.

Edward Chalfoux, 22, of 3537 Flournoy street, a mechanic, drowned while swimming in Diamond lake, Lake county. His body was recovered.

John Hassell, 18, of 1755 Belle Plaine avenue, drowned in Barron lake, near Niles, Mich., apparently after being stricken with a heart attack.

Margaret Naughton, 11, granddaughter of John Naughton, 9000 Carpenter street, a retired fireman, drowned while swimming in Lake Michigan near Pierpoint, Mich., north of Manistee.

Walter Kuk, 12, a deaf mute, drowned at the Michigan City, Ind., public beach while wading in less than three feet of water. He lived at 404 Pulaski street, La Porte.

250 Naval Reservists Leave on Summer Cruise

Two hundred and fifty members of the United States naval reserve from Illinois sailed yesterday on the gunboat Wilmette for the annual two week summer training cruise. At South Manitou island the Wilmette will meet four other gunboats of the Great Lakes states for maneuvers which will include training in ship handling, small boat handling, engineering, and gunnery.

SAVAGE MAN KILLERS!

Unless properly treated, syphilis and gonorrhea are as dangerous to life as the most ferocious wild animals!

MANY a man who would quake with fear at the thought of being attacked by a ferocious wild animal will calmly neglect a venereal infection—or try to cure it himself with worthless drug store remedies. Yet syphilis and gonorrhea are savage man killers—diseases that between them are estimated to be responsible for at least 300,000 premature deaths in this country every year!

Unless given the very best of medical attention, syphilis can easily be the cause of heart failure, blindness, deafness, apoplexy, paralysis or even insanity. And gonorrhea can attack the heart or result in a sight-destroying eye infection, crippling arthritis, stricture, or serious prostate, bladder, kidney and other troubles. In addition, either infection may make it impossible for you to have children!

So, if you know or suspect you have a venereal disease, don't neglect it or resort to self treatment but secure expert medical attention at once! Such attention can be had very inexpensively from the Public Health Institute, whose doctors have given more than 5,300,000 examinations and treatments for syphilis and gonorrhea in the past 20 years.

PRE-MARRIAGE EXAMINATIONS

With separate departments for men and women, the Public Health Institute is especially well fitted to make the medical tests which the law requires every couple to have before a marriage license can be obtained. A thorough physical examination, including all necessary laboratory tests, costs $3.00 per person. Those examined before 2 P.M. (at 159 or 169 N. Dearborn St.) can have certificates same day.

Because the Public Health Institute was founded by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois, its charges are remarkably low for the expert treatment given. A thorough examination for syphilis and gonorrhea, including blood tests, urinalysis and gonorrheal smears, costs very little, while individual treatments are easily within the reach of every wage earner.

Furthermore, even those temporarily short of money can arrange to be treated without undergoing an embarrassing credit investigation or signing any papers whatsoever!

"Look at that, Captain. One locomotive hauling seventy carloads of tanks fifty miles an hour.

"That's the mass transportation we must rely on the railroads to furnish for national defense. They alone can provide the mass movements of men and material vital to successful operations.

"Another duty of the railroads is to maintain communications and keep traffic moving behind the lines in coordination with mechanized land and air transport.

"Yes, a tremendous responsibility will rest on the railroads in the development of national defense. They are the one indispensable agency of transportation."

It is plain that the railroads have an important part to play in speeding national defense. Railroad management is competent, and railroad employes know how to run railroads. Whatever is asked of the railroads will be done with credit to themselves and to the nation.

ASSAIL IRELAND'S NEUTRALITY AS A PERIL TO BRITAIN

Belfast and London Cite Dangers of Attack.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 7.—Efforts to persuade Ireland to accept the necessary aid from Britain to protect it against a German invasion still continue, altho the conditions of Prime Minister Eamon de Valera are regarded as impossible by the government of Northern Ireland.

Lord Craigavon.

From Britain's viewpoint the inability of Ireland's own defenses to prevent a German landing is a considerable source of anxiety. The establishment of German submarine and air bases in Ireland would present the great danger that the German blockade now cutting off shipping on the east and south coasts might be extended to include the only lifeline this country has with the outside world, the west coast.

Confers with Churchill.

Lord Craigavon, prime minister of Northern Ireland, visited London today and conferred with Prime Minister Winston Churchill and other British ministers. It can be assumed that this problem was discussed, especially since Churchill himself told parliament last week that altho the Irish situation was a very explosive subject, it was receiving close attention.

Lord Craigavon returned to Belfast tonight, but he said before leaving that he was very satisfied with the talks which he had with Churchill. Belfast has been insisting that Ireland abandon its neutrality and join Ulster in full association with Britain and the empire in the war. Craigavon stressed Ulster's determination to continue to play her part.

De Valera's terms, on the contrary, would neutralize all of Ireland which would mean withdrawal of British troops from Ulster. If this happens, it is declared here, Ireland would be helpless in the face of a German invasion.

Precludes Discussions.

De Valera's determination to defend Ireland's neutrality at all costs and "under all circumstances," altho interpreted as meaning Ireland would resist a German invasion, fails to provide for proper British aid.

The objection here to De Valera's attitude is that it precludes any general staff discussions which would make resistance to the enemy more effective.

A ministry of information announcement declared that "responsible circles in northern Ireland" hold that so long as Ireland maintains neutrality "if British troops landed either to drive out the Germans or to prevent a German invasion, the guns of the Irish army would be turned against them."

The Daily Mail recommended strong reinforcement of the British fighting forces in Ulster as a solution of the problem.

To Hear Diversion Plea

[TRIBUNE Photo.]
MONTE M. LEMANN.

Monte M. Lemann, a special master for the United States Supreme court, arrived in Chicago yesterday to open hearings on the petition of the state of Illinois seeking increased diversion of Lake Michigan waters into the drainage canal. The increase, from 1,500 to 5,000 cubic feet a second, is sought for the protection of health.

Lemann, an attorney of New Orleans, La., declined to comment on the hearings. He is expected, however, to hear at least 100 witnesses representing Illinois and the various lake states opposing more diversion.

Today Lemann, Attorney General John E. Cassidy of Illinois, and others will make a boat trip along the waterway from Joliet to Chicago for a first hand inspection of conditions which Cassidy charges are "obnoxious and dangerous" to public health. Hearings will start tomorrow.

51 German Coal Miners Are Killed in Explosion

START REVISION OF BASIC FRENCH LAW THIS WEEK

Weakening of Legislative Branch Is Seen.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CLERMONT-FERRAND, France, July 7.—The constituent assembly which is scheduled to meet in Vichy, the provisional capital, early this week, probably will give Premier Marshal Petain an almost unanimous mandate to rewrite France's constitution.

The French government is carefully studying British propaganda efforts to distort American opinion about what has happened in Europe. The situation appears to the French to be that the British, under Prime Minister Churchill, have failed to persuade the neutral countries in Europe to join their cause in declaring war on Germany.

Use Newspaper Men.

The French also insist that the British having now lost their French allies and all prestige in continental Europe, are centering their last effort on getting the United States into the war.

British propaganda, according to French observers, is largely employing those American newspaper correspondents and writers who fled from France and went to England after the Germans advanced beyond Paris.

The French are anxious that American opinion should understand their position as carefully outlined by Foreign Minister Paul Baudoin, who said in a statement a few days ago that relations between France and England would enter an entirely new phase. It seems certain that this country will enter into a closer continental economic system and there seems now no way out of a close continental solidarity.

Deputies and senators continue to arrive in Vichy from all parts of France. Vice Premier Pierre Laval is vigorously telling his compatriots that reforms must be drastic with no half measures. "We must destroy the old in order to create anew," he says.

Discuss New Legislature.

What many Frenchmen think is needed is strengthening of the executive branch, which has lost its force and fallen into hands of the legislative branch, whereas originally the French constitution of 1875 was designed to make a balance of powers. Such a balance of powers no longer exists, according to reformists.

From what can be gathered there is no intention to abolish the legislative branch altogether, but it will be constituted on nonparty lines and possibly will be summoned to meet only when Premier Petain requires it.

They speak here of the new legislature taking the form of two chambers, an upper and lower, with the upper consisting of representatives of big professional, intellectual and economic interests, while the lower would be based on corporative and family lines.

Some controversy has arisen over the question of a quorum. It appeared that the ousted communist deputies would not be considered in reckoning a quorum.

The number of senators and deputies likely to be present was estimated at between 500 and 600.

Meanwhile, national life, paralyzed by defeat and the odyssey of refugees, is returning slowly to normal. Already a train has left Vichy for Paris, but in general there is no traffic or circulation across the "frontier" of occupied and nonoccupied France. In many places in occupied France the Germans have organized local militia to keep order, but language makes difficulties.

For this reason all German speaking French police were assembled and sent north yesterday in a long convoy.

PAROLEE, 22, SHOT BY POLICEMAN AFTER BURGLARY

Albany Park police last night shot and seriously wounded Domnick Paul Corso, 22 years old, 1149 North Larrabee street, as he fled from a house at 4345 North Harding avenue, which he had ransacked.

Occupants of the dwelling, the family of Charles J. Jackson, a postal employé, were not at home. Neighbors saw Corso enter and summoned police.

Squad Leader William Cantwell and Policeman Dwight Hartnett commanded Corso to come out. He did so, but jumped a rear fence and ran. After three commands to halt, Cantwell fired five shots, four of which struck Corso. Detective bureau records showed Corso had been arrested four times since 1935—twice for burglary—and had served 30 days in the Bridewell for burglary in 1935.

Hindsight and Foresight

By HOLGAR J. JOHNSON
President, Institute of Life Insurance

JUST a short time ago the Congress of the United States put the finishing touches on another 3 billion dollars' worth of national defense appropriations.

"Insurance against war," they called it. And it seems a small price to pay for peace and security. True, it is about four cents out of every dollar every one of us will earn this year, but if it will just give us the chance to go on being free, to go on seeking individual security and national happiness, we can well afford it.

It may interest you to know that 3 billion dollars is also just about the sum of the benefits which life insurance companies will pay out or credit this year to policyholders or their families.

These 3 billions of life insurance will mean food and shelter and comfort—peace—for about a million families. Some of the families are your neighbors or may even be your friends or relatives. In all, there are sixty-four million life insurance policyholders in America who, even as you and I, foresee the need of a personal or family "defense fund"—a protection against the dangers all men face.

And so, each of the sixty-four million of us "appropriates" a few cents out of every dollar he earns and puts it into life insurance.

AND I think the most comforting thought of all is that we can depend on our life insurance. Your life insurance company may seem far away from you, impersonal. But when loss or trouble comes, you'll find it right at your side, all prepared to give you the full reward of your foresight.

NOTE: In this regular Monday column, paid for at advertising rates, the Institute of Life Insurance has asked its president to discuss questions of interest to life insurance policyholders. Inquiries may be addressed to 60 East 42nd Street, New York City.

EXTRA SKILL AND EXTRA DARING MADE
CLINTON FERGUSON AMERICA'S NO.1 OUTBOARD CHAMPION

BOMBSHELL! That's his name for it. A splinter of mahogany, a bit of fabric ... why, it's nothing but a shell with a motor. But when Clinton Ferguson clamps down the throttle of that motor, you've got the fastest combination in outboarding today. Speed? More than that. Speed plus—plus one man's uncanny ability to wheedle and squeeze just a few extra miles per hour out of four cylinders and a propeller. Yes, it's the extras that win—even in cigarettes.

LEAN, WIRY, 135 pounds of nerve and driving skill. Hunched in that tiny pit—one hand on the wheel, the other on the throttle—he roars across the surface in a frothing skid against time. Half in, half out of the water, Clinton Ferguson never lets up. Turns? He takes them wide open ...throws himself around... with a daring equaled only by the extra skill of his steering hand. Boats, drivers—cigarettes—it's the extras that set them apart... like the extra mildness of Camels.

THE "EXTRAS" IN CAMELS MADE THEM HIS CIGARETTE

THE "EXTRAS" of costlier, slower-burning tobaccos have made Camels the No. 1 cigarette in the field. And the explanation of these extras in Camels is just as scientific as it is logical. Too-fast burning in a cigarette creates excess heat. Excess heat ruins the delicate elements of mildness and flavor. Slower burning preserves flavor and aroma... naturally gives a cooler smoke. Camels, with their costlier tobaccos, give you extras that you won't find in any other cigarette—even a slower way of burning that means extra smoking per pack (see panel at right).

EXTRA MILDNESS
EXTRA COOLNESS
EXTRA FLAVOR

In recent laboratory tests, Camels burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to

CITY PREPARES FOR HOST'S ROLE AT CONVENTION

Mayor Kelly's citizens' committee, headed by Col. A. A. Sprague, announced yesterday the first details of plans for the entertainment of officials, delegates, and alternates to the Democratic national convention.

A. A. Sprague.

"Chicago, the friendly, homelike host, has a warm hearted welcome for you," read letters sent by the mayor to the 5,000 men and women expected to participate in the proceedings in the Stadium next week.

"There will be many memories of your visit to Chicago and we hope that none will be more inspiring and worth the telling than the thoughtful hospitality and kindly concern of all our citizens for your pleasure and comfort."

Booklets Sent to Visitors.

With the letters went booklets entitled "What to Do and See in Chicago," which is said to be a complete guide to the city and its many attractions.

To convert the hospitality theme into reality, each of the official conventioneers and the visiting newspaper men will receive on arrival a courtesy card bearing his name and the signature of Mayor Kelly. In addition to extending the traditional but symbolic key to the city, the card will entitle the holders to certain definite courtesies.

Outstanding on this list will be free admissions to the Chicago Cubs baseball game with the New York Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers during convention week, to the Arlington park racetrack, to the annual Police and Fire show in Soldiers' field next Sunday, to the Negro World's Fair in the Coliseum, and to loop motion picture theatres.

Golf Privileges Included.

The card also will carry with it the golf privileges of several clubs, and it will be honored at the Art institute, the Field museum, the Shedd aquarium, and the Industrial museum.

A number of special events for special groups also were announced by the committee, among them the following:

SUNDAY—P. A. Nash, national committeeman for Illinois, will entertain the state's delegates and alternates and their families in the Red Lacquer room in the Palmer House at 6:30 p. m. Mayor Kelly will be host to convention officials, party leaders, and other distinguished officials in the ballroom of the Blackstone hotel at 7:30 p. m.

MONDAY—National Young Democrats' dinner, Stevens hotel. Midnight buffet for the press given by Mayor Kelly in the Drake hotel.

TUESDAY—Mayor Kelly will entertain the Young Democrats of Chicago and their guests at luncheon in the Blackstone hotel.

The first dash of early color for the convention will arrive today—on horseback. The Garner headquarters in the Hotel Sherman announced that E. B. Germany of Dallas, Tex., one of the Garner managers, will show up at the formal opening of the headquarters this afternoon clad in cowboy regalia, waving a pistol, and riding a cow pony.

BILLION DOLLAR TAX INCREASE EXPECTED TO FINANCE DEFENSE

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—A new billion dollar annual increase in taxes may be proposed, it was reported today, as companion legislation to the projected 5 billion dollar boost in national defense outlays.

Senator George.

President Roosevelt is expected to send a special message to congress by the middle of the week asking for 4 billions in appropriations and contract authorizations for the army and 1 billion for the navy.

Senator Walter F. George [D., Ga.], a member of the senate finance committee, said he understands this new defense request will be linked with a tax increase of a billion dollars.

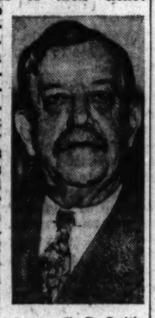
George said he believed a maximum of 350 millions additional could be raised by excess profits taxes on corporations, which the President already has suggested to congress. The remaining 650 millions, he predicted, will have to be obtained from individuals and thru miscellaneous sources.

NEW DEAL FOES TALK OF BACKING WILLKIE TICKET

MayBoltConvention,Name Him Head of 3d Party.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 7.—With third party bolts of their ticket threatened on two flanks, the Democrats will assemble in Chicago a week from tomorrow for their national convention.



Senator E. D. Smith.

The latest threat of party schism comes from democracy's rock ribbed solid south. Senator Ellison D. Smith [D., S. C.] reflected the attitude of many conservative southern Democrats when he predicted that "millions of real Democrats" will vote for Wendell Willkie, the former Democrat who is the Republican nominee for President.

The senator's prediction was predicated on the renomination of President Roosevelt for a third term or on the nomination of some other New Dealer chosen by Mr. Roosevelt.

"I'm a real Democrat and I'm tired of my party being led by this so-called New Deal," said Senator Smith.

"Coalition" of Conservatives.

Nomination by the Republicans of a man who was classed as a Democrat up to a year ago and voted the Republican ticket for the first time in 1936 is being hailed by many conservative Democrats as the realization of the project of coalition of conservatives of all parties to check the New Deal's progress toward attainment of the socialistic state.

A plan being widely discussed among conservative Democrats is the withdrawal of anti-New Dealers from the Chicago convention and the organization of a rump convention to nominate Willkie for President as the candidate of a party to be called "Constitutional Democrats."

One objective of such a third party would be to attract the support of southern Democrats who would not vote for Willkie on the Republican ticket, because of the deeply ingrained prejudice in that section against any one or anything labeled Republican.

Hopes to Split Solid South.

If they should be sufficiently numerous, the Democratic party would be badly split and Willkie would carry some of the southern states. A Democratic party split in the south might easily compass the election of the Republican ticket.

The other third party threat emanates from Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], John L. Lewis, the C. I. O. generalissimo, and their followers.

Senator Wheeler asserts that he will lead a third party bolt of the Democratic ticket if the Democratic platform fails to take an unequivocal stand against sending American youth to fight in Europe. Lewis proclaims Wheeler his choice for a third party nominee for President.

Dozen States Involved.

To organize a third party on national lines and place its ticket on the ballot in all states is difficult and expensive, on account of the provisions of the election laws. But to put a third ticket into the field in selected key states would be wholly feasible.

The Wheeler plan envisages a third party ticket in abeut a dozen states, including New York, Ohio, Illinois, and half a dozen northwestern states. Lewis' following in the American labor party in New York is estimated at 200,000 votes, which, if cast for a third party ticket instead of the New Deal, would assure the Republicans of New York's 47 electoral votes. Ordinarily a Republican candidate cannot be elected without New York's vote.

Expect Roosevelt to Run.

The Democrats approach their convention with Mr. Roosevelt their overwhelming choice for renomination, but with his intentions unknown.

Most Democrats believe he will accept—if, indeed, he has not intended to from the start. There appears to be no doubt that he confided to friends his intention to run if the war were still in progress. He is now under additional pressure to run as the only Democrat having a reasonable chance to defeat Willkie. Some think he will accept with a pledge to serve till the end of the war and then resign.

JAPS APOLOGIZE FOR BRUSH WITH MARINES' GUARD

SHANGHAI, July 7 (AP).—The commander of Japanese military police apologized today to Col. Dewitt Peck, commander of United States Marines in the Shanghai defense area, for the entrance of 15 plain clothes police into the area. The Japanese, who had been disarmed and arrested by the marines, were set free.

LOANS
WITHOUT ENDORSERS

You can borrow $100 on your own signature if you can pay back $6.43 a month—See table for other loan plans—No credit questions asked of friends or relatives—Quick, private service.

YOU can get a personal loan—without red tape or delay—if you can repay in small monthly installments. All you do to apply for a loan at Household is to acquaint us with your problem. You need no bankable security—no endorsers or guarantors.

You may repay your loan on any of the schedules shown in the table below. Thus you may choose the payment plan which best fits your own needs and income.

Payments to fit your purse

Suppose that you need a $100 loan. You find this amount in the first column of the table. Then read across picking out the monthly payment which you wish to make. You will see, for instance, that monthly installments of $9.77 each will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.43 a month for twenty months will also repay a $100 loan.

You will note that the sooner you repay the less your loan costs. Four monthly installments of $26.60 each, or a total of only $106.40, will repay a $100 loan in full. Installments shown in the table repay everything.

Same rate to everyone

These installments include charges at Household's rate of 2½% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100. This rate is less than the maximum prescribed by the Illinois Small Loan Law. Household has only this one rate—the same for everyone, whether new customer or former borrower.

Simple to borrow

You get your loan in a simple, private transaction. We require no stocks or bonds, no salary or wage assignment. (Loans are made on furniture, car or note.) You are spared the embarrassment of asking friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. And no questions regarding your credit are asked of friends or relatives.

Considerate treatment

You may expect every consideration in case of sickness or unemployment while paying on a Household Finance loan. Last year we foreclosed on only one chattel mortgage for each 20,000 loans. This action was taken only as protection against fraud.

If a loan can help you to solve a money problem, you are urged to study the table carefully. Then phone or visit us for further information. No obligation to borrow.

WE GUARANTEE the total amount figured by using this table to be the full amount you will pay, when payments are made on schedule. You will pay less if you pay your loan ahead of time since you pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. Good Morning!

The MacDonald-Eddy combination has never been seen to better advantage than in "The New Moon."

This screened stage operetta provides glamorous period backgrounds for the co-stars, picturesque costumes and lovely music. [Sigmund Romberg and Oscar Hammerstein's.]

Mr. Eddy as a French duke who had assisted the revolutionists, been sentenced to death and escaped incognito on a boat for America carrying a hold load of prisoners to be sold in Louisiana as bond servants, meets in the captain's quarters the lovely young aristocrat, Marianne de Beaumanoir, who, with her aunt and chaperon and other folk of high degree are also on the ship. . . . He is there to plead for food and fresh air for the herded men in the hold. She—to complain for her aunt—about the noise the men have been making. . . . Because of a coat he hastily dons, she takes him for a ship's officer. . . . Of course, it's love at first sight.

You can imagine the fair one's dismay when Charles turns up later as one of her servants . . . !

The duke's plan for escape on a ship that is to come for him and the men secretly, manned by sympathizers, is foiled. For the vessel carries police sent to bring him back to his native shores. . . . The lady learns of his identity, spurns him, drives him away to safety, follows him and is most romantically and musically reunited with him. . . . If you saw the play, you know the outcome. If not I'll let the picture reveal it to you.

Miss MacDonald was never lovelier, nor her glorious voice more enrapturing. Mr. Eddy, handicapped as always by his lack of histrionic ability, is pleasing when he sings, especially when in duet with his co-star. His romantic scenes aren't hard to take either, but when he registers manly defiance I could only think of the little fox who cried: "Yah, yah, you can't catch me!"

Supporting players and director were strictly on the job, and, as a whole "The New Moon" is peppy, picturesque and musically captivating.

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

The Week's Wash.

Hollywood, Cal., July 7.—Monday: What a relief to be cool after the heat of Nebraska, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, and desert California. Men wearing topcoats in the evening. Wonder how long it will be before somebody says it's unusual weather.

Lunch with Mark Hellinger and others in the Warner Brothers' private dining room—the place where executives are fed free. Two thousand a week and found! Hellinger, looking fat and cheerful, says being a producer is much harder work than writing a Broadway column. Like the rest of hard working Hollywood, he allows himself only one night out a week. Thursday, same as everybody else. Catch the making of a prize fight scene in "City for Conquest," and James Cagney looks more like a pug than the cauliflower nosed pros working with him.

Tuesday: Quiz Tom Pettey, former Hays office drumbeater and now correspondent for P. M., on the number and state of mind of Hollywood correspondents. Both appalling. To RKO to watch George Abbott do a scene for "Too Many Girls." Hal Leroy has almost finished his part and is ready to go east. Eddie Bracken assures that his goofy football anecdote about Swoon of Harvard has already been filmed. With John and Eunice Larkin to celebrate their wedding anniversary at Chasen's, where there are so many New Yorkers you think you must be in Jack Bleeck's or the Stork club. Chasen exhibits his steam bath, just vacated by José Iturbi. It's a Hollywood-Finnish affair, with a shower nozzle above a big tank of electrically heated rocks.

Wednesday: To Paramount, where the still fotogs flashlight your correspondent with Lynne Overman, Susanna Foster, Dick Powell, Ellen Drew, and Dororthy Lamour. Hey-hey! And then I hear of a studio crasher who said he was "columnist for de Fargo Forum, de best noozpaper in de Dakotas." He wanted some pictures of himself with stars on the Fox lot. They kidded him along, grilled him about the "noozpaper" business, finally learned he was a wrestler and wanted some pix with celebrities to further his career. It might have been fun to wrestle Lamour, at that. To the Fox lot to see Mary Beth Hughes, who plays Elaine Barrie opposite Barrymore in "The Great Profile."

Thursday: To MGM to watch Busby Berkeley stage a dance number for the new Mickey Rooney-Judy Garland "Strike Up the Band." Berkeley, astraddle an immense camera boom which moves backward and up simultaneously, is endlessly patient getting just the right patterns for a jitterbug number. Miss Garland is sweet, obedient, and very pretty. Rooney simmers with energy, teases Berkeley. They say Mickey isn't as fresh as he was, and they like him because there isn't anything he won't learn and learn well. He'll have a drum routine in this picture. In the evening to the pre-opening party at Preston Sturges' new restaurant, The Players, which is a drive-in downstairs and has restaurant rooms upstairs.

Friday: To the home of Allan Jones and Irene Hervey for an interview with Miss H. The Joneses are trailer crazy. Allan usually has his wheeled right into a studio for use as a dressing room, but Paramount, where he's working now, won't let him. To a party with the RKO crowd at Lucey's. I asked Garson Kanin how it feels to be one of Hollywood's white headed boys. "I'm the only bald headed white headed boy in the place," he grins. Kanin tells of when he was working for George Abbott and an agent brought a script Kanin didn't like. The agent begged him to show it to Abbott anyhow, offering Kanin 20 per cent, but Garson refused. The agent got the script in another way. It was "Too Many Girls."

Saturday: To Fox again to see Don Ameche and John Barrymore. Barrymore happy to be working in a picture again. Says he likes Walter Lang's direction very much. Dave Chasen throws a barbecue dinner as a combination farewell to the visiting Richard Watts and welcome to this reporter. Gregory La Cava, Frank Capra, George Stevens, Leo McCarey, and the other Hollywoodians are no match for a couple of Bleeck's veterans at the match game, so Watts and I take them.

Musical Fairy Tale at Ravinia Wins Children

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Two attractive outdoor concerts kept ennui at arm's length yesterday. At Ravinia in the afternoon Nicolai Malko concluded his week's engagement by conducting the Chicago Symphony orchestra in a special young people's program. Paul Leyssac served as commentator and narrator. In Grant park in the evening Rudolph Ganz directed the Woman's Symphony orchestra and Janet Fairbank, soprano, appeared as soloist.

The afternoon at Ravinia was cheery for at least two reasons. First there were the throngs of children in their gay clothes ready to laugh agreeably at every sally of the announcer's and every particularly apt piece of characterization or description in the music. Second there was Prokofieff's orchestral fairy tale, "Peter and the Wolf," one of the brightest and cleverest pieces of program music in the répertoire.

Laughter filled the little pavilion and its encircling lawns as Mr. Leyssac zestfully outlined the story of "Peter and the Wolf." Some of the best bursts of glee were reserved for Mr. Malko and his men, who managed to get an especially good swagger into Peter's theme and an ominous, velvet gaited quality into the cat's.

When the story was ended—when Peter and the bird had caught the big bad wolf and when all the principal characters of the tale had come together for the diverting march at the end—children and adults both burst into loud applause.

Mr. Malko's other items were the "Bartered Bride" overture [Smetana], three movements of Dvorak's "New World" symphony, and the dances from Borodin's "Prince Igor." He conducted with enormous energy.

Mr. Ganz and the Woman's orchestra, after a not particularly revealing performance of Beethoven's eighth symphony, came back in the Tschaikowsky overture-fantasy, "Romeo and Juliet," and provided some of the best playing heard on the lake front this year. That rueful, summing up sort of passage toward the end had an astonishing broadness and beauty.

In arias by Handel, Mozart, and Debussy, in the long sequence from the garden scene of "Faust," and in a little song of Mr. Ganz's own, Miss Fairbank revealed again the penetration and the taste which help to make her work unfailingly interesting.

Thousands Attend Choral Concerts in Forest Preserves

The lure of music in an outdoor setting drew thousands of Chicagoans yesterday to the Sunday vesper concerts sponsored during the summer by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the forest preserve district.

The Girls' chorus of Immanuel Lutheran church, directed by Theodore F. Gose, sang in Dan Ryan woods. The Austin Methodist choir, led by Frank Bennett, appeared in Thatcher's woods, and the Century Male chorus, directed by Orian A. Galitz, in Caldwell woods.

Several thousand persons heard the Immanuel chorus, comprising 25 girls in their late teens, give an hour long program which began and ended with "God Bless America."

The Austin choir drew about 1,200 to the smaller Thatcher's woods glade. The program there included selections by the Cicero-Berwyn chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, led by Otto Havlic. There also were songs by Miss Sammie Lippard, 13 years old, a professional singer from Tennessee, accompanied by Mallard Stringer, violinist, and J. E. Johnson, with a guitar. The three, from Tennessee, were picknicking, and volunteered to perform.

About 1,000 persons heard the Century Male chorus and their soloist, Joseph Rauchenecker.

Colored Chorus of 2,000 Sings at Negro Exposition

A giant chorus of 2,000 Negro singers, the combined choirs of forty churches, was featured in a two hour program at the American Negro exposition in the Chicago Coliseum yesterday. The chorus was directed by J. Wesley Jones, general music festival director of the exposition. The exposition, known as the first Negro World fair, celebrates 75 years of Negro progress since emancipation.

Jersey or Knit Dress Best for That Vacation

BY REA SEEGER.

Every one with two weeks "away from it all" is prowling about for travel clothes with every seam guaranteed to stand the punishment of such an ordeal. So far the fashion and shopping excitement is divided between clothes made of jersey and those of knitted material. Both these obliging fabrics stand up under the most trying travel conditions, both shake into shape, both require little or next to nothing from the pressing irons, and both pack with ease to emerge after the longest jump ready for wear.

There's one prize winning assortment of knits that are knockout finds for the gadabout heading into coolish climates. And while the prices are not modest [some of them are expensive but worth every penny], the dresses and two piece affairs are the smartest finds in town. They're as suavely fitted as anything in satin, crêpe, or fine wool. They do not stretch or sag, the varying knitted weaves or textures bring them into the individualized costume classification, and the colors are beautiful.

There are Quaker grays that make slick travel colors; raspberry and dubonnet red for street to accent with white, and delectable pastels in blue, pink, yellow, mint green, and violet to keep the susceptible shopper longing for more money.

Snowy white affairs are summertime winners, with silver or gold kidskin belts and white, twisted turbans to match. New colors to watch are the dull bronze green and pale copper tint, also ready for white contrast.

Several styles of snug fitted hats of the same knitted stuff are obtainable. One piece models are as plentiful as the clever two piece effects with short or long sleeves.

1,000 Girl Scouts Register Today to Attend Day Camps

More than 1,000 Chicago Girl Scouts will register today for the Girl Scout day camps to be held on eight days this month at five camp locations in the Chicago area. Mrs. Sigmund Amundsen, 4143 Cornelia avenue, is chairman of the camps. Camps will be located at Lincoln park, Gompers park, Garfield park, Calumet park, and Ryan's Woods forest preserve. The day camps will be held today, Wednesday, Friday, and on July 15, 17, 19, 22, and 24.

Coincidence.

One of the most interested readers of news of the movements of the British fleet is a slender, elderly, reticent Scotsman at the University of Chicago. He is A. J. Seymour, member of the building and grounds staff of the university, at the time of the last world war in charge of mine sweeping for Great Britain. It was Seymour who piloted English ships back to the British naval base at the Orkneys after the battle of Jutland, Britain's greatest naval engagement in the last world war. And it was Seymour who made the official tests for England when a submarine detector invented by Max Mason, later to become fourth president of the University of Chicago, was offered to the allies, and accepted. Howard Mort reviews it in a recent issue of his campus semiweekly, Tower Topics.

Four years after the armistice Seymour came to America to visit a daughter, and liked this country so much he stayed here. He became a member of the building and grounds staff of the university, and was there when Max Mason became president in 1925. President Mason never learned that he was the same Mr. Seymour who had tested his invention. Mr. Seymour always meant to tell him, but never got around to it.

Bars.

To see the zebra's a puzzling sight,
Like some love notes these queer equines,
Just simple and plain with black on white,
But try to read between the lines.

"Poor France."

If you will go to gallery 5 in the Chicago Art institute you will see a lithograph by Honoré Daumier that was published after the collapse of France in the war with Germany in 1871. The lithograph is entitled Poor France: Its Trunk Is Shattered but Its Roots Still Live. The print shows the sturdy trunk of a tree reduced to a mere stump, near the top of which is a thick branch, whose remaining leaves still bend to the raging storm. It might have been drawn today, so apt is the representation.

T. Harper Goodspeed Speaks to Evanston Garden Club Today

The Evanston Garden club has invited several other garden clubs to join in hearing Dr. T. Harper Goodspeed in an illustrated lecture on "Plant Hunting in the Andes" at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon in Harris hall on the Northwestern university campus. Mrs. E. Royce Armstrong and Mrs. John Hallowell will be hostesses at tea following. Mrs. Budd C. Corbus, president of the Evanston club, and members of the board will receive. Their guests will include members of the Lincolnwood and Little Garden clubs of Evanson; the Evanston Junior league, and the Barrington Garden clubs and members of the botany department of Northwestern.

Resorts of Northern Michigan Stirred to Life by Warm Days

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE unseasonably cool weather of late June and the first three days of July delayed the opening of the summer season at all of the northern Michigan resorts, but the Fourth dawned fair and warmer and everything is in full swing now. In Harbor Springs the Little Harbor club celebrated Independence day by opening its doors, the earliest opening day in the club's history. Usually it is about July 10 before the club is ready for business, but this season, the eleventh, started with a bang on the Fourth. The president, James R. Offield, and Mrs. Offield were not at the opening, for they are not yet in their attractive cottage on Harbor Point, but it is all ready for them. They will be there soon and their new 65 foot yacht will be anchored in the harbor.

Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler, whose good taste is evident thruout the club, for she is a director, was a hostess at the opening dinner party, and so was her sister, Mrs. William Waller. Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Hyman and Dr. and Mrs. Frank E. Pierce were the other Chicagoans entertaining at dinner that night. The Pierces have as their guests Mrs. Irene Sidley.

Club Enlarged and Redecorated.

The club has been enlarged and redecorated and is more attractive than ever this summer. There is a new outdoor brick oven on the lower terrace and also a new cocktail lounge. It is done in bamboo and red leather and is unusually gay. Adjoining it is a new playroom for young people. The first dancing party at the club will be held on July 12. An orchestra from the Little club in Detroit is being brought up this season. There are many Detroiters at Harbor Point.

The new dining room is charming, with a black floor with a white border, and Empire green curtains. The big swimming pool, the tennis courts, and the various other attractions at the club make it one of the favorite gathering places for young and old in Harbor Springs and its vicinity. The club is built at the head of the harbor formed by the Point, on which many Chicagoans have summer homes. The club property was the Harbor Springs coal yard before Mrs. Wheeler, Mrs. Waller, Mrs. Pierce, Mrs. Howard Richardson, and a few others with imagination saw the possibilities of building a new club there. There is nothing now to remind one of the former coal yard.

Junior Joseph E. Otises Give Large Party.

Another large Fourth of July party at Harbor Springs was the one given by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Otis Jr. at their home, Birchwood farms. Annually they invite forty or fifty of their friends to enjoy a buffet supper and later to watch a fireworks display. Children join the party for the fireworks, so the Otises' annual party is one to which all ages look forward each year. Spending the long week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Otis were his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Johnston Jr., who were married at the senior Otises' place last summer; the Graham Fairbanks, Lawrence Callahan, and Mr. and Mrs. Lynn A. Williams.

Mr. Callahan's mother, Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, has taken a cottage on Chipmunk alley in Wequetonsing for the summer. Wequetonsing is the next resort inland from Harbor Springs. On beyond in Roaring Brook, a Chicagoan, Mrs. Rensselaer Cox, is building a delightful house right on the water's edge. Mrs. Albert H. Little of Chicago is spending the summer, as usual, at the Roaring Brook Inn. Miss Joanna Fortune is a member of the Chicago colony at Wequetonsing, but her attractive brown cottage, high on a bluff overlooking Little Traverse bay, is not occupied yet.

Junior L. Edward Harts Installed in Home.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Edward Hart Jr., who have a lovely summer home just across the road from the Little Harbor club, had with them for the week-end the Kenneth Carpenters. Mrs. Hart is looking forward to the arrival soon of her brother, Robert Burnet, and his wife, who will spend the summer with the Harts at Hillcote. Next door to Hillcote is Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes' cottage. Her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Sudler, have a cottage inside the Harbor Point association's gate, which is just a stone's throw from the Barnes place.

Missing from the Fourth festivities at the Point was Ted Russell, who joined a house party at Spring Lake given by Miss Kate Baird, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warner G. Baird. Among others in the party were Miss Betty Gillespie, who is summering at Leland, Mich.; Miss Helen Shoe-

The Fate of the Darmenys

By Elizabeth York Miller

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

Madge Darmeny, knowing she has but a few months to live, gathers her family about her so she can select the most deserving heir, unbeknown to them. Amelia Pennyfather, a distant cousin, lives with her, but Leda, Madge's own niece, is her nearest relative. Next in line are Frank and Geoffry, her husband's nephews. Leda is married to Frank but is in love with Geoffry, who is Madge's favorite because he continuously plays up to her. Frank has an 8 year old daughter, Betsy, by a former marriage. Shirley Westall, Madge's secretary, has been given charge of Betsy while they are all staying at the Darmeny estate. Madge, anxious for Geoffry to settle down, suggests he marry Shirley, and he, becoming tired of Leda, approves of the idea. Shirley, devoted to Betsy and knowing of Leda's and Geoffry's affair, sympathizes with Frank and soon finds her sympathy turning to love. Frank sees the sweetness of Betsy's mother in Shirley and finds himself falling in love with her. Neither declare their love for each other, but Shirley repulses the advances of Geoffry, which infuriates him. Leda goes into a number of fits of rage because she is jealous of Geoffry's attention to Shirley. Madge at last sees things in their true light and decides to change her will. Amelia eavesdrops and hears of Madge's illness and of the new will. She tells Geoffry, and he steals Madge's keys to her safe and reads the old and new wills. In the old version, he would inherit the estate. In the new one, Frank will get the bulk of things. The new one has not yet been signed. Geoffry goes on a rampage, meets Frank in the woods and tells him he will get Shirley as he got Leda. Frank knocks his teeth out, goes home and confronts Leda with Geoffry's accusation. Leda admits to both Madge and Frank her love for Geoffry. Geoffry has gone to the dentist in the city and Madge waits up for him that night to have a talk with him. He arrives late and is insulting to Madge. She gets upset, asks him to get her medicine. He, knowing she is to sign the new will the next day, gives her an overdose which kills her. Amelia is watching from the library cupboard.

INSTALMENT XXXVII.

AUTOPSY.

The eastern sky was all rosy now and streaked with gold like the sunset of last night which Madge Darmeny had enjoyed so much.

To Frank, she still seemed to be here. She was everything. It was startling the sudden feeling of her he got when he entered this, her favorite room.

On the table beside the chair in which she had been sitting last night lay her glasses and the bit of crochet work. Her footstool was pushed a little to one side and her shawl hung over the arm of the chair.

Any moment Frank felt she would come in and say, "Now where did I leave my glasses? I really am getting to be most forgetful."

Dr. Jelks broke the spell. He came back from the terrace window that Gibson had opened to let in the fresh morning air, with an expression of worry and preoccupation.

"Who is in charge here, Frank?" he asked.

The old doctor had known him and Geoffry from their schooldays and always called them by their Christian names.

"Why, I imagine that Geoffry is," Frank replied, with some surprise.

"I don't know what's become of Geoffry. He seems to have disappeared. I am fairly well satisfied that poor Mrs. Darmeny collapsed with a sudden heart attack, but you see I was not her medical adviser. She's been going to a man in Canterbury. But Gibson tells me that lately she's been seeing Sir Mostyn Powell, one of the Harley street crowd. Been rather secretive about it, Gibson says. Didn't want to worry Miss Pennyfather and the rest of you, I take it."

"That may be so," said Frank, vaguely troubled.

"You see, in the circumstances, it isn't within my power to give a death certificate," Dr. Jelks went on. "Obviously she had just taken a dose of her heart stimulant. She may have taken too much. I can't say, offhand. She must have died some time between midnight and one o'clock, as far as I can judge."

Frank cleared his throat.

"Are you suggesting there must be an autopsy?" he asked.

"Well—no, not exactly. That is, if Powell is in a position to give the certificate. Hadn't you better communicate with him at once? And what about her business man, Mr. Barnes?"

"Mr. Barnes was coming to Beechbourne today in any case," Frank said. "But I'll ring him up and ask him to take an earlier train."

"Yes, I'd do that. Ask him to get in touch with Powell, or perhaps on the whole it would be better for me to do that. May I use the telephone?"

"Yes, I'll just see if it's plugged thru to the hall."

"You have to get that certificate before you can ask the undertaker to do anything, you know. Until then the body must stay where it is, and nothing in the room must be disturbed. I've told Gibson. Who was it moved her from the chair, where I understand Miss Pennyfather found her?"

"I did," said Frank.

"Well, that's not vitally important."

"I thought—I hoped—that life might not be gone entirely."

"She would have gone quickly—if it's what I surmise," the doctor said. "But, of course, the law's the law, and as I was not her medical adviser, it isn't for me to say."

He was confused and nervous, and on the whole a fussy, uncertain little man. One could understand why Madge Darmeny had stopped having him, especially for anything as serious as her complaint had been.

But one thing was very nice about Dr. Jelks. He appeared to have no professional jealousy and did not hold it against Mrs. Darmeny's memory that she had stopped having him attend her.

Frank was so busy for the next half hour that he had no time to speculate upon the mystery of Geoffry's having so quickly abandoned the supervision of affairs, which he had taken for granted it was his right to do.

Frank had lost track of time completely.

He had no idea at all that it was only half past four in the morning when he rang up Alfred Barnes. Giving a guess, he would have said it was nearer noon. He couldn't understand why the operator had to ring and ring and ring before there was any reply.

Then the sleepy voice of a man servant peevishly wanted to know who it was, and Frank had another interminable wait before he got Alfred Barnes himself.

It was hard news he had to tell and Frank broke it as gently as he could, well knowing in what affection and esteem Alfred had held his friendship for Aunt Madge.

But on the whole Alfred Barnes bore it remarkably well.

"I was not unprepared," he said. His voice broke. "Only, she seemed so very well . . ."

"Yes, she said, until the last," Frank interrupted. "I was with her only a few hours before it happened, and she was much as usual. There was nothing to warn us what was going to happen."

"She'd had a lot of worry lately, what with money and one thing and another. Poor Madge!"

"I know. The whole lot of us gave her too much trouble," Frank said miserably.

"There needn't be anything much on your conscience, Frank."

"There is, all the same. I think you'd better take an early train down, sir. We're in a bit of a muddle, and Geoffry seems to have disappeared. Dr. Jelks was bothered about the death certificate. He's rung up this Sir Mostyn Powell, and I understand you might collect it from him—if he agrees that everything's in order. What train will you take?"

"I'll motor down. There isn't likely to be a train for hours," Alfred Barnes said. "It's not five o'clock yet, you know."

"Good lor'!—no, I didn't know. It's broad daylight down here."

"It would be. I'll be with you as soon as I possibly can, Alfred said. He seemed to hesitate, then added: "Did Mrs. Darmeny say anything personally about her intention to make a new will?"

"She mentioned it," Frank replied. "I understood you were bringing it down for her to sign today."

"O! She told you that, did she? Anything else?"

"Well, she told me of some important changes she meant to make. But of course it's too late for that, now. Don't think I am disappointed, sir."

A note of caution crept into Alfred Barnes' voice:

"I expect you'll take whatever comes," he said, "but we don't need to discuss it until after the funeral. I have her full directions as to that. Good-by, Frank. I'll be at Beechbourne as soon as I can get there."

As Frank laid down the telephone, he thought how matter-of-fact elderly people were about death. It was the young who flew into hysterics over it. He was young enough himself to feel a poignant sense of loss. One of the landmarks by which his childhood had been guided was swept away, and there was an aching void in Betsy's life.

But Alfred Barnes, his valued old friend, had displayed hardly any emotion.

"Tho in the long run he'll feel it more than we do," Frank thought. "I'm making a lot of fuss, but I'll soon get over it, and Betsy will get over it sooner than I do."

. . . . . .

Only Amelia Pennyfather could have hazarded a guess as to what had become of Geoffry.

She was hovering around anxiously when the doctor went into the study, with Gibson to bear him company while he made his examination and took a few notes as to the condition the room was in.

Geoffry was hovering, too, but they had avoided each other rather pointedly.

Amelia was afraid of Geoffry, but still more afraid of the guilty knowledge she possessed of him, the knowledge that she strove with every atom of her being to deny.

And Geoffry was afraid of Amelia.

Again and again he noted her wary avoidance of him, the way she suddenly shifted her glance in his direction, and the silence that had suddenly caught her tongue.

Breakfast Hour Glamor Is the Kind to Seek

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

There's bread-and-butter glamor, too. It's what most of you offer your family daily, when you arise in the morning, have your shower, arrange your hair attractively for the breakfast table, and don a charming breakfast frock. And we doubt if, in this workaday world of ours, there's a better paying type of glamor than that offered by the home women when they do offer it mornings.

Not afternoon glamor, understand. Any woman can fix herself up for company, and almost every woman will. Certainly today no women offer themselves as an old time home liability, slopping around the house all day in a negligee costume. We don't know of a single woman who is guilty of that sort of thing today, yet it used to be a theme for a certain type of literature, only it was a Mother Hubbard type of dress that was featured in those yesterdays.

But we claim that the smartest women on this earth are those who can draw admiration across the table from the man of the house. He may not speak his admiration, but who is in that mood in the early morning? However, there is the sense of personal security the woman herself has when she knows she is a nice and neat breakfast picture. And this well-being is carried across the table and on down to the office by the man.

True, some of the preparation for this early glamor is done the evening before, with nails cleared and hair brushed and skin treated to what it most needs. The warm bath is included

There's something especially delightful about the woman of the house who comes downstairs looking fresh, sweet and clean. In fact, that's our favorite glamor girl.

According to CULBERTSON

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Your comments on the bidding and play of the following hand will be appreciated by a local group:

"North, dealer.

"The bidding proceeded:

North	East	South	West
3 hearts	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
5 spades	Pass	6 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

"West opened the club jack and the contract was defeated. The questions at issue are:

"1. Was the bidding correct?

"2. Would the six spade contract probably have been made by the average good player against players of the same rank sitting East and West?

"3. Would the contract probably have been made by an expert player against expert players sitting East and West? D. G. F., Iowa."

1. North bid vigorously, but the six spade contract itself was certainly justified.

2. I seriously doubt that the contract would have been fulfilled by an average player.

3. This is a tougher question to answer, for the following reasons:

The club king wins the opening lead and declarer may as well lay down the spade king to see how the wind blows. When he discovers all five missing trumps in West's hand it is obvious that heroic measures will be required to take 12 tricks.

At the second trick declarer should try out the diamond finesse. It loses to West and now, whether or not the contract can be made depends entirely on West's return. For the moment let us suppose that he exits with a club [a heart or a spade would come out the same]. Dummy wins while declarer discards a heart. Now it is obvious declarer cannot afford to ruff a diamond in dummy because, even if such a ruff could be negotiated, declarer then would be unable to return to his own hand except by ruffing a club or a heart—and to shorten himself would be fatal. Since at this stage declarer has a losing diamond, the only chance is to play for a squeeze. He cashes dummy's other trump honor, then leads the spade four to his own hand and runs off trumps. With one trump left to play, this position is reached:

NORTH
♠None
♥A K 5

WEST

♥J 10 8 6
♦10
♣None

EAST
♠None
♥Q 9
♦8 7 6
♣Q

SOUTH
♣None

The spade queen draws West's last trump, while dummy discards a club and East a heart. Now the cashing of the ace and king of hearts squeezes East mercilessly. On the latter trick, if he lets go a diamond, declarer's three diamonds become good; if East discards the club queen dummy's club four is high and declarer needs only the ace and queen of diamonds.

Unfortunately, this squeeze can be broken up by a very fine defense on West's part. At the point where he is given the diamond king, the immediate return of the diamond ten will prematurely remove declarer's entry and will take all pressure off East.

Whether an expert in the West position would have the vision for this diamond return, or whether an expert declarer would successfully execute the squeeze if that return was not made, are questions that I am not prepared to answer.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

One of the neatest tricks of the season is a little beauty box no longer than your hand and certainly not much thicker, that contains five elegant beauty aids. If you don't want to be annoyed with a kit that contains more than you want to use, this is your dish when you pack for a brief trip. It's also a fine little dish for the woman who wants her face paraphernalia handy in her desk, occupying the absolute minimum of space. It's inexpensive, too.

There are three jars in it. One contains face powder—lovely powder, incidentally — another contains a cleansing cream that can also double as a softener, and the third houses one of the nicest foundation creams.

Tucked in with great caginess are a lipstick, a littlish one, and a small container of dry cheek rouge.

This is the kind of a beauty box that you can tuck in the pocket of your car, keep in your club locker or your desk or toss into your luggage when you travel. Tho it's a small thing, the jars are generous—there's plenty in each to last you for several days. It's a real bargain.

You'll find this box in several of the shops. We won't be surprised if you react to it exactly as a working girl we know did: She bought half a dozen.

Watermelon, chilled and served as a dessert, brings one of two reactions—a joyful welcome or an indifferent acceptance. Even nonenthusiasts usually enjoy appetizer courses which include watermelon balls or diced melon, and they often surprise even themselves with their liking for a watermelon ice with the meat course at dinner.

Here's a watermelon cocktail that makes almost any one sit up and take notice. Antiwatermelonists usually enjoy it, too.

SHERRY WATERMELON COCKTAIL.

Dice or cut into balls chilled ripe watermelon. To 4 cups of the melon cubes or balls add 1½ tablespoons powdered sugar and 6 tablespoons sherry wine. Chill in a covered container for several hours before serving.

Cantaloupe or honeydew melon may be combined in equal parts with the watermelon for this cocktail, if desired.

MINTED WATERMELON COCKTAIL.

Fill cocktail glasses with watermelon balls and squeeze lime juice over them. Sprinkle lightly with confectioners' sugar and garnish with a sprig of mint. Mint may be chopped and sprinkled over the cocktail, if desired.

FROSTED WATERMELON COCKTAIL.

Top watermelon balls with a tiny ball of mint, lime, crème de menthe, or grape ice or sherbet, and garnish with a sprig of mint.

Watermelon Ice

1 cup water — 4 cups watermelon pulp and juice
1 cup sugar

Boil sugar and water together for 20 minutes. Add watermelon pulp, free of seeds. Freeze in freezer or refrigerator tray. Stir several times during freezing in the refrigerator. Two tablespoons of sherry may be added, if desired.

And who doesn't love watermelon pickles, even if he doesn't react to the fresh, cold melon?

Watermelon Pickles.

1 quart watermelon rind, sliced
2 cups sugar
2 cups water
1 lemon, sliced thinly
2 cups vinegar
1 cinnamon stick
1 teaspoon whole cloves
1 teaspoon whole allspice

Soak rind overnight in salt water, using 3 tablespoons of salt to a quart of water. Drain off brine and cook rind in clear water until tender. Add to hot pickling sirup made by combining the remaining ingredients and boiling them for 10 minutes [spices should be tied in a bag]. Cook rapidly until rind is clear. Remove spice bag and pack in hot jars. Seal at once.

Numerology
By Evelyn Holmes

July 8, 1940.

Universal Day—Not a good Monday to start out aggressively. Let your plans of yesterday simmer today.

Month Ahead—If this is your birthday or you are in a 2-year, this month is likely to prove emotional and a little upsetting. Don't count on continuation of any romances started this month. This is the end of things not the beginning. Next month you should have the way cleared for planning ahead toward a more creative and active second half of this year.

Universal Year—Finding things a bit jittery this year? Take it easy and learn the lessons of coöperation and unselfishness. This is not a peak year for you.

Would you like to know what kind of a year 1940 will be for you? Send for your personal yearly, monthly, and daily guide.

Today's Features

ON W-G-N.
[Central daylight saving time.]

Play Broadcast, W-G-N's audience participation quiz show featuring Bob Elson, W-G-N sportscaster; Bill Anson, master of ceremonies; a dramatic cast, and Harold Stokes and his W-G-N orchestra, will be heard over W-G-N at 7 p. m. Bob and Bill select persons from the audience who are called before the microphone and offered the alternative of taking a cash award on the spot and returning to their seat or take a chance on a brain teaser, which, if answered correctly, doubles the original prize. The brain teasers are presented in the form of musical questions played by the orchestra and in questions dramatized by the cast. Play Broadcast is heard each Monday at the same hour.

A special program featuring six talented young singers, selected from among more than 600 participants in the Chicago Opera company's second annual talent search, will be offered over W-G-N and Mutual from 9:30 to 10 p. m. The program also featuring the W-G-N Concert orchestra will be directed by Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and artistic director of the Chicago Opera company, who is chairman of the committee auditioning the singers. Listeners will be invited to vote on the soloists appearing on the program.

Eddy Howard's quarter-hour of songs, usually heard on Mondays and Fridays at 8:15 p. m., will be heard the same days at 8 p. m. instead, beginning tonight. Featured with Howard is Lou Adrian's orchestra and Sydney, Hollywood makeup artist.

Three women music experts will vie with three men representing the Ravinia festival committee in Your Music I. Q. on W-G-N at 8:45 p. m. Evelyn Davis, concertmaster of the Chicago Woman's symphony; Ida Krehm, distinguished concert pianist, and Libushka Bartusek, author and librettist, will comprise the team of experts who will compete against the Ravinia team of Albert B. Pattou, Harry Monroe, and Cecil Smith, music critic of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Other programs:

7:25 a. m.—Nothing But the Truth, with Alexander McQueen.
11—The Editor's Daughter.
Noon—Guy Savage, interviews.
7:30 p. m.—The Lone Ranger.
9:15—Who Knows? [MBS].

ON OTHER STATIONS.

Early Letters Are Urged for Sally's Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Keep your radios tuned in on W-G-N next Thursday night, boys and girls, and you'll hear a radio preview of the grand new movie my party guests will attend!

Freddy Bartholomew and Sir Cedric Hardwicke, two of the stars of "Tom Brown's School Days" are coming all the way to Chicago from Hollywood to enact their rôles in this radio show.

I know that hearing some of this famous story on the air will only make you more anxious to see the film, and here's your opportunity, because on July 18, the film will be screened especially for my guests, and 50 boys and 50 girls will have a chance to come to that party.

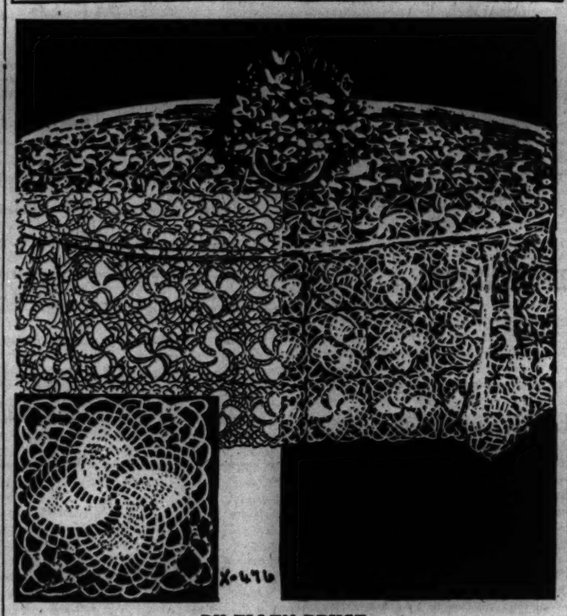
If you'd like to be one of the lucky youngsters to see this film about little English school boys as they were a hundred years ago, wearing high silk hats and tail coats—better get busy and write a letter to me. Because if you write a good one—telling me why you would enjoy seeing this movie with me, maybe you'll see your name listed with the winners in next Sunday's TRIBUNE.

Of course, I want to invite the youngsters who'll enjoy it most, and I can only judge that if you write and tell me why you'd be happy if you won an invitation, so don't delay.

There are just three things you must remember when you write. First—I want you to write that letter all by yourself; second, I must have your full name, address, and age, and third, your letter must reach me by next Thursday. Aside from that, there's nothing to it—so if you really want to come to this party you shouldn't have much trouble in writing your note.

Address your letter to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Pretty Block for Bedspread



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Designs for good looking bedspreads are always popular motifs for pick-up work. This handsome shell and double crochet design, which forms a rectangular block, is one of the leading favorites among needleworkers. The easy to make six inch rectangles are joined to form a most attractive allover design. Mercerized crochet cotton in an ivory shade creates a stunning spread. Bed cotton is another medium which produces an effective cover. The design is one which lends itself to almost any bit of home decoration. No. 20 crochet cotton may create a lovely dresser scarf or chair back set.

For instructions in crocheting this rectangular block for a bedspread, No. X-476, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

maker, Bill Johnson, and John Baird, who just have been graduated from the Harvard law school. Young Mr. Russell's grandfather, Edward P. Russell, has owned a home on the Point for many years and is president of the Harbor Point association. His daughter, Mrs. Robert M. Curtis, and her daughter, Diane, are with him for the summer, but his other daughter, Mrs. Russell Christie, is in St. Luke's hospital with a broken shoulder and will not be able to join her family for several weeks.

Several Yachts Increase Gayety.

Adding to the gayety at Harbor Springs are several yachts that were anchored at the dock or in the harbor for the holiday week-end. The Haskell Blisses of Chicago are aboard their luxurious Maid Marion with their daughter, Betty, their son, Bill, and Miss Patty Smiley. John M. Simpson's lovely schooner Awab came ashore on Wednesday and so did the Fred Fishers' magnificent 284 foot yacht, the Nakoda. The Mizpah steamed by early Thursday morning on its way to Mackinac Island, but it will be back at Harbor Springs on Saturday, when Mr. Russell and Mrs. Curtis will entertain for Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McDonald, owners of the Mizpah, and their guests. The junior Philip B. Hosmers were with the Simpsons.

Mrs. C. Morse Ely Gives Gay Party.

The Chicago club at Charlevoix was indebted to a Chicagoan, Mrs. C. Morse Ely, for its largest and gayest Fourth of July party. In her attractive home on the club grounds Mrs. Ely had a mammoth cocktail party, entertaining every one on the grounds. Mrs. Ely has Mrs. Keene Addington of Lake Forest as her guest.

Miss Cornelia Conger is visiting the John P. Wilsons in their cottage and the James E. Baums are with Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Talbot in theirs. Mr. and Mrs. Allyn Warren and her sister, Miss Press, were at the club house for the long week-end. Graham Whiting has joined his mother, Mrs. A. Harris Whiting, at their cottage, and the John L. Kings are with the Joseph H. Kings.

Emily Case Becomes Bride; Charles J. Tippets Attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jerome Tippet went to Perry, O., for the marriage on July 4 of their sister, Miss Emily Ingersoll Case, and Robert Gregory Keeffe. The Tippets were accompanied by their young son. The ceremony took place at noon in the garden of the bride's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Tyler. The bride, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Warren Case of Winnetka and Chicago, has been director of health education for the Cleveland Y. W. C. A. for several years. Mr. Keeffe is the son of Mrs. L. W. Bardol of Cleveland and of the late Frank D. Keeffe.

That Castoff Suit May Help Some Man Regain Employment

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Overcoats can cover a multitude of patches, but now that they must be discarded, requests for men's suits of all sizes are numerous.

Some applicants feel that if they had suitable clothing they could obtain work, a few have even been told by prospective employers that jobs would be available to them if they could improve in appearance. It stands to reason that no employer would care to hire a man whose wrinkled coat and trousers don't match, whose shoes are run down and shabby, or whose hat is weather beaten and shapeless.

Another class of men who find it difficult to keep themselves presentable are those who, because of age or illness, are classified as unemployable and are dependent upon some agency for a livelihood. Even those who receive the maximum old age pension, and they are but a small proportion, are hard pressed to exist on it.

Of all items needed, shoes of all shapes and sizes are most in demand. Next come suits, and shirts and underwear can always be placed. We hope that readers who have any articles of men's apparel, clean and wearable, in sizes from the smallest to the largest, will let us know what they have on hand, so that these men can be outfitted. No article should be permitted to lie idle when it might be a means of rehabilitation to some needy human being.

Simple Frock for Home

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Easy does it! The diagram sketch at the left shows how simple this one piece home frock is to make. No matter how uninitiated you are in the art of sewing, you'll have no trouble with this pattern. Use inexpensive cottons, plain or printed, and make yourself a variety of simple house frocks. You can't have too many, you know. And a word to the wise—this dress is flattering to mature figures.

Style No. 3384 is designed for size 16 and for 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of contrasting and 2 yards of ruffling for dress with short sleeves; 2¼ yards for dress with cap sleeves.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the summer Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Waldorf Opens Camp Meeting of Methodists

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The 81st session of the Des Plaines camp meeting opened yesterday afternoon with a corporate communion service commemorating the preceding 80 seasons. Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, resident bishop of Chicago Methodism, administered the commemorative service. More than 4,000 persons attended the day's services.

Raymond G. Kimball, president of the camp meeting trustees, yesterday issued a call to descendants of old time campers now scattered over the country to come home to the old grounds next Sunday to honor their forebears. Some of the city's most notable names were listed in the old time books of the camp meeting association.

These names include families of Albert G. Lain, Joseph Kennicott, Elder Boring, George Foster, Orrington Lunt, George Swift, and Joel Burlingame. The old time golden wedding ceremony will be revived for those who have had association with the camp meeting a half century.

Ancient family wardrobes have been opened by members of the women's auxiliary of the camp for costumes of the '60s which will feature a tea on Friday to be tendered to women of the Rock river [northern Illinois conference]. Authentic crinolines, lavenders, and old laces will be worn by pourers.

Today the annual meeting will take up the refinancing of the association, described as the oldest institution in Chicagoland Methodism, with the exception of the First Methodist church of Chicago.

Files of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of 1860 and 1865 were described as having the sole record of the early years of the camp meeting. From 1860 to 1865 a plot of ground was rented for the services on the nearby farm of Squire Rand. In the latter year the association chartered the present site. Next Sunday's homecoming, Kimball said, will include the dedication program as recorded in THE TRIBUNE.

Bishop A. Frank Smith of Houston, Tex., senior bishop of the recently united Methodist church, was the anniversary preacher last night.

New Free Sons of Israel.

The newly organized Hannah lodge, No 187, Free Sons of Israel, will hold its first meeting since its founding at 8 o'clock this evening at the organization's headquarters, 316 North Michigan avenue.

CUBS LOSE, 4-3; SOX BEAT FELLER IN 9TH, 3-1

REDS CAPTURE LEAGUE LEAD; LEE DROPS 11TH

Forces In Deciding Run with Pass.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Cincinnati's title holding Reds, who are quite confident they'll be able to fit themselves for another world series entry next October, rode back into first place on an error yesterday. Capt. Billy Herman booted one in the eighth, a run followed and the National league champions swept the two game series with the Cubs, 4 to 3, before 23,193 in Wrigley field. Also assisting the Reds' return to the top was the Boston Bees' double triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Altho the Cubs—17 of them were in action—finally tossed the decision overboard, they at least held themselves together long enough to put a different complexion on a battle that threatened to further expose their feebleness at bat. They dropped behind by 3 to 0 almost at the start and their hits were few. But they began to climb in the fifth, knocked out John Hutchings and did the same to Milt Shoffner in the seventh when they tied the score. But thereafter they were properly subdued by Joe Beggs, the ex-Yankee.

Goodman's Homer Decisive.

Bill Lee, who was in service for eight innings, a term long enough to pin him down for the 11th time this year, would have fared better if Lew Riggs and Ival Goodman had gone fishing, or something. This pair plastered him for a run in the first inning by singling. In the third, Riggs doubled and the other fellow hit a homer to round out the Reds' scoring until Herman's miscue gave the champions their ninth victory in 12 games with the Cubs this season.

Lee was partly to blame for the deciding run because of a sudden loss of control. Two were out in the eighth when he passed Frank McCormick. Bill Hershberger plunked a single into left and Harry Craft then produced the teaser that baffled Herman. It was an ordinary bounder, but it trickled from Herman's glove, loading the bases. That was enough to disturb Lee. He walked Morrie Arnovich, and McCormick was forced home with the winning run.

Riggs Causes Trouble.

Riggs, who is subbing for the ailing Billy Werber and doing a very good job of it, opened the game with a single to right. Lee used strikes to get rid of Lonnie Frey, but the job was complicated by a single rapped by Goodman, Riggs going to third. He went the remainder of the distance on McCormick's fly to Augie Galan. Lee then conducted himself flawlessly until he met up with Riggs and Goodman again in the third. The former doubled to right with one out, and with two out Goodman deposited his seventh homer of the season in the right field bleacher.

The Cubs' efforts in the first four innings were so feeble the customers began warming up on the raspberry chorus. Bill Nicholson hit the right field bleachers in the second and ran as far as third, but was ordered back to second because a fan had leaned out of the bleacher and interfered. Bill failed to score because Galan and Phil Cavarretta grounded to Frey and Bob Collins fanned. In the fourth, Jim Gleeson walked with one out and thus became the second Cub to survive against Hutchings.

The Cubs made up for earlier neg-

Now It's Mooty Running for Hartnett

When Gabby Hartnett reached first base in yesterday's game with the Reds he found himself in a predicament—Clay Bryant, his personal base runner—was in Los Angeles for arm treatment. So the Cub manager called on Pitcher Jake Mooty to run for him in the eighth after forcing Rip Russell. Here Mooty is trying to steal second, but Lon Frey is ready for him. Eddie Joost backs up the play and the umpire is George Barr. The Reds won, 4 to 3.

C. Y. O. Selects 11-Man Squad to Box Hawaiians Wednesday

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Eleven of the most courageous and skilful boxers of the Catholic Youth Organization yesterday were named to meet the amateur champions of Hawaii in Soldiers' field Wednesday. These hard fighting young men are as follows:

Harold Dade and Al Noto, flyweights.
Ray Brown and Anthony Bansone, bantamweights.
Frank Bansone and Jack Ballangee, featherweights.
Eddie O'Connell, lightweight.
Savior Canadeo, welterweight.
Isaiah Wells, middleweight.
Hubert Hood, light heavyweight.
Cornelius Young, heavyweight.

The card originally called for 10 matches, but the belated arrival yesterday of Dominic Neratko, Hawaiian middleweight, has caused officials to add a bout. Neratko was able to make the trip only after obtaining a furlough from the United States army, encamped at Schofield barracks in Honolulu. His opponent will be Wells, 1939 C. Y. O. 160 pound champion.

Reception on South Side.

The program has been revised so that there will be two contests in each of the flyweight, bantamweight, and featherweight classes, and one each in the lightweight, welterweight, middleweight, light heavyweight, and heavyweight ranks.

Neratko will join his teammates at a reception given in their honor at 8 o'clock tonight in Davis Square park, 45th street and Marshfield avenue. Joseph Meegan is chairman of the south side celebration. He will be assisted by Dorothy Frasor, recreational director of Davis Square park.

Due to the acquisition of Neratko, Dan Fernandez, Hawaiian middleweight representative, will reduce to the welterweight limit for a match with Canadeo. At the same time, Frank Fernandez, Dan's brother, who came as a welter, will get down to the lightweight mark for a meeting with O'Connell. Other engagements will bring together Hood and Ray Quintal, Hawaiian light heavyweight southpaw, and Young and George Medeiros, Hawaiian heavyweight.

William Gonzales and Salvador Leboy, also a southpaw, will fight as featherweights; Henry Oshiro and Chester Ling will compete as bantamweights, and Paul Inamine and Richard Chinnen will fight as flyweights.

Pairings in these three lighter class weights will not be announced until after a meeting today of officials of the C. Y. O. and Hawaiian delegations. Besides the intersectional match four intercity bouts will be held. John-Pane-Gasser, Chicago Civic Opera company tenor, will open Wednesday's program by singing "God Bless America."

End Boxing Drills Today.

Both teams will conclude boxing drills this afternoon, the visitors in C. Y. O. center gymnasium at 31 East Congress street, and the Chicagoans at Renehan's lodge in Round Lake, Ill. With the exception of Leboy, the boys from the Pacific isles are in perfect condition. Leboy refrained from sparring Saturday because of a slight injury to his right arm, suffered in a workout with Ernie Wilson on Friday.

Manager Frank Goeas is treating the injury with heat lamps. Goeas is confident the boys from the land of Aloha will hand the C. Y. O. its first defeat in intersectional, intercity, or international competition. In 25 previous matches of this nature the C. Y. O. has won 20 times and scored 5 draws.

HAS NO MAP; USES UPSET BOAT; GETS OFF LAST; WINS!

Detroit, Mich., July 7 (AP).—Guessing at the route, Fred Reinke, 40 year old Milwaukee Negro, today won the 60 mile international outboard marathon race, crossing the finish line in his class C service runabout approximately five minutes ahead of his closest rival. For a time officials wondered whether Reinke, driving without a map and guessing at his directions along the St. Clair river and across choppy Lake St. Clair, had followed the right course. They finally decided he had and awarded him the Gar Wood trophy.

Reinke's boat, built by O. D. Snider of Milwaukee, was tipped over by its original driver, Chet Gunkle, just before the start. Bailing her out and hastily touching up the engine, Reinke jumped in and darted off in pursuit of the field.

The last pilot to cross the starting line, he was clocked off at 2:22 p. m. and home at 4:37, for an average of 26.6 miles an hour. Reinke almost collapsed when he left his boat after a rough time with the waves. R. A. Rust of Los Angeles was second to finish, and Frank Paro of Milwaukee, third.

BILL NICHOLSON NAMED TO N. L. ALL-STAR TEAM

Replaces Hank Leiber, Cubs Teammate.

Bill McKechnie, the Reds' manager, who will lead the National league team in the All-Star encounter with the American leaguers in St. Louis tomorrow, yesterday added Bill Nicholson, Cub right fielder, to his squad. Nicholson was named for the vacancy which arose Saturday when Hank Leiber withdrew because of illness. Larry French and Billy Herman, the other Cubs picked for All-Star duties, will accompany Nicholson to St. Louis tonight. The remainder of the Cubs will appear in an exhibition game in Moline, Ill., this afternoon.

EXPECT 33,000 AT GAME

St. Louis, Mo., July 7 (AP).—St. Louis fans, who haven't had much to cheer about in a baseball way since the Cardinals last won the National league championship and world series from the Tigers in 1934, will fill Sportsman's park to overflowing for the eighth annual All-Star game Tuesday, Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals, predicted tonight.

Interest in the midsummer battle between the league stars has heightened in the last few days, he said. Only 2,000 reserved seats and 5,000 bleacher spaces are available and these are expected to be snapped up long before game time.

Most of the All-Stars are expected tomorrow morning, but some of the eastern members will not arrive until late in the day.

Derringer vs. Feller.

Pending announcements from Bill McKechnie of the National league and Joe Cronin of the American, the rival managers, no one could do any more than guess at the likely lineups.

Generally, Paul Derringer and Ernie Lombardi of the Reds were expected to be the opening battery for the Nationals and Robert Feller and Rollie Hemsley of the Cleveland Indians for the Americans.

The American league, which has won five of the seven past games, is the favorite.

May Ask More Night Games.

Breadon said he expected to discuss with other club owners of the National league the advisability of increasing the limit on night baseball, but added that he had an open mind on the matter and did not intend to ask permission to play more than the seven already scheduled, at least this season. The St. Louis Browns recently doubled their quota of night games to 14.

The National league meeting, originally set for the afternoon, was moved back to tomorrow night. Will Benswanger, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, said this probably could be taken as an indication that nothing requiring lengthy consideration would be brought up.

The American league will meet in the afternoon.

LITTLE DEFEATS ED OLIVER, 1 UP, IN SERIES OPENER

Buffalo, N. Y., July 7 (AP).—Lawson Little, National open champion, defeated Ed Oliver, Hornell, N. Y., pro, 1 up, in the first match of a series at nearby Williamsville Park club today before 1,000. Each finished with a 138 medal score, 6 under par.

Oliver, who was disqualified in the National Open at Cleveland for starting his final round ahead of time, was 2 up on Little on the 26th. The National Open titleholder then won the 27th, 29th, and 31st. They halved the last five holes. Oliver's main difficulty was his putting.

The series — best-of-five — was proposed by Little after Oliver had played out the final round at the National Open and brought in a disallowed score, which would have tied for first.

In the first round this morning, Little sank 12 foot putts for birdies on the first and second holes to start out 2 up. Oliver's birdie three on the 15th evened the match but Little took the 17th to go 1 up. Their medal scores were Little, 68; Oliver, 69.

LYONS' SIX HIT HURLING SENDS INDIANS TO 2D

Ted's 42d Victory Over Cleveland.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., July 7.—The spell which Bob Feller has held over the White Sox in 1940 was jolted today when the Chicagoans, with that grand old Sabbath gentleman, Ted Lyons, presiding, beat the Indians, 3 to 1. The jolt not only shook Iowa Robert out of a 14th victory he had all chalked up in his own confidence book, but skidded the Indians right out of first place in the American league standings.

The game had some screwy elements, none of which detracted from Sox glory. For instance, the Chicagoans, after hitting in every inning except the seventh, scored their two run margin in the ninth without the semblance of a base hit. The 1 to 1 tie, effected when both teams scored in the fourth, started to dissolve immediately after Ken Keltner had been thrown out at the plate for the third out in the home eighth when he tried to continue home on a 463 foot triple.

That Deciding Ninth.

The ninth opened with the winded and disappointed Keltner grabbing Luke Appling's bounce and throwing it past Hal Trosky for the only error of the game. Appling reached second on the play. Mike Tresh then drew Feller's second pass. Bob Kennedy bunted to Feller, whose fielder's choice throw to third was too late to get Appling. So the bases were loaded with none out. Lyons fanned, but Ken Silvestri, batting for Skeeter Webb, walked on five pitches, forcing Appling home with what proved to be the winning run. Mike Kreevich bounced out to Keltner, Tresh scoring. Joe Kuhel then popped to Keltner.

It was the fifth defeat Feller has suffered this season, but the first handed him by the Sox. The Van Meter wonder boy won that 1 to 0 no hitter opening day and had followed up with 3 to 1 and 7 to 3 conquests. It was Lyons' fifth victory and his ninth elegantly pitched game of the year as well as his 42d victory over the Indians as a White Sox star.

Our Sox Are Robbed.

The second man up for the Sox in each of the first three innings singled and in the first and third the hitters got in scoring position. Kreevich, after singling in the first inning, stole second while Kuhel executed a strikeout, but died when Lou Boudreau threw out Julius Solters. Appling singled in the second, but was forced. In the third Boudreau's larcenous behavior kept the Sox from scoring. With one out, Webb singled and stole second. Boudreau then leaped high in the air and deflected Kreevich's smash skyward. Before the ball could come down to earth he ran into short left center and caught it. Kuhel then struck out for the second time.

The Indians made two hits off Lyons in the first three innings, but neither hitter got past first.

Solters and Taft Wright had fanned before the game's first run production got under way in the fourth. Appling then drew Feller's first pass, went to third on Tresh's single to right and scored on Kennedy's single to right center, Tresh stopping at second. Lyons forced Kennedy, Boudreau to Mack.

Indians Tie Score.

The Indians tied the score in their end of the fourth. Roy Weatherly pushed off with his second single, paused while Rollie Hemsley flied to Kreevich and went to third on Trosky's single to right center. Beau Bell flied to Solters, scoring Weatherly.

KIEFER SCORES 2D VICTORY AS A.A.U. SWIM MEET ENDS

Sets Record in 330 Yard Medley; Hawaiians Win.

Santa Barbara, Cal., July 7 (AP).—Adolph Kiefer of Chicago climaxed the 1940 National A. A. U. men's swimming and diving championship meet with another record breaking performance today.

Adolph Kiefer.

Competing in the last event of the last day of the meet, Kiefer joined the double champion ranks with victory in the 330 yard individual medley race and broke his own 300 meter record doing it. Kiefer swam the 330 yard medley—breast stroke, back stroke and free style—in 3:58.6. This was a new mark, since the distance was a new meet event.

Clark Repeats in Diving.

Three years ago Kiefer set an American record in Louisville, Ky., for the 300 meters—which is approximately 6 feet shorter than the 350 yard distance—in 4 minutes 2 seconds.

Kiefer's feat was the most brilliant of the final competitions, in which Otto Jaretz of Chicago, defending champion, retained his 110 yard title, altho the event was raced at 100 meters last year. Earl Clark of Ohio State again won the platform diving title with a point score of 124.32, and Kiyoshi Nakama of Hawaii took the 880 yard free style.

Three competitors wound up as double champions. They were Kiefer in the medley and back stroke in record times; Jaretz in the 220 yard and 110 free styles, and Nakama in the 440 and 880 yard free styles.

Towers Club Scores 33 Points.

The Hawaiian team, representing the Alexander Community house in Maui, won the team championship for the second successive year with a score of 41. The Towers club of Chicago, led by Kiefer and Jaretz, was second with 33 points. The Los Angeles Athletic club was third with 18 points.

Jaretz won the 110 yard sprint in 58.4 seconds, but failed to break any records for a measured 100 meters or 100 yards, while Nakama had little trouble winning the 880 free style in the fast time of 10 minutes 8.6 seconds.

Following is the list of new champions:

110 YARD FREE STYLE—Otto Jaretz, Chicago. Time—:58.4.

220 YARD FREE STYLE—Otto Jaretz, Chicago. Time—2:13.1.

440 YARD FREE STYLE—K. Nakama, Hawaii. Time—4:54.4.

880 YARD FREE STYLE—K. Nakama, Hawaii. Time—10:08.6.

ONE MILE FREE STYLE—K. Nakama, Hawaii. Time—21:31.4.

110 YARD BACK STROKE—Adolph Kiefer, Chicago. Time—1:05.5.

SOFTBALL TITLE PLAYOFFS WILL START TONIGHT

First round championship playoffs in the Windy City Softball league will get under way tonight with double headers in St. Philip and Rand stadiums.

The Petrones, defending champions, will meet the Hanleys or Salerno Cookies in the first game in St. Philip stadium, while the Atlas All-Americans and the Parrillos will play the second game at 9:30.

In the Rand stadium, the Lopota Steelers and Triangle Liquors will clash in the opening game of the double header, while the Bill Rands and the Washburne Craftsmen will meet in the second game. Tonight's winners in each park will play tomorrow night to settle first round honors. Last night's results:

Atlas All-Americans, 7; Petrone Senators, 3.
Parrillos, 11; Salerno Cookies, 7.
Bill Rands, 2; Lopota Steelers, 1.
Tor De Luxe, 7; Sacred Hearts, 5.

RIGGS DEFEATS PARKER IN FOX RIVER TOURNEY

Neenah, Wis., July 7 (AP).—Bobby Riggs of Chicago won the men's championship in the 20th annual Fox river valley tennis tournament today with a 6-3, 6-2, 7-5 victory over Frankie Parker of Los Angeles.

Parker teamed with Don McNeil of Oklahoma City to take the doubles title, winning 3-6, 6-3, 5-7, 6-4, 7-5, over Henry Prusoff of Seattle and Gardner Mulloy, Miami.

Duncan Wins Feature Riverview Midget Race

Ted Duncan won the 30 lap main event in the midget auto races last night at Riverview speedway, leading Wally Zale, who finished second, by four lengths. His time was 7 minutes and 44.18 seconds. Harry MacQuinn was third, Cowboy O'Rourke, fourth, and Ray Richards was fifth.

The five qualified for the western championship to be decided in a 50 lap race at Riverview next Sunday night.

American Giants Beat Royals, 4-3; Then Lose, 7-6

A four run rally in the last inning enabled the Brooklyn Royals to take a seven inning game from the Chicago American Giants of the Negro American league, 7 to 6, yesterday in the Giants park, after Lefty Bowe's 11 strikeouts had led the Giants to a 4 to 3 victory in the first game of a nonleague double header.

Vinciquerra Meets Giant Rival Tonight

Carl Vinciquerra, 1936 Chicago Golden Gloves light heavyweight champion, will seek his fifth straight victory in an eight round bout against Chuck Crowell of Los Angeles, Cal., in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight. Vinciquerra, who has stopped Jarl Johnson, Tommy Johnson, and Lou Campbell, and conquered Arne Anderson, will be opposing his biggest opponent in a three year professional campaign in Crowell.

The 22 year old Los Angeles boxer is 6 feet 5 inches tall and weighs 220 pounds. He will be making his first Chicago appearance. Chuck won the assignment against Vinciquerra by defeating Arne Anderson in Minneapolis recently. Tho his record is inconsistent, Crowell has demonstrated ability against some of the best heavyweights in the country. He holds knockouts over Blimp Williams, Al Delaney, Ford Smith, Johnny Erjavec, Bob Nestell, and Sonny Walker.

Met Big Men Before.

Vinciquerra, however, has met giant fighters before and believes he will make Crowell victim No. 5. Among previous ponderous foes are Virgil Clark, 210 pounds; Salvatore Ruggirello, 209, and Bernie Bowman, 227. Carl scored a technical knockout over Clark after losing a decision in an earlier match. He also stopped Bowman, but the best he could do against Ruggirello was win a verdict in 10 rounds.

Billy Seward of Ingomar, Mont., will encounter Tommy Parker, Lexington, Ky., lightweight, in an eight round secondary feature. Seward, stablemate of Vinciquerra, also will be searching for his fifth consecutive triumph. Preliminary contests of four rounds bring together Al Beauhold, Jersey City welterweight, and Tito Taylor; Wood Blackburn, Terre Haute heavyweight, and Johnny Wordson, and Otto Buettler, Los Angeles light heavyweight, and Ed Stanley.

Rudy Kay, north side heavyweight wrestler, will meet Al Williams in the windup bout of a mat card in Parichy stadium, Harlem avenue and Harrison street, this evening. Charley [Gorilla] Grubmyer is paired with Fred Grubmier in a semi-final. . . . Fritz Von Schacht, Milwaukee heavyweight wrestler, who has been campaigning on the Pacific coast for the last year, will return for a clash with Chief Sanooke in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, tonight. . . . Joe Dupont, city Golden Gloves featherweight champion, will make his professional debut against Jimmy Santori, west side lightweight, in a four round fight in White City Friday. The card is topped by an eight round rematch involving Willie Joyce and George Morella.

Coronado Boy Captures U. S. Prep Net Title

Haverford, Pa., July 7 (AP).—Robert Carrothers of Coronado, Cal., won the national interscholastic tennis championship today with a 3-6, 5-7, 8-6, 6-3, 6-1 victory over Earl Cochell of Los Angeles. Vic Seixas and Bill Vogt of Philadelphia won the doubles championship, beating Carrothers and Bob Crawford of Coronado, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

Misty Isle Is Horse to Beat at Arlington

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Followers of Arlington Park racing will go into the third week of the meeting today wondering who can beat Joseph E. Widener's Misty Isle in next Saturday's $30,000 Lassie stakes. This fleet filly's performance in winning the Hyde Park stakes against a field of speedy, rugged colts indicated that she may go on to a high position in the national ranking.

In addition to focusing attention on Misty Isle, last Saturday's program brought out a new contender for the Classic stakes, which will be run on July 20. R. W. McIlvain's Van, making the third start of his career, ran the fastest mile of the Chicago season to beat the veteran filly Unerring, which had gone to the post as the 4 to 5 favorite. It was one of the most spectacular duels of the meeting, the two horses running side by side most of the way and Van winning by half a length in 1:36 4-5.

Van Comes to Fore.

In considering Classic prospects, Van had been ignored previously. He had never been to the post as a 2 year old. In the first start of his career, however, last month at Lincoln Fields, he was held at odds of only a little more than 2 to 1. He finished fourth, which was as good as could have been expected on a first attempt.

The next time out, however, he began to show that he really knew what was going on, winning by more than three lengths in a maiden race at Arlington last Tuesday. Then he went up against the 4 year old filly Unerring, veteran of many stakes, and showed that Trainer Howard Wells was really teaching him how to run.

Among Misty Isle's rivals next Saturday will be Mrs. John Marsch's Blue Delight. This filly has also shown the ability to win in competition with colts. Her most impressive performance was delivered in winning the Joliet stakes at Lincoln Fields. Some of the other Lassie eligibles already on the grounds are Calumet farm's Scarlet Insco, Woolford farm's Unquote, Milky Way farm's Miss Discovery and No Embargo, Valdina farm's Valdina Myth, and Darby Dan farm's Darby Dulcet.

Easterners Are Eligible.

Quite a few eastern horses are also eligible for this event, but no definite shipping plans have yet been announced. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, whose Now What was the winner of last season's Lassie stakes, has four on the list of nominees.

The distance of the Lassie stakes will be six furlongs. Judging by the way she performed Saturday, Misty Isle should have no trouble with the extra sixteenth of a mile. She kept close enough to De Kalb's blazing early pace and was running powerfully in the stretch, finishing the five and a half furlongs in 1:04 4-5, which was only 3-5 of a second slower than the track record.

Five of the colts which took part in the Hyde Park are eligible for the $50,000 Arlington Park Futurity, which will be run on July 27. Two of these, W. E. Boeing's Cuantos and Calumet farm's Whirlaway, ran well enough to retain their places as Futurity contenders. Valdina Groom, Swain, and Asael D., however, indicated that they will have to improve a lot if they are to have any chance in the rich event.

Thane Halstead of Chicago Loses in Indiana Net Finals

Fort Wayne, Ind., July 7 (AP).—Dave Freeman of Pasadena, Cal., won the singles title today in the Indiana Open tennis tournament by defeating Thane Halstead of Chicago, 6-2, 7-5, 6-0. Freeman and Ray Suchy of Milwaukee won the doubles championship, conquering Halstead and Olen Parks of Mishawaka, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

Michigan Cricket Team Beats Illinois, 126-125

The Michigan cricket team defeated Illinois, 126 to 125, in an exhibition game at Wilson avenue and the outer drive yesterday. Lake Shore and Oak Park tied, 58 to 58, in the first round of the tournament for the K. A. Auty cup.

All-Star Game Site Is Clinched by Kansas City

Columbus, O., July 7 (AP).—Kansas City's Ruppert stadium will be the scene of the American association All-Star game July 17 for the second straight year. The Blues decided the issue today with a double victory over the Columbus Red Birds to retain league leadership.

Last year the Blues were beaten, 19 to 7, by the All-Star team selected by baseball writers. The 1940 all-star opponents of the Blues will be announced Tuesday. In the event of rain the game will be played the following night, July 18.

Home clubs hold a 4 to 2 edge in the six previous All-Star games. Minneapolis, which finished only a game behind the Blues in this year's race to be host club, won the first two contests in 1934 and 1935. The All-Stars trimmed Milwaukee in 1936, Columbus won in 1937, and Indianapolis in 1938.

Betty Bro and Calypso Win in 95 Mile Race

The R class sloop Calypso of the Chicago Yacht club, and the cruising cutter Betty Bro, Columbia Yacht club flagship, won the Col. Robert Morse and George Owen Clinch trophies, respectively, in the Chicago Yacht club's first race from Black Lake, Mich., to Belmont harbor yesterday.

The 95 mile race started Saturday at sunset, in a calm. Not until several hours after the 37 yachts had been sent away by Race Committee Chairman Byron H. Willis, did a zephyr arise to give them headway.

Calypso, owned by Hugh Driscoll, Arthur D. Swift, and Frank Roe, won the Universal [racing] division time prize and the R class event. Commodore Milton Friend's Betty Bro sailed the course with its new lightweight mainsail, and finished in the fastest corrected time for the cruising division, 13 hours 30 minutes and 47 seconds. Summaries:

PIRATES DEFEAT CARDS TWICE AND TAKE FIFTH PLACE

Win, 7-6 and 4-1, to Sweep 4 Game Series.

St. Louis, Mo., July 7 (AP).—Pittsburgh's Pirates took over fifth place from the St. Louis Cardinals today with two victories, 7 to 6 and 4 to 1, to sweep the four game series, altho outhit in both games. Only one of the eight St. Louis hits in the second game did damage—Terry Moore's eighth home run of the year in the eighth with the bases empty.

In the second inning of the second game Vincent DiMaggio hit a home run, scoring behind Maurice Van Robays who got on base thru Martin Marion's error.

Two big innings, the first with three runs and the sixth with four, accounted for the Pirates' seven runs in the opener. Enos Slaughter of the Cardinals hit his seventh home run in this game.

GIANTS, 6-2; PHILLIES, 4-4.

New York, July 7 (AP).—A pair of home runs by Joe Marty was all the encouragement Si Johnson needed today as he pitched and won his first complete game of the season in beating the New York Giants, 4 to 2, in the second game of their double header with the Phillies. The Giants won the first game, 6 to 4.

Frank Demaree returned to the lineup for the first time since he was injured June 14 and was the biggest factor for the Giants in the first game. His home run was matched by one from the bat of Pitcher Hal Schumacher, who got credit for the first game. Score:

Dodgers Lose 2 to Bees and Lead to Reds

Boston, Mass., July 7 (AP).—Boston's Bees swept a double header, 1 to 0 and 2 to 1, from the Brooklyn Dodgers today to end a 26 inning scoring famine and drop Brooklyn out of the National league lead.

Sparkling fielding and airtight pitching by Manuel Salvo gave the Bees the jump in the first game and ignited the spark which held the Dodgers in the nightcap, to the dismay of nearly 1,000 royal rooters who had journeyed here from Brooklyn to cheer on their favorites.

Dolph Camilli, Brooklyn first baseman, was injured in the opening game in a collision with Buddy Hassett, as the Bee first baseman tried to beat out an infield tap. Camilli was treated at St. Elizabeth's hospital for a severe bruise on the left side of his neck after X-ray plates showed no vertebral fracture. Hassett finished out the inning and was relieved by Johnny Cooney, whose single drove in the lone run of the first game.

Athletics Get Even Break with Yankees

Philadelphia, Pa., July 7 (AP).—The Athletics made it three out of four in their current series with the New York Yankees by splitting a double header today before Philadelphia's largest baseball crowd of the season—37,129 paid.

The Yanks won the first game, 6 to 3, by scoring four runs in the first inning off Rookie Southpaw Porter Vaughan. The A's took the second game, 10 to 5, behind Nelson Potter's six hit pitching. The A's outhit the Yanks in each game, 12 to 6.

The A's knocked Lefty Gomez out of the box with a four run uprising in the sixth inning of the second game. Al Simmons' single and Dick Siebert's double—his third two bagger of the game—with the bases full accounted for the four tallies. Bob Johnson hit his 15th homer in the first inning. Bill Dickey and Babe Dahlgren also hit home runs for the Yanks.

Tigers Defeat Browns, 5-2; Regain Lead

Detroit, Mich., July 7 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers wrested the American league lead from the Cleveland Indians for the second time this season today when they defeated the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 2, while the Indians were losing to the Chicago White Sox, 3 to 1. The victory was the 10th for Detroit in 12 games with St. Louis.

Lynwood Rowe held the Browns to five hits in gaining his sixth victory against one defeat in his successful comeback. Rowe was lifted in the ninth when Roy Cullenbine hit a homer and Chet Laabs doubled, Alton Benton coming in to check the rally.

RED SOX, 7-4; SENATORS, 1-7.

Washington, D. C., July 7 (AP).—The Senators lost the first game of a double header to Boston, 7 to 1, today, but came back to take the second game, 7 to 4, and salvage one in the four game series. Twenty-two thousand fans saw Lefty Grove hold the Senators under control in the first game and Rene Monteagudo tighten up in the pinches in the second to give each team a victory.

Grove was opposed by Washington's knuckle ball artist, Dutch Leonard, but he was no puzzle to the Red Sox. His teammates let him down with sloppy fielding to permit Boston to score four unearned runs in the third inning of the first game.

Monteagudo was faced by Alex Mustaikus in the second. Scores:

YOUTH CONGRESS BALKS DICTATOR LABEL FOR SOVIET

Accuse Delegates of Rush to Red Bandwagon.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lake Geneva, Wis., July 7 [Special].—The American Youth congress, whose most powerful defender is Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, today ended its four day annual convention by rejecting a resoluton branding soviet Russia a dictatorship.

Defiant in the face of charges that it is under the thumb of the communist party, the A. Y. C. retained its present officials and made short work of the few dissidents who succeeded in obtaining delegates' credentials.

Franklin Kramer of Elgin, Ill., chairman of the University of Wisconsin Peace federation, championed the anti-soviet resolution.

Ten Vote for Proposal.

"It was pretty hopeless," Kramer said of the A. Y. C. action on his proposal. "There was a communistic bandwagon and too many delegates jumped on it. I wanted to give the congress the opportunity to clear itself of the charges of communism."

His resolution did not single out Russia for blame, but merely included it in a list of dictatorship countries. Only about 10 votes were counted for it to several hundred against when the delegates thrust their green cards into the air to decide the issue.

Carl Ross, national secretary of the Young Communist league, was one of the known communists who assailed the Kramer request. The loudest voice on this side was that of burly Emil Costello of Waukegan, a communist party member since 1933. Altho 36 years old, he attended the congress as representative of the farm equipment workers organizing committee, an affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Forget "Gimme" Idea: Tunney.

Kramer, whose mild manner covers a stubborn streak, had not been deterred by the hostility evident to him on all sides since he first broached the resolution Thursday. He said, however, he did not intend to join the pro-American group which was refused delegate powers at the congress.

Gene Tunney, former heavyweight boxing champion, came here Friday to encourage the pro-American group. After conferences with these youth leaders—about 50 in number, mostly from Michigan—Tunney advised them to go home and work out a new organization to unite young Americans without the "gimme" attitude toward government.

By unanimous vote the congress voted to ratify a working agreement drawn by its officials with Labor's Nonpartisan league, which is the C. I. O.'s political wing.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Invisible Girl

TEST YOUR HORSE SENSE

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Select the answer which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 23.

1. If a housewife has a kettle full of hot grease on the stove she is probably going to make Plum Pudding Doughnuts Roast Turkey Cornbread.
2. The fruit that usually ripens first is Cherry Peach Apple Plum.
3. Horse chestnuts grow on Vines on Trees on Bushes Underground.
4. Which of the following is considered the coolest color? Red Purple Blue Green.
5. The toughest of the following woods is Pine Basswood Hickory Poplar.
6. A young stenographer was recently invited to spend the week-end at the summer home of her wealthy employer. En route to his home, however, she lost her luggage. But her employer's wife graciously furnished her with one of her own niblicks. Did the girl
   —— Use it in her boudoir?
   —— Use it while riding horseback?
   —— Use it in the swimming pool?
   —— Use it on the golf links?

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

WILD MOTORIST IS SEIZED AFTER TWO MILE CHASE

Three cars were damaged and three persons were injured last night as a motorist led police on a two mile chase at high speed. The fugitive, Sherman Caple, 20 years old, 617 Oakton street, Evanston, began by running a red light at Devon avenue and Sheridan road. With Sergt. Charles Kiefer's squad in pursuit, he ran another at Loyola avenue and Sheridan road.

Half a block south of Howard street Caple veered into the southbound lanes and demolished the car of David Bunnell, 920 Judson avenue, Evanston, vice president of the Central Soya Co., in the Board of Trade building. Mrs. Bunnell was injured. A man and woman were hurled from Caple's car but were not seriously injured. Caple backed his car away and again sped north, crashing at Howard street into the car of Waldemar De Bille, manager of the Edward Hines Lumber company, Evanston.

Caple then sped west in Howard, with pedestrians leaping frantically from his path. At Ridge avenue he turned north into Evanston, then struck a lamp post, wrecking the car. Rogers Park police charged him with reckless driving, driving while intoxicated, leaving the scene of an accident, and having no driver's license. The couple who had been with Caple were not held.

MARTIN O'BRIEN'S BODY IS BROUGHT TO CHICAGO HOME

The body of Martin J. O'Brien, public administrator of Cook county and a west side Democratic leader for many years, was returned to Chicago last night from Minocqua, Wis., where he had a summer home. He died Saturday night, supposedly of a heart attack, after he was rescued from drowning when a small boat capsized in Crawling Stone lake, about 15 miles west of Minocqua. He was 67 years old.

John J. Hallihan of East St. Louis, state director of education and registration, and Arthur P. O'Brien, secretary to Gov. Henry Horner, who were rescued with Martin O'Brien, by John St. Germaine, an Indian guide, were under the care of physicians. Each was reported by his wife to be recuperating. Martin O'Brien and Arthur P. O'Brien were not related.

Mr. O'Brien leaves a son, Martin E. O'Brien, and two daughters, Mrs. G. H. Richards and Mrs. Daniel Divane. His daughters were with him at his summer home. Mr. O'Brien lived in Chicago at 3851 Congress street.

C. E. HALLBERG, NOTED MARINE ARTIST, IS DEAD

Charles Edward Hallberg, 85 years old, a noted marine artist, died yesterday in his home at 1114 North Parkside avenue. Mr. Hallberg was born in Gothenburg, Sweden, and worked for a time as a janitor after coming to Chicago. He then devoted his time to art. His works are hung in many museums both here and abroad, and he was the winner of many prizes. His first great success was the acceptance of his work at the St. Louis exposition. Surviving are his widow, Amanda; two daughters, Mrs. Ella Ekstrom and Mrs. Sylvia Hanson of Sweden, and a son, Ben. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday in the Messiah Lutheran church, Waller avenue and Iowa street, with burial in Elmwood cemetery.

ROBERT P. DURHAM, GRAIN ELEVATOR ENGINEER, IS DEAD

Robert P. Durham, president of the Macdonald Engineerig company, and considered one of the world's foremost grain elevator engineers, died yesterday in St. Luke's hospital after a brief illness. He was 60 years old and lived as 413 South York street, Elmhurst.

Mr. Durham played a part in soviet Russia's building program about 10 years ago when his company obtained a contract to do 110 million dollars' worth of work for the soviet government. This program included the construction of chains of cement plants, grain elevators, flour mills, and miscellaneous industrial enterprises.

Mr. Durham was born in Evanston and educated at Evanston Township High school and Lewis institute. He joined the Macdonald Engineering company in 1916 and became president in 1922. He headed, or had official connection with engineering, elevator, and construction companies in Toronto, Ont.; Oakland, Cal.; Montreal, Que., and St. Catherines, Ont. He was a member of the Western Society of Engineers and the American Society of Engineers.

His widow, the former Alma E. Macdonald, survives. The funeral will be held from the chapel at 134 South York street, Elmhurst, with services in Memorial Park cemetery chapel at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Intoxicated Robber Gets $20 at Hotel Cigar Stand

An intoxicated robber whose face was smeared with lipstick took $20 last night from the cigar stand in the lobby of the Stevens hotel. Miss Dorothy Peterson, 22 years old, the attendant, said he kept his right hand in his pocket as tho holding a pistol. He staggered out of the 7th street entrance of the hotel after she handed over the money.

DRIVER SEIZED IN CRASH DEATH AFTER HE FLEES

Victim Hit Alighting from Street Car.

Police seized a driver who allegedly fled yesterday after his car killed Michael J. Moore, 54 years old, 6840 South Morgan street, an employé of the Illinois Central railroad. Moore was struck as he alighted from a street car as 27th street and Cottage Grove avenue.

The driver, Samuel Alberts, 33, colored, escaped on foot. When he reached his home, 3608 Ellis Park street, he found a squad of Pekin Inn police waiting. He was locked up after he said he fled because he had no driver's license.

Killed in Car-Truck Crash,

Edward Bryan, 19, of 8021 Maryland avenue, was killed when the car in which he was riding collided with a truck near Oshkosh, Wis. Lowell Solberg, 21, of 8215 Cottage Grove avenue, driver of the car, was injured. The driver of the truck was Vernon Werth of Dale, Wis.

Two ambulances destined for use by the Polish Red Cross were pressed into service after a highway accident on U. S. highway 20, in front of the Dunes Park post of the Indiana state police. The ambulances were being driven to New York for shipment to Europe when two cars collided near them. Twelve of the 14 persons injured in the crash were taken in the ambulances to St. Anthony's hospital, Michigan City.

Mrs. Ann Steffens, 4612 South Washtenaw avenue, who was the most seriously hurt, was believed to have incurred a broken back. The cars which collided were driven by Stanley Mastinsky, 4238 South California avenue, and Russell Brown, Centerville, Mich.

Car Victim Identified.

A pedestrian killed Saturday night when he was struck by a car at Irving Park road and Lavergne avenue was identified yesterday as Anton Hoffman, 70, of 5000 Grace street, a retired office worker. Cornelius Sheridan of 3001 Addison street was the driver of the car.

Lawrence Claybrook, 33, colored, of 3575 Rhodes avenue, a painter, died in county hospital of injuries incurred Saturday when he was struck by an auto at 35th street and South Park way.

Walter Boucher, 32, of 444 West 57th street, died in the Little Company of Mary hospital of burns incurred Wednesday when his gasoline truck overturned and caught fire at 95th street and Harlem avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 433 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 325 were killed in Chicago, where 11,512 were injured in traffic accidents during the same period.

BUSINESS GAINS IN JUNE DESPITE EVENTS ABROAD

Defense Activities Main Influence.

Washington, D. C., July 7 [Special].—A marked business upturn in the United States in June despite events abroad was reported today by the department of commerce. Gains were ascribed to favorable prospects engendered by the defense program. Commodity prices firmed, but, it was said, with farm prices still low and exports markets curtailed, domestic business is not yet secure against European developments.

The United States will continue arming, however, and "interruptions to the rising trend of production, such as a quick termination of the war or readjustments of a technical character should be of less importance than formerly was the case when a basic demand factor comparable to the defense program was not in the picture," the report explained.

Metal Industries Active.

Orders for steel in June expanded and new orders in nonferrous metals industries rose further after the large rise in May, the report said. Total orders received by railroad equipment companies increased in contrast to the decline in May. All indications pointed to a continued rise in freight traffic. Orders for machinery were reported to be in good volume, and purchasing also spread to the nondurable good industries.

The chart compares the number of new businesses started in Illinois, New York, Delaware, and Maine in the first four months of recent years.

Industrial Building Rises.

Commercial and industrial building has been on a rising trend since late in 1939, the report said, and the gain has widened with the advance of the building season. Interest in plant expansion has been active, and the volume of work now on drawing boards was said to be the largest in several years.

Activity at textile mills generally increased.

90 Pct. Steel Output Rate Is Predicted

Overcoming the effects of last week's holiday schedule, the steel industry is scheduled to make up for all lost time this week and boost production close to 90 per cent of capacity, the magazine Steel reported yesterday. Independence day shutdowns trimmed last week's rate by 14 points to 75 per cent of capacity, the publication said.

Some producers began expanding operations last Friday, cutting into a steadily rising accumulation of orders, in a move to meet delivery schedules, the magazine reported.

Defense Buying Begins.

"Some small buying for defense purposes is being done, but full weight of such requirements is still in the future," the survey said. "Many steel consumers are seeking to increase inventories to furnish a supply in case priorities are put in effect. Deliveries in some products, notably bars, are falling several weeks behind schedule."

Last month's pig iron production was placed at 3,813,092 net tons, an increase of 9 per cent over the volume of 3,497,157 tons in May. It was the largest volume since January, when 4,024,556 tons were turned out.

Production for the first six months of the year was 21,042,643 tons, against 14,023,668 in the corresponding period of last year, the largest since the first half of 1937 when the total was 22,143,895 tons.

Railroad Orders Large.

Railroads last month placed orders for 7,575 freight cars, the largest number for any month since April, 1937, except for last September and October. The total of orders for the first six months of 1940 was 16,173, the largest since 1937.

Steel reported that last week's reduction in ingot production was normal for the period as compared with other years.

PREDICT PRICES OF FURNITURE WILL HOLD FIRM

Laurence A. Whiting, president of the Furniture Mart, said yesterday that the general price structure for furniture, household appliances, floor coverings, and lamps was expected to remain firm during the next six months.

"Home furnishings manufacturers cannot afford to cut prices," he said, "in view of present costs of labor and materials, as well as the tax status. Despite the improvements made in their products, the trade has no disposition to step up prices, since their objective is to cater to the widest possible market."

GENERAL ALLOYS.

How have the profits of General Alloys run in the last couple of years? Have the common stock holders been paid anything? What is the company's business?—J. B.

Answer: General Alloys company manufactures at its plant in Boston, Mass., various types of heat, corrosion, and abrasion resisting castings used mainly by the automobile, process, glass, oil, tool, paper, and marine construction industries.

Net sales, net income, and earnings per common share of the company in recent years follow:

	Net sales.	Net income.	Earnings per com. share.
1935	$449,234	$23,370	$0.02
1936	601,084	37,200	0.08
1937	861,176	77,030	0.26
1938	413,854	*108,471	*0.54
1939	589,394	12,113	0.01

*Net loss.

The company's capitalization is made up of 23,630 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred class A stock of $10 par value and 233,613 shares of no par common stock. The latter is listed on the Boston Stock and the New York Curb exchanges. No dividend has been paid on the common since 1930.

Accumulated unpaid dividends on the preferred stock totaled $5.95 a share on 6,641 unstamped shares and $1.75 a share on the remaining shares. The unstamped certificates are those on which an offer of adjusted dividend arrears payment made by the company in 1937 was not accepted.

SCREW MACHINE.

I have a letter from a relative in Detroit who suggests that I buy some stock in the Brown-McLaren Manufacturing company. What information do you have about this concern?—J. E.

Answer: The Brown-McLaren Manufacturing company makes screw machine products, reamers, hand tools, and other machine tools. Most of its output is taken by the automobile and accessory trades. The company's factory is in Hamburg, Mich., near Detroit.

Capitalization of the company consists of 250,000 shares of $1 par common stock and funded debt of $95,000. The stock is listed on the Detroit Stock exchange.

Until 1937 the stock of the company was held privately, but in that year the old common was split 10 for 1 and a large block was sold to the public. Nothing has been paid on the new stock since 10 cents a share was distributed in 1937.

After earning $34,316, or 14 cents a share, in 1937 the company had a net loss of $80,980 in 1938 and net loss of $59,301 in 1939.

PHILCO TO OFFER 325,000 SHARES OF STOCK THIS WEEK

The first public financing since establishment of the company in 1892 will be undertaken this week by the Philco corporation, a leading manufacturer of radio receivers and other products, the company announced yesterday.

An underwriting group headed by Smith, Barney & Co., and including 30 or more investment houses will offer 325,000 shares of common stock at a price to be announced later. Shareholders last April approved a revision in capitalization to provide for the new financing, which had been delayed pending a return of more normal conditions to the investment market.

Part of the proceeds of the sale of the stock, of $3 par value, will be used to retire all of the 28,385 shares of $100 par preferred stock, leaving the company with the common stock constituting its only capitalization.

Denmark to Pay Interest Despite German Control

New York, July 7 (AP).—Denmark will maintain its record in servicing its external loan despite German control of the nation, the National City bank indicated today. The bank said funds were received for payment of the July 1 coupons on Kingdom of Denmark 20 year 6 per cent bonds of 1942 and that license was obtained to disburse these funds up to July 10 in accordance with a presidential decree affecting such payments.

New York's Banks Report Upturn in 1939 Lending

New York, July 7 (AP).—A survey of 60 per cent of New York state's commercial banks showed a "definite expansion of bank credit in the field of new loans" in 1939 the American Bankers association said today. New loans made between July 31 and Dec. 31 numbered 189,995, or 15 per cent more than in the preceding six months. Dollar volume increased 21 per cent to $1,025,936,872.

KANSAS WHEAT BEATS EXTENDED DROUTH TO MAKE 'MIRACLE CROP'

Topeka, Kas., July 7 (AP).—They're describing the 1940 Kansas wheat crop a miracle crop. Sown last fall in dusty, dry soil, the crop was all but given up as a damaging drouth persisted into the early winter.

"Maybe it will produce 50,000,000 or 55,000,000 bushels—if conditions are right," the experts said.

Such a crop is about a third of a normal production for Kansas, biggest wheat growing state in the country. Once, back in 1931, the state had a production of 240,000,000 bushels.

Now the farmers are harvesting a crop which last estimates placed at 85,000,000 bushels. Reports of surprisingly big yields may make that estimate low. The production rise was due to later abundance of rain and ideal weather conditions generally.

Mobile and Ohio Holders Urged to Deposit Bonds

Owners of Mobile and Ohio railroad bonds who have not deposited their securities with a reorganization committee headed by Frederic W. Ecker were urged yesterday to deposit their bonds if they wish to receive new securities under the reorganization plan. The notice said that only bonds deposited not later than July 25 will be included in the plan. Nondepositing bond holders will receive their prorata share of the proceeds of a foreclosure sale to be held Aug. 1. Ecker is vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

DROUTH IN CROP BELT ADVANCES WHEAT PRICES

September Delivery Touches 80 Cents.

The price of wheat in American markets advanced last week on reports that drouth prevailed in the spring grain area in the northwest, and that the prospective yield in some areas was being rapidly reduced.

Wheat prices on the Chicago Board of Trade had a range of about 6½ cents a bushel, with the September selling at 80 cents at one time after having been traded early in the week at 73⅝ cents, a new low since September, 1939.

Moisture Lacking Recently.

Chicago crop experts, in commenting on the reports of damage to the spring wheat crop, said that July is the critical month in determining the yield per acre. Because of excellent moisture conditions early in the season the wheat plant made unusually heavy growth, but moisture has been insufficient in the last six weeks.

Heavy rains which fell last week in parts of the southwest delayed harvesting of winter wheat, but were highly favorable for the new corn crop which is rapidly coming into the tasseling stage, or the critical period of its growth.

Week's Range of Prices.

Following are last week's prices:

Wheat.

	High.	Low.	Close July 6.	Close June 29.

Wheat Supply Near Record in North America

North America's supply of wheat after the present harvest will total about 1 billion 370 million bushels, the second largest amount in history, crop observers said yesterday.

Of this amount, after deducting the normal consumption of Canada and the United States and allowing for normal annual carryovers, approximately 680 million bushels will remain as an exportable surplus. This is more than 100 million bushels above normal annual world export requirements.

A vast part of the surplus is Canada's. That country, which consumes only about 125 million bushels of wheat a year, has a total expected crop of about 440 million bushels, plus a carryover of 255 million bushels. The normal carryover is 50 million bushels.

Storage Is Problem.

Faced with the largest wheat supplies in Canadian history, authorities of the dominion have expressed concern over storage facilities. In addition to the bumper wheat crop, heavy harvests of small grains and corn are expected.

The United States has an estimated total crop of 725 million bushels plus a carryover from 1939 of 280 million bushels. Annual domestic requirements are about 670 million bushels, and the annual carryover averages 175 million bushels. This leaves a surplus available for export of 160 million bushels.

Exceeded Only in 1932.

This year's supply has been exceeded only by the 1 billion 750 million bushels on hand at the end of the 1931-'32 harvests. However, export markets that season included most of Europe. Now the United Kingdom is the sole buyer in a position to import the grain.

Altho America has a huge surplus, Europe, with its dense population and intense cultivation, is faced with one of the smallest grain crops of the last 10 years, observers said.

Chicago, Southern Air Lines Reports Big Gain in Traffic

Chicago and Southern Air Lines reported yesterday that it carried 16,791 revenue passengers in the first six months of 1940, an increase of 69.6 per cent over 9,901 reported for the first half of 1939. June traffic was 118 per cent larger than a year ago.

NEW PEAKS SET IN MONTGOMERY WARD BUSINESS

June Volume Climbs to $43,104,316.

New sales records were established by Montgomery Ward & Co. in June and the first five months of its fiscal year, according to figures made public yesterday at Chicago headquarters of the company. Ward is the oldest and second largest mail order and chain store organization in the country.

Last month's volume of business reached $43,104,316, compared with $41,301,572 a year ago, an increase of $1,802,744, or 4.36 per cent. Sales for the first five months of the fiscal year beginning on Feb. 1 totaled $204,237,361, against $185,913,831 a year earlier, a gain of $18,323,530, or 9.86 per cent.

Expansion Is Widespread.

Officials of the company said the increase was divided about equally between mail order and retail store divisions, and said the expansion was apparent in about equal degree in various sections of the country.

In its business with about 10 million mail order customers in all parts of the United States and many other countries, and transactions thru about 620 retail stores in all states except Delaware, the company has recorded a virtually uninterrupted upward trend of sales within recent years.

Set Peak in Last Year.

Sales for 1939 fell slightly below those of 1938, which had set a peak in a series of records up to that time, but business for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1940, resumed the upward trend to establish a high mark of $474,882,032, largest since organization of the business in 1872.

Business of Sears, Roebuck & Co., the largest in its field, also recorded new peaks in June and the first five months of the year, according to figures issued within the last few days. The Walgreen company is another national organization operating from Chicago that set fresh peaks in business volume.

5% Secured Gold Notes due September 1, 1938

Montgomery Division First Mortgage 5% Bonds due 1947

FORECLOSURE SALE OF THE MOBILE AND OHIO RAILROAD PROPERTIES HAS BEEN ORDERED TO BE HELD AT MOBILE, ALABAMA, ON AUGUST 1, 1940. Upset prices have been set by the Court. All bonds favoring the Reorganization and Consolidation Plan should be deposited with The New York Trust Company, Depositary, New York, N. Y., NOT LATER THAN JULY 25, 1940.

Under equity receivership only those bonds deposited under the Plan are entitled to obtain the new securities. The only alternative is to receive in cash the distributive share of the proceeds of sale. Although the exact amount thus to be paid to non-assenting bonds cannot be determined prior to the completion of the sale, the Reorganization Committee estimates that upon the basis of upset prices already fixed by the Court the amount applicable to the securities involved will not exceed approximately $182.00 per $1,000 Refunding and Improvement 4½% Bond due 1977; $218.00 per $1,000 5% Secured Note due 1938; and $163.00 per $1,000 Montgomery Division First Mortgage 5% Bond due 1947.

Bondholders who have not already deposited their securities should obtain Letters of Transmittal and copies of the Plan of Reorganization immediately from The New York Trust Company, New York, N. Y., or Mr. John E. Morrison, Sr., Committee Representative, 20 Pine Street, New York, N. Y., telephone WHitehall 3-7474.

Corn Shows Promise.

July 7, 1940.

THE corn crop at the Du Page county farm was given its last cultivation nearly a week ago and appears to need only favorable weather from now until harvest time to show a good yield. Cool winds and chilly nights last week checked growth of the corn, but the plants are as high as usual for this time of year, altho not nearly so tall as this time last season. Most of the corn thruout the corn belt grew faster and matured earlier than usual last year.

Altho rains have been plentiful since the corn was planted there has been little good corn growing weather all season. Farmers like hot sunshine and warm nights for corn.

Grass and Weeds Cut.

All the corn was cultivated three times with harrows or rotary hoe type cultivators soon after it was planted. Then it was given two row cultivations, with the cultivators equipped with sweep shovels to shear off the grass and weeds. The corn was drilled and could not be cross cultivated.

Most of the corn rows are clean. There is some quack grass in the rows in one field, and another field has a few scattered wild mustard plants. The manager says getting the ground in excellent condition before planting was all that saved the corn from serious damage from grass and weeds in the rows during the wet weather in May and June when cultivators could not be used.

Drilling corn instead of checking it is a common practice at the farm. The men believe that drilled corn usually produces higher yields than checked corn unless the ground is unusually rich. They believe there is an advantage in the more even distribution of the plants within the rows, except when there is an abundance of plant food in the soil.

Early Cultivation Advised.

The men sometimes have trouble in wet seasons keeping down grass and weeds in the rows of drilled corn, but this can be largely remedied by preparing a good seed bed before planting and giving the fields frequent shallow cultivations before the corn comes thru the ground or while the plants still are small.

So far none of the corn at the farm has been damaged by insects. Farmers in all sections of Illinois have reported trouble from various kinds of insects in corn fields this year. Many fields had to be replanted because of injury to the seed. In others the plants were damaged or destroyed after they were big enough to be cultivated.

W. P. Flint, chief entomologist of the state natural history survey, says tiny white grubs, the larvæ of an insect known as the grape colaspis, now are damaging thousands of acres of corn and soy beans thruout Illinois. The grubs eat off the feeding hairs of the corn roots, causing the plants to starve, Flint explains. In corn attacked by the insects the outer leaves turn red and the plants virtually stop growing, he says.

Chicago motorcycle policemen practicing daring stunts to be performed next Sunday afternoon in Soldiers' field during third annual Police and Fire Thrill show. Captions tell names of tricks portrayed above. The 30 man balancing act on five moving motorcycles, it was stated, is a feat skeptics said never could be accomplished. Lieut. William A. Gainer, chief of the motorcycle division, will be in charge of this feature of the entertainment.
